Worry in Europe.
$250,000,000. Quickly.
Foolish Education.
A Case for Europides.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

FRANCE, WORRYING about the imitation Mussolini in Germany and the hostility of the real Mussolini, faces, as extra complication, a serious adverse trade balance, amounting to more than two billion francs for the first two months of this year, with imports increasing.

That sort of trade must eventually mean loss in gold reserves.

FRANCE KNOWS what it is to suffer debt repudiation on a big scale. For years patriotic Frenchmen and women invested their savings in Russian bonds. Russia was the friend and ally of France. Friendship must be appreciated.

That friendly impulse has cost the French people in hard cash more than six thousand million dollars, due to Soviet repudiation of czarist obligations. This amounts to more than half the ten billions that the United States will probably lose in Europe.

BRITAIN GROWS daily more angry and anxious in connection with the imprisonment of four Englishmen, accused of sabotage in Moscow. The charge is that they sought to ruin the Soviet's $100,000,000 investment in the Dnieprostrol Dam, completed last May.

The firm employing the imprisoned Englishmen supplied steel for a gigantic turbo-generator at the dam, and the blades of the turbines, made of the hardest steel, are found badly corroded. Russia says the Englishmen poured sand or acid into them.

THE BRITISH ambassador is not allowed to see the prisoners, and their friends fear they may be compelled by third-degree brutality to confess guilt which is not real.

British correspondents in Russia doubt that Stalin would permit an error so serious and brutal.

Europe's peace hopes are not improved by that complication.

ABRAM FITKIN, successful business man and philanthropist, just dead, reminds you that this is the country of opportunity. Abram Fitkin started as a preacher, decided that others could do that work better than he, went into business, starting in earnest in 1912.

Eighteen years later, he had made two hundred and fifty million dollars. Such great fortunes may be wrong, but probably are not. Whatever you make you leave behind. The average white man wants unnecessary millions as a reward for hard work. The average savage in Africa wants many unnecessary fat wives as a reward for fighting lions.

It is wise to give each savage the reward that he demands, and thus secure for the community the best work that is in him.

THE HARVARD TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION says examinations for admission to colleges, and school examinations generally, are based on a false system.

Dean Holmes usefully pricked one foolish educational bubble, denying that "all study trains minds." At least half the study in preparatory schools, high schools and colleges stupefies minds of boys and girls.

A FATHER asks some learned pedagogue:

"Why do you waste a boy's few years of study and good memory on things that will be of no use to 999 out of 1,000 —Greek, Latin, mathematics?"

He is told:

"Any kind of studious concentration TRAINS the mind."

That reply might be made by a Mohammedan pedagogue compelling boys to waste brains and memory learning the Koran by heart.

Waste in education is as stupid as other waste. When he is ten years out of college, the average boy knows his ABC's, the multiplication table, and not much else, except vaguely.

Our whole educational system is only one short step ahead of the Mohammedan teacher sitting on his platform, with a long bamboo rod in his hand to hit the head of any boy reciting incorrectly.

IN PHILADELPHIA Gilbert Friend, mail clerk, 28 years old, lost his wife last December. He wrote on a photograph of himself, wife and three children:

"Parted, December 17, 1932 —reunited March 17, 1933."

Police found the photograph after Friend had dressed his three young children in their best clothes, killed all three, stretched them out across the grave of their mother and then killed himself.

His last message was:

"I do as I believe right. May God forgive me if I am wrong."

Only another Euripides could do justice to such a tragedy.

MEN APPLYING for jobs hereafter may be tested by a machine that tells whether the person tested is of the "obsessional type" or of the "median, normal type." The machine is used by some employing corporations and by a branch of the Y. M. C. A. in New York City.

The man tested holds an electrically wired pencil and is expected to touch certain dots or performations as they appear on the machine. The decision of the machine is said to be remarkably exact. It was suggested by British psychologists and perfected by the Western Electric, a branch of the American Telephone Company.

ROOSEVELT ASKS DIRECT U. S. AID

Message Will Urge 500 Million Grant To States

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt is expected by his close advisors to send a message to Congress within the next few days recommending an emergency unemployment relief fund of $500,000,000 for direct grants to the states.

The president also probably will include in his immediate emergency program a $40,000,000 appropriation out of the unexpended funds in the Treasury to begin his gigantic reforestation program.

These proposals, which the President regards of immediate urgency, will be submitted to Congress in a special message probably as soon as the House passes farm relief legislation, expected by Wednesday.

LATER PROGRAM

A more permanent and far-reaching program of relief for the jobless will be submitted later, probably based upon legislation introduced today by Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York, for liberalizing construction loans through the Reconstruction Corporation.

The $500,000,000 proposal for direct relief was submitted to the President by the committee which has been studying the proposal for him, composed of Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor; and Senators Wagner and Costigan (Dem.), of Colorado, and La-Follette (Rep.), of Wisconsin.

It provides for administration of the fund under a relief director responsible solely to the President himself. The money would be advanced from the Reconstruction Corporation, under additional borrowing power conferred upon it by the bill.

The legislation will mark the federal government's first move in the field of direct relief. It is drafted along the lines of the old LaFollette-Costigan bill which the Senate rejected in the last session for the Wagner loan measure.

REFORESTATION PLAN

Whether the President would include any of his reforestation program in the immediate emergency plan had not been definitely determined. It was believed by his advisors, however, that he would propose appropriation of a $40,000,000 unexpended balance in the Treasury to start the plan.

Eventually it is contemplated that a bond issue of $500,000,000 shall be floated to put some 200,000 men to work on reforestation and similar jobs.

Wagner introduced in the Senate today three bills looking toward a long range attack on the unemployment problem.

The first would liberalize the law under which the Reconstruction Corporation can lend for public construction projects. Loans would be permissible for all projects deemed "needful and in the public interest" without being actually "self-liquidating."

He also offered legislation providing for the creation of a nation-wide system of employment offices through co-operation of the federal and state governments.

A third bill, designed to encourage creation of unemployment insurance funds, would exempt from taxation one-third of the funds used by corporations for this purpose.

All three bills come within the general outlines of President Roosevelt's expressions on unemployment relief and are believed to have his support.

The employment system measure was vetoed by former President Hoover two years ago, but Miss Perkins testified at that time in favor of it and undoubtedly would recommend it to the President.

Jeff De Angelis, Operetta Star, Dies

ORANGE, N. J., March 20.—(AP.)—Jefferson De Angelis, actor since his childhood days and one of the stars of the nineteenth century American light opera stage, died today at the Orange Memorial Hospital. He was 74.

Her Case Set Back

MILDRED G. GOODMAN

Mrs. Goodman, the former 'Follies' girl suing the Bradford (Pa.) Goodmans for $100,000 for alienation of her husband's affections, whose case today at Erie was moved from this week's to September's Federal Court calendar because of the illness of her mother-in-law.

ECONOMY BILL SIGNED BY F. R.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt this afternoon interrupted his luncheon being served on his office desk and signed into law the economy bill empowering him to slash veterans' compensations and government salaries.

With this weapon, he intends to lop off about $500,000,000 from federal expenses.

He had his aides already busy preparing the new schedule of salaries and veterans' allowances, and expected to put these into effect before the next pay day comes along on April 1.

A minimum saving of $280,000,000 through reduced veterans' compensations and $100,000,000 in lowered salaries is contemplated in the administration moves to get the budget balanced within a year. Another hundred million or more of savings is expected within a year.

3.2 PCT. BEER WINS, FINAL VOTE NEAR

Wine Stays in Bill, Ready for Signature Of F. R. Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(AP.)—Final enactment of the beer bill became a matter of hours today as Congressional conferees agreed to legalize a 3.2 per cent brew.

The conferees also agreed to retain the Senate amendment permitting wine and fruit juices of the same alcoholic content, and rejected the Borah amendment to prohibit sale of the beverages to children under 16 years of age.

Opponents of the Borah amendment have insisted the matter of such regulation should properly be left to the states.

The conference agreement was reached in less than two hours, after representatives of various wine interests had been consulted about the possibility of making wine of that alcoholic content.

Chairman Harrison, of the Senate conferees, said the report would be submitted to the Senate this afternoon. He predicted its approval by nightfall.

Harrison said, however, that House leaders probably would not attempt to complete final action on the bill until tomorrow, because of a rule that conference reports lie over a day.

Meanwhile, the House adjourned shortly after 2 o'clock—preventing any chance of final action before tomorrow.

In adopting the 3.2 per centage, the conferees threw out the Senate amendment limiting the alcoholic content to 3.05, which was found by a British commission to be non-intoxicating.

Man Leaps to River From Liberty Bridge

Calmly laying his hat and coat on the Liberty Bridge at noon today, a man, believed to be Pete Sabo, climbed to the railing and jumped into the Monongahela River. His leap was witnessed by Brooks Michaels, 1496 Edgehill avenue, Dormont, who described the man as wearing a green shirt and gray trousers. Cards bearing the name Pete Sabo and several daily reports of the Publicity Distributing Company were found in the discarded coat.

LONDON, March 20.—(AP.)—Harry Hays Morgan, long in the American diplomatic service, died yesterday at the home of his daughter, Lady Furness. He was 73.

Lady Furness, who was Thelma Morgan, is the twin sister of Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt. Another daughter is Mrs. Benjamin Thaw, Jr., of Pittsburgh.

PLOT TO KILL HITLER FOILED

Hand Grenades Seized After 3 Suspects Flee at Munich

International News Service.

MUNICH, March 20.—Another plot against the life of Chancellor Adolf Hitler was thwarted by police today.

Only a few days ago, Count Anton Arco-Valley, who assassinated Former Premier Kurt Eisner, of Bavaria, in 1919, was arrested for plotting against the Nazi Chancellor's life.

Police announced that three leaders of the new conspiracy planned to end Hitler's life with a bomb. They escaped in an auto after placing a box containing hand grenades in front of the Richard Wagner statue near Hitler's apartment, police said, after witnesses became suspicious.

Heinrich Himmler, Munich chief of police and commander of Hitler's personal bodyguard, declared:

"Our leader is constantly in gravest danger. "But the moment the first shot is fired against our Chancellor, there will ensue a dreadful massacre of revenge such as no statesman's influence would be able to prevent.

"In the present state of mind of the German people, a single shot would precipitate a blood bath and pogrom such as the world has never seen."

TO GUARD REICHSTAG

BERLIN, March 20.—(AP.)—Strict precautions for public safety were being taken today in preparation for the assembly tomorrow of the German Reichstag elected March 5.

Persons living near the Potsdam Garrison church, where the opening ceremonies are to be conducted by President von Hindenburg and Chancellor Hitler, have been asked not to leave their homes while the program is being carried out. It also was requested that no bouquets be thrown.

New York Mass Meeting Protests Hitlerism

NEW YORK, March 20.—(AP.)—A call went out today for the Jews of the United States to set aside a day—tentatively fixed for next Monday—for a united protest against the treatment of Jews in Germany by the Nazis. The New York mass protest will be held in Madison Square Garden.

A resolution calling for the protest was passed last night at a meeting sponsored by the American Jewish Congress after Dr. Stephen S. Wise, noted rabbi of the Free Synagogue, demanded that Jews speak out against what he assailed as "the damnable outrages of Hitlerism."

'I NO AFRAID,' KILLER CRIES FROM CHAIR

Rages at Capitalists For Absence of Cameramen

RAIFORD, Fla., March 20.—(AP.)—Giuseppe Zangara, the little Italian immigrant who hated all government, was electrocuted at 9:15 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time) today for murdering Mayor Anton J. Cermak, of Chicago, in an attempt to assassinate President Roosevelt.

He went to the chair with the same defiance he had maintained since the night he fired wildly into a crowd assembled in Miami February 15 to extend a greeting to the then President-elect.

It was 9:11 a. m. when he entered the death chamber, barefooted and dressed in striped trousers and white shirt open at the neck. Two guards accompanied him, but as he approached the chair, Zangara said:

"Don't hold me, I no afraid of chair."

The guards released him and Zangara took his seat as though he were sitting down for a lunch, first striding over to Supt. L. F. Chapman and handing him a sheaf of papers on which he had inscribed:

"Here is that book I have been writing."

'I NO AFRAID'

As he surveyed the 30 witnesses and attendants in the room, he repeated:

"I no afraid that chair, see!"

Then as the straps were adjusted about his hands and legs, he said:

Supt. Chapman replied "No." Just before the attendants

Saxophone Player's Wife Takes Poison

Mrs. Fay Porter, 28-year-old wife of Dell Porter, saxophone player in Smith Ballew's Orchestra playing at the William Penn Hotel, is a patient in Mercy Hospital facing a charge of disorderly conduct, as a result of swallowing eight poison tablets late last night in her hotel suite, according to police.

Mrs. Porter's husband was in the room when she is alleged to have taken the tablets. He summoned an automobile and drove her to the hospital where her condition was reported as not serious.

Fog Spoils View For Mrs. Roosevelt

LURAY, Va., March 20.—(AP.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt made a trip into Virginia yesterday to visit the celebrated Luray caverns.

Fog which hung over the mountains spoiled the view of the beautiful Blue Ridge scenery, and Mrs. Roosevelt said she was keenly disappointed.

Chicago Co-ed Dies In Window Plunge

CHICAGO, March 20.—(AP.)—Ada Lou Dodge, 21-year-old junior at the University of Chicago, died today of injuries suffered in a plunge from an upstairs window of her home.

REOPEN 9 MORE DISTRICT BANKS

The Potter Title and Trust Company today had its license from the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland to reopen for unrestricted business. The license came as further evidence that banks which did not receive their licenses to operate at the end of the national bank holiday were not necessarily unfit to open.

Opening of the Potter, one of the old-line institutions of Pittsburgh, will affect hundreds of attorneys and city and county employes.

Eight other Western Pennsylvania banks granted licenses to reopen included the Second National Bank and the Washington National Bank, Burgettstown; First National Bank, Garrett; Second National Bank, Connellsville; First National Bank, Irwin; Peoples National, Tarentum; Citizens' National, Tionesta; First National, Warren.

Conservators were named for the First National Bank and Trust Company of Bedford, the First National Bank of Johnstown and the United States National Bank at Johnstown.

Meanwhile, the period for turning hoarded gold into the Federal Reserve Bank, without penalty, was extended until March 27.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(INS.)—The House today passed the Steagall bill designed to give state banks, which are not members of the Federal Reserve System, equal rights with National banks under the general emergency bank legislation.

The measure was presented as a substitute for the Robinson bill passed by the Senate, and it now goes to that body.

Gov. Pinchot Ill With Food Poisoning

HARRISBURG, March 20.—(INS.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot was confined to the executive mansion today with a "slight attack of ptomaine poisoning."

The poisoning is believed to have been caused by crab meat which the Governor ate Friday. A statement said the Governor would be able to return to his office at the Capitol Tuesday.

KLINE 'ESCAPE' PLEA ADVANCED

Mayor Kline's plan to escape a jail term by resigning on account of ill health moved forward today when the Pennsylvania Supreme Court granted a petition to remit his case to Judge Thomas D. Finletter.

Soon after the Supreme Court had convened here today, Chief Justice Robert S. Frazer announced from the bench:

"We have received the petition from counsel of Charles H. Kline asking that the record be remitted to the Quarter Sessions Court of Butler County for the purpose of reconsidering the matters set forth in the petition. We are of the opinion that the record should be sent back."

Justice Frazer added that meanwhile no action would be taken by the high court on Kline's appeal from his sentence by Judge Finletter to pay a fine of $5,000 and serve six months in jail following his conviction on one count of a malfeasance charge.

The next step is to formally petition Judge Finletter for modification of sentence. First, however, District Attorney A. T. Park will ask Judge Finletter to authorize the naming of three physicians to examine the Mayor.

Thousands Flee Flooded Ohio River in 4 States

International News Service.

Madly rushing flood torrents continued rising in the Ohio River valley today, leaving widespread damages and a known death toll of seven, while the citizenry of four states joined hands to battle the ravages of the swirling high waters, the hazards of disease and to extend relief.

The Ohio River at Cincinnati passed the 61-foot level this morning and was continuing to surge higher at the rate of 1-30 of a foot an hour. Flood stage at Cincinnati is 52 feet. Rivermen here predicted that the waters would reach a crest of 64 feet before midnight.

Ohio National Guardsmen this afternoon were assigned to flood duty, protection of property and relief work in inundated areas of the Ohio river valley.

Flood torrents of the Ohio surged within two inches of the top of the river wall protecting the city of Portsmouth, O., this afternoon and continued to rise at a rate of one-half inch an hour. At 1 o'clock this afternoon, the river's stage was recorded at 58.3 feet. The wall can hold 60 feet.

Although residents of the city stood prepared to flee at a moment's notice, the river wall was expected to withstand the strain of the whirling flood waters. It was believed the crest of the flood would be reached soon.

A proclamation, warning residents to be ready to flee to higher levels, was issued by the mayor of Portsmouth yesterday.

A second flood threat within a week apparently had passed today as spring was ready to be ushered in.

Yesterday's rains halted the waters receding from last week's flood and started them back up again. The stage at the Point this afternoon was 23.3 feet and stationery, 1.7 feet below flood mark. Only continued heavy rains would cause a secondary rise. Forecaster W. S. Brotzman asserted.

Spring arrives at 8:43 p. m. today, according to Weather Bureau records, that being the moment the sun crosses the equator.

Suitor, Blaming Woman, Ends Life With Gun

Leaving a note in which he criticized the woman he loved, William H. Ketzenmeyer, Jr., 28, of 231 Gross street, shot himself to death early today, acording to a police report.

The body was found on the rear porch of the home of Mrs. Rose Goodnow, 30, of 630 Broadway, West Park, Stowe Township, by Mrs. Goodnow and Paul Clifford, 35, of 126 Olympia street, Duquesne Heights, police said. The gun lay at his side, one chamber empty.

The note was addressed to Ketzenmeyer's father and sister.

Mrs. Goodnow admitted to the Coroner that she and Ketzenmeyer had been friends. She said that Ketzenmeyer visited her a few minutes last night and had left about 8:30. Shortly after midnight, Mrs. Goodnow said, she heard a noise on the back porch and then a shot rang out.

RULES MIXUP SNARLS BLUE LAW BATTLE IN SENATE

M'CLURE MAY HAVE SCHWARTZ BILL REVIVED

No Assurance Final Action Will Be Had This Week

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, March 20.—Even though Senator John J. McClure, doing an about-face on the defeated Schwartz Sunday Blue Law bill, may succeed tonight in his effort to have the measure reconsidered in the Senate, there is no assurance there will be final action on the bill this week.

A parliamentary tangle has arisen to becloud the situation.

At the same time McClure seeks to regain favor of the liberals, lost last week when he voted against the Schwartz bill. The House is expected to act finally on the Steedle bill, providing the most elemental form of local option on all forms of Sunday observance.

RULES INTERFERE

There are Senators who like some provisions of this bill better than the Schwartz measure. They want the chance to vote on it. Yet if the Schwartz bill should be reconsidered and then defeated, there are rules interpreters who insist that the Senate would be precluded from voting on the Schwartz bill under the proviso that the same legislation shall not be the subject of a second bill if the first is defeated.

For that reason an effort in the Senate may be made to delay the Schwartz bill until the Steedle measure can catch up to it, then a decision will be taken on which the liberalists will press to a final issue.

LOCAL OPTION

The Steedle bill provides local option on all manner of amusement, including theaters. The Schwartz bill is confined to baseball and football. The chief difference in procedure is that the Schwartz bill repeals the Blue Laws, and puts the burden of the strict Sunday on those who wish it. The Steedle bill leaves the Blue Laws undisturbed, but puts the initiative for local repeal upon liberals.

McClure, if he succeeds in having the Schwartz measure reconsidered, will offer amendments providing state-wide and local referenda on the Blue Laws at the November election.

This afternoon no Senator who voted against the Schwartz bill last week, when it was defeated 26 to 24, had indicated an intention to second the McClure motion, as is required by the rules. Predictions were optimistic, however, that this vote would be raked up.

The House is scheduled to get tonight the Sowers liquor control bill. Chief controversy on this measure centers on the manner in which retail licenses shall be issued. In its present form the bill provides for license by county courts, except in Philadelphia and possibly Allegheny, where liquor commissions can be set up.

RELIEF BILL UP IN ASSEMBLY

HARRISBURG, March 20.—(AP.)—Whether the Legislature is to adjourn April 13, as planned, or continue until summer, depends on important decisions to be made and definite action to be taken in this, the twelfth week of the present session.

The Assembly tonight plunges into its bussiest week, which, for the first time this season, is to run through Thursday.

The Talbot bill appropriating $22,500,000 for jobless relief is to be considered in first reading tonight. While the Republican organization has not definitely adopted this measure, its leaders believe it will be formally approved this week. If so, the bill will be acted on finally by the House Wednesday, and go to the Senate for concurrence and minor amendments.

However, Gov. Pinchot's approval must be gained before the bill can be pushed to final enactment. Republican leaders are to confer with him this week in an effort to reconcile differences on important legislative matters. Collapse of the conference would result in a session lasting until summer.

FARM BILL VOTE BY WEDNESDAY

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(AP.)—Pasage of the administration's emergency farm bill in the House by Wednesday night was predicted today by Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, the Democratic leader.

Byrns said the bill would be ready for consideration on the floor tomorrow and that two or three hours of general debate was planned before the measure is read for amendments.

The Tennessean said he favored permitting members to offer amendments instead of employing an iron clad rule to push the measure through unchanged.

The Democratic leader said his party had ample strength to protect the measure from any amendments considered harmful by Secretary Wallace and his advisors.

The measure is designed to boost the purchasing power of the farmers by curtailing production of basic commodities and levying a processing tax to raise funds for paying growers benefits or rent on withdrawn acreage.

Pinchot's Charges Draw Turner's Fire

HARRISBURG, March 20.—(INS.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot's charge that organization Republicans are "playing politics" at the expense of the state's poor and unemployed today was met with a sharp retort from Rep. Ellwood J. Turner, Delaware.

Turner accused the Governor of "laying down a barrage and smoke screen to divert the public gaze from reports showing multiplication of bureaus, duplication and extravagance in the operation of the state government."

Socialists Condemn Community Markets

READING, March 20.—(AP.)—Condemning the present state community market, the Socialist party of Pennsylvania urges establishment of state-owned and operated markets where employed and unemployed workers could buy food at cost.

About 200 delegates from party units, meeting yesterday, adopted a resolution declaring the present system "robs workers of their human rights to select foods which best accord with their needs and customs."

RAILWAY CHIEFS SEE ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt today took up the railroad problem in a conference with railway executves with a view to early congressional action.

Those attending the White House conference included J. J. Pelley, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford; F. E. Williamson, president of the New York Central; Carl Gray, president of the Union Pacific; and Prof. A. A. Berle, an advisor of the President.

The group maintained strict silence on its conversation with the President, but there was a rather definite hint that Mr. Roosevelt had some railroad legislation in mind for early consideration by Congress.

This same group consulted with the President last summer before he made his railroad speech at Salt Lake City in which he proposed that the government announce its intention to stand behind the national transportation system until it was again on a going basis. In the same speech, he called also for a national transportation system in which rail, air, and water methods would be united.

F. R. WILL SPEED DEBT PARLEY

By FULTON LEWIS
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—President Roosevelt will open debt negotiations with Europe at once. He will urge all possible speed in calling the pending world economic conference, in the hope of aiding the conference in Rome to achieve some real progress toward continental disarmament.

This was learned on highest authority by Universal Service, as the White House planned to receive the British ambassador within 10 days to set a definite date for discussion of that country's debt, probably some time in April. Diplomatic representatives of France, Italy and other debtor nations will be received in rapid succession.

PARIS, March 20.—(AP.)—Premier Edouard Daladier, it was believed in the Chamber of Deputies lobbies today, is ready to declare shortly for the payment of the $19,000,000 owed the United States.

The Premier talked lengthily with Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour yesterday regarding the problem which was brought to issue by Deputy Rene Richard's resolution in the chamber. Former Premier Edouard Herriot expected to push it through the foreign affairs committee within a week.

PUBLIC WORKS BILL PROPOSED BY DEMOCRATS

State Caucus to Map Program for Federal Aid to State

A bill to create a state emergency public works commission to promote public work improvements, has been prepared by the County Democratic delegation and probably will be presented tonight in the Legislature, it was announced today.

David Lawrence, county chairman, was prepared to discuss the proposed legislation tonight at the weekly Democratic caucus in Harrisburg.

This move of the local Democrats is said to be the groundwork for the gigantic public works program of President Roosevelt. Last week City Engineer Charles M. Reppert received word from Washington to immediately prepare a list of all sanitary sewer projects which could be gotten underway. He was to forward the information through the State Health Department, stating the amount needed and just how soon the work could be started.

COYNE, PINCHOT O. K.

The works bill is said to have the support of Senator James J. Coyne and to meet the approval of Gov. Pinchot. It is expected that Representative John J. Kane will present it in the House and Senator Coyne will introduce it in the Senate.

The men who prepared the bill are members of the sub-committee on public works reserves of the Allegheny County Emergency Association's long range plan committee. The committee is composed of Dr. Francis Tyson and J. Paul Watson, of the University of Pittsburgh; Frederick Bigger, city planner; Nathan R. Jacobs, former Mayor William A. Magee and E. N. Hunting and Charles A. Carpenter, of the National Committee for Trade Recovery.

Mr. Carpenter declared the first duty of the commission would be to help small municipalities take advantage of the President's program and prepare plans for projects which could be constructed through federal appropriations or loans.

AID TO FUNDS

A state public works commission as proposed by the bill would be a powerful agency for the promotion of public works in the state and obtaining funds for such projects from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, its planners say. It was pointed out that a similar commission already is functioning in New York state.

The objectives of such a commission would be to tabulate lists of public works projects for emergency construction, to create employment as an interim program created by the emergency; to prepare and recommend for adoption by local and state governments drafts of legislation establishing official planning bodies and to study and recommend in general terms such type of legislation which would encourage reforms of financial and taxing procedure particularly related to the execution of public works.

It also would result in the establishment of long-term programs of public works construction and expenditure.

17 STATES ACT FOR REPEAL

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(AP.)—Jouett Shouse, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, reported today in a statement that legislatures in 17 states had completed "machinery necessary for conventions to consider repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment."

He listed them as Alabama, Arkansas, Idaho, Indiana, Michigan, Montana, New Mexico, New Jersey, Ohio, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

He said:

"Repeal is on the way. We believe that provisions for conventions to consider repeal will have been made by approximately 40 legislatures within the next few weeks."

Shouse said seven states had arranged for the delegates to be selected by the state at large in popular elections, asserting this provided the soundest test of sentiment. They were listed as Idaho, New Mexico, Ohio, Utah, Vermont, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

JAPS GO BEYOND GREAT WALL

TOKIO, March 20.—(AP.)—A Japanese infantry brigade was reported today to have occupied Sahochiao, a town in North China proper about 90 miles northeast of Peiping.

This is nine miles into the undisputed Chinese territory south of the Great Wall, which the Japanese command said would not be invaded unless Chinese operations forced such action. It is on a highway leading to Peiping.

A Rengo (Japanese) News Agency dispatch from Hsifengkow, most important Great Wall pass in the central section of the southern Jehol border, said Maj. Gen. Heijiro Hattori's 14th Infantry brigade took the town to end repeated counter-attacks on Hsifenkow.

About 1,000 Chinese were reported killed in severe fighting in that area which has persisted for several days.

Ex-War Lord's Home Bombed in Shanghai

SHANGHAI, China, March 20.—(AP.)—The home of Chang Hsiao-Liang, retired commander of the Chinese Army, was damaged by a bomb today but no one was injured. He lives in the French concession.

A few days ago the Marshal received a threatening letter demanding contribution of one-third of his fortune to finance resistance against Japanese invasion.

F. R., La Follettes Confer on Russia

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(INS.)—Philip La Follette, former Governer of Wisconsin, accompanied by his brother, Senator Robert M. La Follette, called on President Roosevelt today and discussed Russian conditions at some length.

Philip La Follette has just returned from Russia. He has been frequently mentioned for appointment as ambassador to the Soviet in event of American recognition.

U. S. INCLUDED IN MUSSOLINI PEACE PLAN

Proposal Not Limited To Continent, Says MacDonald

ROME, March 20.—(AP.)—The new Mussolini peace plan will not be limited to Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy, but will embrace the whole continent and even the United States to a certain extent, Premier Ramsay MacDonald said in an interview today.

The British statesman made the statement before leaving for Paris to urge Premier Edouard Daladier, of France, to approve the project. He bid farewell to Signor Mussolini and French Ambassador de Jouvenel. Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, remains in Rome for further sightseeing.

REFUSES DETAILS

Mr. MacDonald refused to divulge any details, but said:

"Our whole idea is to open up the possibility of complete agreement, not between two, three, four, five or six powers, but all nations concerned."

An official Italian announcement yesterday said "collaboration of the four powers" was proposed in Premier Benito Mussolini's plan, but no details were made public.

Mr. MacDonald said:

"We are not proceeding with an idea of two or three agreeing and imposing this agreement on others."

Asked regarding the part of the United States, he replied:

"We are not overlooking the United States by any means. We need her, too. The American government will be kept fully informed concerning the negotiations."

Chancellor Hitler, of Germany, and Premier Daladier, of France, are expected to join Mr. MacDonald and Signor Mussolini in a later conference in Northern Italy if it is decided further details should be discussed. It is understood Mr. MacDonald will ask the French Premier his views on such a conference.

The French and German governments already have copies of the Mussolini project. An official announcement said it proposed "collaboration of the four powers in an effort to promote, in the spirit of the Kellogg pact and a 'no force' declaration, a long period of peace for Europe and the world."

U. S. Welcomes Plan For 'Realistic' Peace

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(INS.)—The United States would welcome any European plan that provides for the maintenance of "sane and realistic" peace.

This was the response today of high administration officials to the proposal of Premier Mussolini, of Italy, for a four-power European pact to preserve and control peace in the old world for at least five years.

This government considers the plan a purely European matter and considers it would be "premature" for the United States to express any opinion on it until the attitude of France and Germany was known.

However, officials did not hesitate to say they thought the principle of Mussolini's proposal for the maintenance of European peace was the most important step in the direction of world peace taken by Europe since the signing of the armistice.

Meanwhile, it was revealed that Norman H. Davis, chief of the American disarmament delegation, plans to see Premier MacDonald on his way to Geneva. Davis will sail for Geneva via London on Thursday.

News of Abruzzi's Death Made Public

ROME, March 20.—(AP.)—Today's newspapers published for the first time news of the death on Saturday of the Duke of the Abruzzi, cousin of the King. The announcement was withheld last week so there would be no interference with the reception of Prime Minister MacDonald, of Great Britain.

Retiring U. S. Envoy Feted by Hindenburg

BERLIN, March 20.—(AP.)—President Von Hindenburg was host this afternoon to a farewell luncheon for Frederic M. Sackett, retiring American ambassador, who sails for home on Wednesday. Chancellor Hitler and other government leaders were present.

Nudists Under Ban Turn To Trunks, Brassieres

By WALTER DIETZEL
International News Service.

BERLIN, March 20.—"What are we going to do about it? Why, we'll simply wear trunks and brassieres."

Leaders of Germany's largest nudist colony thus surrendered today to the recent edict of the Hitler government banning nude culture, the fast growing custom which had gained 150,000 adherents. They insisted, however, that these concessions to modesty would not alter the fundamental factors involved in twentieth-century sun worship. One man said:

"The men will wear bathing trunks, and the women likewise, while in addition they will wear dainty brassieres.

"Our modistes are designing special 'sun suits' for women, symbolic of the awakening of Germany. They will enable a maximum exposure of skin to the sun and air.

"Our practice of holding nude mixed bathing meetings at the Berlin municipal pool once a week have been halted voluntarily until we determine whether the government's decree applies to secluded bathing by registered members of nudist colonies.

"After all, the nudist movement has always been nationalistic. Many of our members are Nazis and Nationalists.

"The nudist organizations have aided public health by giving violet ray baths and other free treatments to the poor. We have no objection to police supervision, for we are convinced they will find nothing immoral or unethical in our practices."

Another Gas Firm Cuts Rates for Big Users

Effective tomorrow the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company is putting into effect optional rates which it says will effect savings for those using 11,000 feet or more a month.

The company said it was a matter of regret that savings could not be passed on to the smaller consumers.

For the consumer of 15,000 or more feet a month, it is said, the savings will be approximately 15 cents a thousand.

The new rate, it is said, offers a reduction of 15 cents a thousand feet on all monthly consumption in excess of 15,000 feet and up to 100,000. Above 100,000 there is a further reduction of 3 cents. Above 15,000 feet the new rate will be, after the regular cash discount, 45 cents a thousand instead of the present 60 cents. Above 100,000 feet the new rate will be 42 cents a thousand.

The second, or optional, rate makes a saving after 11,000 feet have been consumed. It begins with a flat charge of 60 cents for the first 500 feet, with a net charge of 60 cents a thousand for the next 4,500 feet; 55 cents for the next 5,000; 50 cents for the next 15,000, 45 cents for the next 75,000, and 40 cents a thousand for all over 100,000 per month.

An additional schedule is arranged for churches, public schools and public hospitals.

JOAN DENIES DIVORCE AIM AFTER DATE WITH DOUG, JR.

ACTRESS HOLDS NO HOPE OF HEALING RIFT

Plans to Sell Home Of 'Perfect Love' Memories

International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, March 20.—"We haven't gone into the matter of a divorce."

That was what Joan Crawford insisted today after a "date" with her husband, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. Miss Crawford declared:

"There is no possibility of a reconciliation between Douglas and myself. This separation has been planned too long for that. However, I have no thought of divorce at this time."

The actress planned to leave Hollywood today for a few days' quiet retreat on the desert.

Hollywood reiterated that "screendom's perfect romance" had ended "merely because two people were unable to get along."

Young Fairbanks passed last night at the home of his manager, M. E. Levee.

Today he was to established residence at the Beverly-Wilshire Hotel, abode of many other Hollywood film stars.

Miss Crawford announced she would sell her beautiful Brentwood home where she and Fairbanks, Jr., had lived happily together since their marriage in New York in 1929. She said:

"The house is too full of memories for me to keep."

"For the time being I want utter seclusion for a chance to think things over."

Meanwhile, Jorgen Dietz, young Danish chemist, who filed a heart balm suit and a false imprisonment suit against Fairbanks, Jr., was expected to return to Hollywood today with his bride, Lucy Doraine, exotic brunette film actress. They were married in Phoenix and went to Mexico for their honeymoon.

SURGEON STABS SELF TO DEATH

EASTON, Pa., March 20.—(AP.)—Dr. Wilbur Laurin Hutchinson, 57, a surgeon who opened his office here last July, committed suicidt today, police said, by plunging a scalpel through his heart.

He was found by his mother, Mrs. Edith Martin Hutchison, 65, who lived with him. He left a brief note in which he placed the responsibility on himself, so that there would be no suspicion of foul play.

On a table was found a medical book opened to a page showing a diagram of the left side of the chest. The note lay on the opened pages of the book. It read:

"Dear Mother and Bill:

"After telephone communication, I openated entirely upon my own. Love and good bye.

"LAURIN."

The "Bill" referred to his brother, William Hutchison, of Pittsburgh. The knife Dr. Hutchison used was a five-and-a-half inch blade. After plunging it into his body, he withdrew it and laid it beside him on the couch on which he was lying.

Fence Post Saves Boy From Drowning

ATHENS, O., March 20.—(INS.)—Six-year-old Vern Border might have been listed among the flood casualties today but for a fence post.

Riding a coaster wagon downhill, he was hurled into Sunday Creek and carried downstream by swift-moving water. He finally caught hold of a post and held with all his might until his cries attracted rescuers.

Sunlight Blinds Jurors, Halts Trial

FAYETTEVILLE, W. Va., March 20.—(AP.)—A brilliant sun shining into the Fayette County court room today blinded jurymen and halted trial of more than 100 damage suits based on contentions that workmen contracted a lung disease in a tunnel bored through sandstone. A recess was ordered until shades could be placed upon the windows.

BRASLEY CASE HITS SNAG

The Allegheny County Bar Association's attempts to disbar Attorney Ben Paul Brasley struck a snag in the hearing opened today when Judges James R. Macfarlane and Frank P. Patterson insisted on more positive proof of the charges.

Attorney Joseph A. Richardson, for the Bar Association, produced a list of cases which were solicited for the firm of which Brasley is a member. Richardson explained that the accumulation of these cases would be offered as one line of proof against Brasley.

But twice Judge Macfarlane reminded Richardson that Brasley was the defendant against whom the charges were brought.

Brasley, the first witness, said that he had learned since the bar investigation of solicitation began that certain cases in his firm's office had been solicited. He immediately made a rule against such cases, he testified.

He denied actual knowledge beforehand of such solicitation.

A law partner of Brasley's, Harry Rubin, readily admitted on the stand that one George Brady had brought solicited cases to the firm.

Several checks, signed by Rubin and payable to Brady, were identified. Rubin said the checks were for bringing cases to the office and investigating them.

Brasley testified he had not known Brady was "a runner." Brasley also told of physically tossing out of his office a man named Grossman who, he said, had tried to represent Brasley's firm to a client in Johnstown.

Pa. to Get $14,500,000 From Dorrance Heirs

PHILADELPHIA, March 20.—(INS.)—Pennsylvania's hard-pressed treasury will immediately receive $14,500,000 in inheritance taxes from the $115,000,000 estate of the late Dr. John T. Dorrance, head of the Campbell Soup Company, of Camden, N. J.

Attorney General William A. Schnader today announced at his office here that the attorneys for the estate had agreed to make an immediate partial payment of the tax due. The commonwealth's claims were carried to the United States Supreme Court after the state of New Jersey sought to collect an inheritance tax on the contention that Dr. Dorrance was a resident of that state.

Monaca's Swanky Furniture to Go Under Gavel

Luxurious furnishings of the Monaca Club, swanky Oakland club raided by State Police, are to be auctioned off at a constable's sale at 2 p. m. Friday, according to a notice posted on the rear door of the club. Suit was entered by an Oakland real estate agent, presumably for non-payment of rent.

Among the articles listed are draperies, red carpet, 110 chairs, tables, hanging lights, lamps, tables, piano, refrigerator, mirrors and one bar.

ZANGARA, DEFIANT, GOES TO DEATH IN CHAIR

Assassin Executed Cursing, Insisting 'I No Afraid'

placed the metal cap on Zangara's head he shouted bitterly:

"Lousy capitalists!"

Then he repeated:

"No pictures, capitalists! All capitalists lousy bunch crooks."

Attendants started to complete preparations for the electrocution and Zangara said evenly:

"Goodbye. Adios to all the world. Goodbye."

With his feet not quite touching the floor and his head completely covered, he then leaned back in the chair and relaxed to await the shocks.

One of the guards who fixed the electrode stepped back and said in a quiet voice:

"All right, Joe."

With that signal, Sheriff Dan Hardie, of Dade County (Miami), walked behind the chair and threw the switch that sent 2,300 volts through Zangara's body at 9:15.

The little assassin's body stiffened at the first shock and his head gave a jerk upward.

DEATH SCENE

His hands clenched the chair. The current was turned off after three minutes and Zangara's body relaxed, slumping forward. Guards hastily released the straps about his arms and physicians stepped forward to make their examinations. He was officially pronounced dead at 9:27 a. m.

Commissioner of Agriculture Nathan Mayo, who also is head of the Prison Bureau, was among those who witnessed the execution.

Mayo and Chapman went to Zangara just before the execution and asked the assassin if he wanted a minister or priest.

Throwing his hands into the air, Zangara replied:

"No, I no want minister. There no God. It's all below."

On the insistence of Mayo and Chapman, however, Rev. L. O. Sheffield, prison chaplain, entered the death cell and made a brief prayer. Zangara demanded:

"What's your business?"

ASSAILS MINISTER

Told that Sheffield was a minister, Zangara again threw up his hands, shouting:

"Get out of here. I want no minister."

Sheffield began reading the fourteenth chapter of John's Gospel.

Zangara interrupted the minister with more shouting and finally quieted, listening to the reading.

Then, suddenly, the assasin broke into another uproar which was ended by the death march.

Supt. Chapman said he had examined the sheaf of papers which Zangara handed to him in the execution room, saying it was his "book." The papers contain personal requests to Chapman, the superintendent said, and will not be made public.

In a conversation with Zangara before the execution this morning Commissioner Mayo asked the condemned man if he was a member of any gang. Zangara replied:

"No, and I have no friends. It was idea of my own."

HAS NO REGRETS

Mayo asked the man if he was sorry he had killed Mayor Cermak and Zangare again replied, "No." Then Mayo asked if Zangara did not regret shooting and wounding Mrs. Joe H. Gill, of Miami, another of the victims who still is in a Miami hospital. Zangara said:

"No, she had no business getting in the way of the bullet."

Mayo said he believed Zangara's worst punishment since his arrest in Miami was the flat refusal of his request that a photographer be permitted to take pictures of the execution. This request, Mayo said, was the only one the condemned man made while awaiting execution.

A heavy rain beat a tattoo on the flat tops of the prison building at the hour of the execution. National Guardsmen with machine guns occupied strategic locations and kept close watch on all who approached.

An autopsy was ordered immediately after the electrocution.

Drs. Ralph N. Greene, of Jacksonville, former chief off staff of the State Hospital for the Insane; R. R. Killinger, of Jacksonville, Duval County medical officer; C. D. Whitaker, prison physician, and J. J. Kindred, of New York City, were named to make the examination with particular attention to the brain and stomach.

Following the autopsy the four physicians announced they found the assassin's brain "perfectly normal."

SANITY REPORT

The report said:

"Having completed an autopsy, we found his (Zangara's) brain perfectly normal on gross examination.

"A microscopic examination will be made later.

"Zangara had a chronically diseased gall-bladder which had adhesions, and was therefore a victim of chronic indigestion. He was, however, a healthy, well nourished individual.

"Zangara's conduct during his last moments in the execution chamber indicated clearly he had a proper understanding of his surroundings and realized fully the nature of the punishment about to be meted out to him as evidenced by his verbal expressions and demeanor.

"In our opinion this man was regarded as having been sane and also regarded medically as criminally responsible for the crime for which he was executed."

There was no immediate announcement as to what would be done with Zangara's body. Several medical schools and clinics have asked that the body be given to them for scientific research but Gov. Dave Sholtz did not say what would be done about these requests.

Just 33 days after Zangara fatally wounded Mayor Cermak the death penalty was exacted under swift operation of Florida justice.

HISTORY OF CRIME

These are the rapidly moving events:

February 15—Zangara, armed with a cheap pawnshop pistol, was thwarted in an attempt to kill President Roosevelt, but shot down Mayor Anton J. Cermak, of Chicago, and four others, at a public reception in Bayfront Park, Miami.

February 16—A special grand jury was called to indict Zangara for attempting to kill Mr. Roosevelt and the five wounded persons.

February 17—Zangara declared sane by county physician.

February 18—Sanity commission appointed at request defense counsel, declared Zangara "a psychopathic personality." Zangara insisted he was not insane and derided physicians.

February 20—In a court scene made bizarre by Zangara's outbursts, the assassin was given 80 years sentence, 20 years on four charges of attempted murder. As deputies led him away he shouted:

"Don't be stingy, Judge. Make it a hundred years."

March 6—Mayor Cermak died. The grand jury met the same day and indicted Zangara for first degree murder.

March 9 — Zangara pleaded guilty.

March 10—Given death sentence, Zangara called Judge Thompson "crook man," shouted:

"I no 'fraid that chair."

March 11 — Secretly removed from Dade County Jail at Miami, Zangara arrived at state prison to await the chair.

March 20—Zangara executed.

Denounces Absence Of Cameramen to Picture Death

Mrs. Gill Remains In Serious Condition

MIAMI, Fla., March 20.—(AP.)—As Giuseppe Zangara paid with his life at Raiford State Farm today for the assassination of Mayor Anton J. Cermak, of Chicago, Mrs. Joe H. Gill, another of the five bullet victims in his plot to kill President Roosevelt, was still in a serious condition in Jackson Memorial Hospital here.

NOISE IGNORED BY PADEREWSKI

Amid the clatter of commuting crowds in the Pennsylvania Railroad train shed, Ignace Paderewski, the famous pianist, slept undisturbed on his arrival here today for a concert engagement.

As has long been his custom, Paderewski kept to his private car instead of going to a hotel, and was not to be disturbed until late this afternoon. He will play at Syria Mosque tonight.

The pianist's train arrived from Columbus, O., at 7:40 a. m., and the car will stand in the train shed until late tonight, when the artist is to leave for Washington. During his short stay, and throughout Paderewski's concert tour, the Pullman coach is his home. He has his own staff of servants.

Explaining Paderewski's late rising, Lawrence Fitzgerald, his personal representative, said the pianist never retires until the early morning hours. This morning, he said, the 72-year-old artist played cards until 4 a. m. Fitzgerald said Paderewski never grants interviews on his tours and would not discuss political matters concerning Poland, of which he became the first President under Republican government.

Boy Struck on Head By Batted Ball Dies

BALTIMORE, March 20.—(AP.)—Michael Levy, 14-year-old school boy, was dead today from injuries received when struck on the head by a batted ball.

He and a group of playmates started a baseball game at Public School No. 40. As he ran to catch the ball, he stumbled and the ball struck him in the head.

'Go On, Push Button,' Killer Says in Chair

RAIFORD, Fla., March 20.—(INS.)—"Go ahead—push the button," cried Guiseppe Zangara, in boastful tones a moment or two before he met his doom in the electric chair here today for slaying Mayor Anton Cermak, of Chicago.

BRITON ON TRIAL FOR 'SELLING COUNTRY'

Charge London Tower Captive Revealed Army Secrets

LONDON, March 20.—(AP.)—A charge that Lieut. Norman Baillie-Stewart, of the British Army, had "sold his country for the sake of £50," was made today by Maj. H. Shapcott, the prosecuting officer, in opening a courtmartial against the young officer.

The lieutenant has been a prisoner in the Tower of London for several weeks.

The general nature of the charges revealed that Baillie-Stewart, an officer of the Seaforth Highlanders, allegedly planned with a German suspected of being a foreign agent to procure and communicate army secrets which might be useful to an enemy.

SOLD COUNTRY

Maj. Shapcott produced a letter, addressed to Baillie-Stewart, signed "Marie Louise" and mailed at Berlin. It was said to have contained 10 £5 notes. The prosecutor said he would mince no words, and declared the accused had sold his country for that amount.

The main charge is that between August 1 and November 12, 1932, Baillie-Stewart communicated to Otto Waldemar Obst, of Berlin, "information which might be useful to an enemy." Obst is the man suspected of "being a foreign agent within the meaning of the official secrets act."

It was in an effort to back the charges by circumstantial evidence that the prosecution produced the "Marie Louise" letter and some others which had come into the possession of the authorities after they had placed a watch on the lieutenant.

SECOND LETTER

A second letter from "Marie Louise" contained four £10 notes, said Maj. Shapcott, and another signed "Alphonse Poiret" was mailed from Aldershot to Obst in Berlin last November.

Maj. Shapcott said:

"You will want to know who Alphonse Poiret is. I shall tell you. It is this accused officer. This letter is in his handwriting."

The trial opened with an unprogrammed incident. A man in clergyman's attire rose from the audience just after the members of the court were sworn in, and holding a Bible over his head, cried:

"I protest in the name of Jehovah against this young officer being committed to the Tower."

He was quickly escorted outside.

'Sleeping Beauty' Given New Serum

CHICAGO, March 20.—(AP.)—Physicians today were watching for reactions of suburban Oak Park's "sleeping beauty" after injecting serum made from the blood of two patients recovered from the disease.

The victim, Miss Patricia Maguire, 27, has been in a state of unconsciousness for more than a year, immune to the attempts of medical science to awaken her.

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance, Saturday morning over Kansas, advanced eastward but slowly and is now over Southwestern Ohio, Cincinnati, 29.32, having caused snow or rain over most of the country from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic Coast. The rains have been heavy over a large portion of the central valleys, and continue in somewhat less amounts this morning in the Ohio Valley and Tennessee and eastward to the middle Atlantic Coast, with snow over the eastern plains and the upper Mississippi Valley. Green Bay, Wis., reports 8 inches of snow on the ground at 8 a. m., Charles City, Iowa, 7 inches and Omaha, Neb., 6 inches. Pressure is relatively high over Manitoba, Winnipeg 30.24, and temperatures are generally lower over the plains, the central valleys and the west Gulf States.

River Conditions.

The upper rivers are now falling and the Ohio is practically stationary at Pittsburgh. Stage at Franklin is 8.2 feet, Parkers Landing, 10; Lock No. 10, Mon., 19.1; Lock No. 7, 28.2; Pittsburgh, 22.9; Dam No. 4, 22.2; Dam No. 6, 24.2; No. 10, 23.6; and No. 12, 24.9. The Ohio will continue to rise at Wheeling to between 27 and 27.5 feet by midnight tonight. At Pittsburgh the stage will be about 21.5 feet Tuesday morning.

Raffles in 'Skyscraper' To Balk Jail Delivery

MIAMI, Fla., March 20.—Harry Sidmor, whose arrest and confession resulted in the recovery of $500,000 worth of jewelry stolen during the winter at Miami Beach, was in the skyscraper Dade County Jail today after secret removal from the Miami Beach city prison yesterday.

The removal, police said, was taken after they received a tip that an attempt would be made to free the 38-year-old burglar by a jail delivery.

Sidmor is held on charges of breaking and entering and grand larceny.

Also in the County Jail is Charles Yacht, golf professional and alleged accomplice of Sidmor, who gave the information that led to Sidmor's arrest and recovery of the jewelry.

RESEARCH WORK AT INSTITUTE SHOWS GAIN

In line with the present optimistic trend of the nation's business world, Dr. Edward R. Weidlein, director of Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, today presented to the board of trustees his report for the fiscal year ending March 1 last, in which "the results accomplished have been just as extensive and important as in the preceding year."

Dr. Weidlein

Notwithstanding the depression, there has been practically no diminution in the Institute's work, the report brought out. Although three less fellowships on technological investigations were in operation during the year, according to Dr. Weidlein, the work of the 98 researchers was increased considerably.

The institute was responsible for 40 United States patents and 62 foreign patents during that period.

Discussing the effect of the present economic crisis on research, Dr. Weidlein said:

"Before long, it is predicted, intensive long-range production and distribution research will be under an unprecedented scale everywhere in the industries. The urgent necessity for reducing costs and for reviving business will spur many companies, some of them for the first time, to endeavor through scientific investigation to improve their plant and merchandising practices."

Hardly a branch of industry escaped the inquiring eyes of the researchers last year. The fellowships related to such strange "industrial bedfellows" as paper and steel, rosin, glass, tobacco, confectionery, carbonated beverages, wood, clay, carbon black and many others.

PITTSBURGH AFFECTED

Many of them directly affect Pittsburgh, such as the Commodity Standards Fellowship of Kaufmann Department Stores, Inc., Food Varieties of the H. J. Heinz Company and the Protected Metals Fellowship of the H. H. Robertson Company.

Keeping the standard of receipts from fellowship donors well up to the average, a total of $616,360 was received by the institute during the past 12 months, bringing donors' appropriations since 1911 to $8,893,378.

Superstitious Boy Stunned Dodging Black Cat

WATSEKA, Ill., March 20.—(AP.)—A black cat ambled across the street. Richard Stevens, 16, saw it.

No black cat, he decided, was going to cross his path and bring him the proverbial bad luck. Richard dodged hurriedly to one side. In so doing, he struck his head against an iron lamp post and was knocked unconscious.

FIVE SENTENCED IN GRAVE PLOT

ALTOONA, Pa., March 20.—An insurance swindle, in which a grave was robbed and the body burned in a mountain shack, resulted in penitentiary and jail sentences for the five conspirators. Judge Patterson today sentenced Ross A. Barclay, insurance agent, and Birdie C. Fetter, the alleged "dead man," to 10 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Martin N. Divley, 3 to 6 years; James Irvine, 2 to 4 years, and Mrs. Myrtle Fetter, wife of the alleged victim, to one to two years, all in jail.

Mrs. Fetter claimed $10,000 insurance on her husband's life.

Fetter later was arrested in Youngstown, O., after an investigation by state police and other officers.

College Post Held By Swissvale Girl

Miss Greta Bergquist, of Swissvale, is serving the concluding months of her office as "alma mater" of Wittenberg College, Springfield, O. High scholarship, Christian leadership and grace are requirements for the office.

RECEIVERS QUIT IN BOND 'WAR'

NEW YORK, March 20.—(AP.)—A controversy as to whether S. W. Straus & Co., Inc., is or is not "simply a shell" raged today while observers studied a proposal to tighten the laws concerning real estate mortgage bonds.

Two receivers for the concern, which was one of the largest distributors of mortgage bonds, resigned last night, saying they could do nothing helpful for the bondholders, who hold about $380,000,000 in outstanding bonds.

The receivers, Robert Moses and William M. Calder, said the company was "simply a shell" and that they had found themselves in possession of only about $29,000 in liquid assets.

S. J. T. Straus, chairman of the board, promptly denied it. He said:

"The company is not a shell. It now has assets which cost many millions of dollars and which even now are more than enough to pay all outstanding creditors."

Calling the statement of the receivers "incorrect," Straus said:

"There are no bonds outstanding which are the obligations of S. W. Straus & Co., Inc., nor is the stock of this company owned by the public, but is practically wholly owned by members of the Straus family."

Township League Pushes Tax Fight

Continuing its fight for a 40 per cent reduction in county property tax for townships, the Jefferson Township Tax League will hold a meeting next Saturday. The league was formed last Saturday by taxpayers, who met in Eldersville School.

QUAKE PERILS CHILDREN

LOS ANGELES, March 20.—(AP.)—A mild earth tremor was felt in Los Angeles at 6:01 a. m. today. The convulsion appeared to be of greater intensity than the shock of yesterday afternoon. No damage was reported from either quake.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., March 20.—(AP.)—Heroism of a 23-year-old life guard, Jack Cheaney, had saved a group of small children from possible injury or death yesterday.

An earthquake shock jarred a high tension electric wire from its moorings and it fell into a baseball park where 25 children were at play. Cheaney seized the wire and threw it over the fence, suffering severe burns upon his hands and abdomen.

Hospital attendants said his conditions was critical.

Eggs Disappear, Officers Quit Poultry Trade

Mt. Lebanon police today were definitely out of the poultry business. The local relief fund was several dollars richer as a result.

The police unexpectedly launched their enterprise when Norman Brasecker, 31, of 101 West Montgomery avenue, arrested last week with 18 chickens in his possession, couldn't prove ownership.

Failing to find an owned for the chickens, the police built a coop in the rear of the station house. In return, the hens laid 30 eggs.

A member of the force complained yesterday that his uniform was a bit tight. Police Chief William Kane, learning of the disappearance of the eggs, ordered the chickens sold to a Mt. Lebanon merchant. The money went to the local relief fund.

ACTRESS BRINGS GAMBLING RAID

NEW YORK, March 20.—(Universal.)—A stage star's tip and the work of two young police rookies posing as Harvard students, led to a spectacular gambling raid yesterday on the former mansion of the late Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt.

Sixteen men and women, most of them in evening clothes, were found around a long green table in a large room when 30 detectives and uniformed men crashed into the place. Twenty-four other persons were playing contract bridge in sumptuous private rooms.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney, who refused to reveal the name of the actress who gave him the first tip on the place, said she wrote him a month ago complaining her husband had lost heavily at chemin de fer in "the most fashionable gaming house in town." She also gave the address and told how to gain entrance.

ROBIN BATTLES SELF 10 DAYS

KANSAS CITY, March 20.—(AP.)—Weakening slowly after 10 days of intermittent shadow boxing, a militaristic cock robin carried on its idea of the battle of the century at a window pane of the office of Dr. H. E. Songer today.

The attack started when the robin, sitting on a telephone wire, noted its reflection in the vine-shaded window.

Hitting the glass, it fell back dazed, but renewed the assault with vigor. Excepting time out for sleep and feeding about the yard, it has continued the onslaught since. Dr. Songer said shouts and lowering of the shade detracted its attention only momentarily. A quarrel with a bluejay and owl nearby forgotten, the robin hammered away at the pane today with wings and bill, occasionally dropping to the window ledge to rest.

DO HEADACHES DRIVE YOU CRAZY?

It's the worst kind of folly to dope and drug yourself every time you have one of those blinding, throbbing headaches. For drugs only relieve the pain for the moment, and in a little while the headache returns worse than ever and you have to drug yourself all over again. You've got to get at the cause.

Poisons created in your own body cause these severe headaches, and you must remove the poisons to get relief of a lasting nature.

By starting the new harmless Cream of Nujol treatment, today, you may free yourself from this constant torment.

This new form of Nujol is specially designed to rid you of poisons which very often cause this condition.

Cream of Nujol contains no drugs, and does not in any way interfere with work or play. It is delicious to take. Moreover, you can use this modern treatment at a cost of but a few cents a day.

Take Cream of Nujol night and morning. Begin this very night and give it a real trial. Buy it at any drug counter.

NEW CONCERTS :-: Whiteman Presents 'Vanities' Star :-: ON THE AIR

Radio Brings Olga Albani, Hackett

The inauguration of Olga Albani's new series of song recitals, J. P. Medbury's debut as the Columbia Revue master of ceremonies, and the first of a series of special concerts by three noted singers mark tonight's air schedule.

Dona Albani, who made her Broadway bow in the dramatic lead of "New Moon," will bring musical comedy and operatic hits in English, Spanish, French and Italian to NBC-WCAE listeners on a Monday-Thursday-at-6:45 schedule.

Charles Hackett, noted operatic tenor, opens the concert series on KDKA at 10:15 tonight, to be followed by Sophie Braslau tomorrow and Victor Chenkin Wednesday over the same facilities.

Medbury, California humorist, transfers his comedy dialogue to the CBS-WJAS variety show to be heard on Mondays and Fridays at 10 p. m., coming to the programs from a six-weeks' engagement on the Waring cigaret broadcasts.

Bobby Folsom, vaudeville headliner and former star of Earl Carroll's "Vanities," faces the microphone for the first time since her recent retirement from the stage as Paul Whiteman's guest artist on WCAE at 9:30 p. m.

On WJAS at 4:30, another Ted Husing "Man in the Street" broadcast is listed with the roving reporter inquiring, "Have We Turned the Corner?"

On the strength of a single network performance with Anson Weeks' Orchestra, Harriet Lee leaves for San Francisco soon to join the Weeks organization.

Ol' Maestro Ben Bernie is back in N'Yawk and at it again with W. Winchell . . . They're both billed at the same theater. Bennie, by the way, probably will be the first artist to go on the air with a beer program.

Jack Bankey and Jack Hilfinger, who left the KQV Blues Chasers program Saturday, start a daily morning series on WWSW today.

Tin Pan Alley Fame Hails Local Boy

By AIRCASTER

Another local boy has made good — with Charlie Reber, whose "Joy Factory" is a twice-weekly WWSW feature, coming to the fore. For the first time in three years of song-writing, during which time he's turned out about 83 compositions, Charlie has landed his first number with New York publishers.

The song, entitled "My Life Will Be Complete," with lyrics by Reber and music by Charles Harrison, who wrote such hits as "When Summer Is Gone" and "Drifting Back to Dreamland," will be featured over KDKA Wednesday night by Smith Ballew's Orchestra in an arrangement written by Henry Miller, of Billy Weixel's Orchestra. Other Reber compositions familiar to Pittsburgh dancers and dialers are "Time" and "You Simply Must Come Over." Reber's home is at 1425 Macon avenue, Regent Square.

Frank Black, NBC musical chief, reports that applications for NBC auditions have dropped off since the publication of figures showing that only one out of every 300 auditioners gets a chance at a paycheck.

Globe-Trotting

With the Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News

—By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN—

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

The hero of the hour is little Joseph Pascarell, Jr., of South Brownsville, a shade under 5½ years old, and the marvel of the present Jig Saw puzzle era. Even 300-piece puzzles mean nothing to him. His is the uncanny ability to pick up a piece and set it in its proper place, repeating the process until the mosaic is completed.

And here is a little cowboy by the name of Lester Seaber, from Greentree Borough. This 12-year-old does his Indian chasing on a pony instead of a horse, and here's where I come in. The pony, named Lindy, will be 3 years old today, and Lester is going to have him close to the door so that he can hear his birthday greeting come over the air.

In this list of prominent globe-trotters we include Mrs. William Lindsay, of Mt. Lebanon, who bowled five games for a total of 855. In one game she scored 271 with nine strikes and one spare.

We can always expect a letter from Mrs. Lescalette, of Midway, when a problem is submitted. We received her answer concerning the ball of yarn today. The sad part of it is that there have been so many different answers that either we don't know our knitting or our mathematics. Here it is again.

A lady had a ball of yarn, gave a neighbor one-third, used one-third of what was left, and then her remaining yarn formed a sphere three inches in diameter. What was the original diameter?

COUNTY NEEDS 500 NEW VOTE MACHINES

Allegheny County will have to purchase at least 500 additional voting machines before every district in the county can be equipped properly for the September election, Director William T. Rees of the Elections Bureau admitted today. It is likely that the boroughs and townships will use the paper ballot for September primaries, Rees explained.

Even though the country is successful in getting its present lot of 1,100 machines improved and repaired in time for the September election, there is very little chance of additional machines being purchased in time to be of use in the mayoralty fight.

CITES LAW'S REQUIREMENT

Director Rees pointed out that the law requires one voting machine for every three hundred voters or fraction thereof. However, where there are more than 300 voters in a district, it will be necessary to use two machines, and there will not be sufficient to have one in all districts.

Director Rees said that there would be enough machines to equip Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne and Clairton, and it was desirable to have enough machines for a proper kind of a test in the cities.

1,100 NEED REPAIR

Rees said that within the next week it is likely that specifications will be complete for the repairing of the 1,100 machines stored in the basement of the County Building. Advertisements will be inserted immediately and within a month it is hoped to have contracts awarded for repairing the machines so that they will be as good as those improved a few months ago by the National Cash Register Company of Dayton O.

A demonstration of the two repaired machines was held by the county last week for members of the Allegheny League of Women Voters. B. B. Sklar, election machine expert who represented the league, declared the machines were good and that the only faults found were of minor mechanical defects which can be repaired.

BOOSTING NEW TYPE

However the league is anxious to convince the county officials that the Jamestown voting machine is much superior to that purchased by the county, and to point out the superior points, a demonstration was to be held today in the league headquarters in the Peoples Bank Building.

Director Rees planned to attend the demonstration, but stated that he did not see what good it would do. He declared that the county was saddled with $1,200,000 worth of machines which had to be used as best they could.

CIPHER No. 73

By MILTON G. LEHMAN, JR.

TONRIENTH HRGESTANA EWDOOFMAT TODNHTTFH ANODIESEA LENGNMOIS WETASSOIN AHHHDEMHG YSATONETX

Here's a hard one for you. Let's see if you can solve it.

By KENNETH A. NAGEL
Cipher Editor.

Again we hear from Milton G. Lehman, Jr., of 5464 Darlington road. He submits Cipher No. 73. You'll probably have a hard time with this one. It isn't as easy as the last few ciphers have been. Well, go to work and see what success you will have.

If you should get a headache from this one, get the tip in tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph. It's sure to help.

Did you have a hard time with Cipher No. 72? It wasn't as hard as it looked. In this cipher "A" was "26" and "Z" one. You obtain the answer by crossing out the second and third numbers. Next divide the remaining figure by two. For example take the first group of figures, which is 3256, and drop the center figures, you then have "36." Divide this by two, which gives you "18," or the letter "I." Continue in this fashion to obtain the completed message.

Did you solve it? It was rather hard. The answer was:

"If at first you don't succeed, try, try, again."

Prisoner Identified By Duped Woman

Charged with larceny and conspiracy to defraud, Milton Buletic, 38, of Cleveland, was held for court today at Central Police Station. Barbara Rudman, 43, of 831 Mumford street, identified him and testified she gave him and another man $200 on February 17, when he promised to get her a job as a domestic.

Buletic was arrested Saturday night at the East End Police Station when he went to report the loss of his license plates. He was taken to Central Station and was identified by Lieut. Frank Ferris in connection with the Rudman case. City Detective Dennis Timpona testified Buletic promised to give him his car if he would fix things up.

THE BEST PLACE TO SHOP, AFTER ALL

With . . . or Without its Cape!

Our coats with detachable capes are of the New Cape School of Thought, designed with the forethought that you may want to be practical this spring, as well as fashionable. Off come the capes at your pleasure, to be worn airily over frocks of sheer wool or silk; and the coats themselves, prestochango, become good-looking untrimmed ones which give the impression that you have two new coats instead of one.

Both the Women's and Misses' Coat Sections are so keen on the subject that they show this type of coat in a wide range of styles—the Cowl Cape, the Swirl Cape, the Victorian Cape, the Epaulet Cape, the Square-shouldered Cape. Sometimes the capes are entirely of fur, again they are of the coat fabric bordered with galyak, silver fox, or white fox dyed to tropique, platinum, azure or cream.

Spring Housewares Exposition

40 Demonstrations DAILY

New days bring new ways . . which are graphically set forth in the Spring Housewares Exposition here this week.

New devices for cleaning, polishing, painting, moth extermination, and the like are demonstrated. Secrets of professional chefs in the realm of cooking, baking, garnishing, cake decorations (easy when you know how!), and attractive new desserts are revealed.

There is the new General Electric Magic Kitchen with its all-electric equipment from stove to dishwasher, to see . . and scores of little time-saving devices for doing better the daily tasks about the house.

A woman wouldn't be a woman, if she weren't interested in the many unusual and helpful things being shown here this week. The Exposition is supplemented by unusual values in timely housewares needs, which afford large savings.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear Walter: Postmaster General James A. Farley, the man who did so much to acquaint America with President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, thanks you for wising him up to that racket practiced on Spanish War Vets and their dependents. He added that your memo was "quite interesting," so perhaps the new administration will save the widows from this petty racket.

Overheard: "The man is so big-hearted (not Bernie) that he has to wear double-breasted suits!" . . . Harry Essex of Arch Selwyn's office found his priceless autographed pix of stars—thru your column mention. He is grateful. Says to please salute the elevator boy (name wasn't offered) who found it and learned the loser's tag through your pillar . . . Fay Webb is on her way back to re-join R. V. . . . Your recent exclusive on Tex Rickard's widow's divorce from Dailey was confirmed on the front pages.

Neil McCarthy, one of your few Irish contributors, says what with so many appointments as Colonels—who is going to fight the next war? . . . Give a break to the benefit, of the B'klyn Passover Committee, which feeds 7,000 unfortunate Hebrews on Passover. Their show is April 2, Sunday night, at the Brooklyn Academy of Music. This is, you know, a branch of the Jewish Theatrical Guild . . . I. Brecher says the banks are now taking in hoarders. . . .

Two psychology students at a local school (get you the name later, I forget) were expelled for two days last week after being found reading your column (hidden in books) during class . . . Ethelyne Holt is the pretty-pretty juggling things on that ciggie ad. And she's supremely happy with her husband . . . Give an orchid to City Editor Spiro of the Journal for being grand to his sick employes—one of the most popular editors in town . . . Tommy Baron and Olive Brady now doing a swell dancing act. . . . Here's a bit for your act with Ben. If he says: "Hello, Mickey Mouse!"—just you say back: "Harya, Popeye?"

At least four contribs offered this name for the Dietrichs—"pantaloonatics." . . . McInerny, of Paramount, has a good idea for you. Says you should start a National Razzberry Club—aimed to make noises with the tongue and lips at the false alarms. Why not lead off with the phony—who is to be trusted like a banker—although he once confessed in public that he got his last year's radio broadcast job because you recommended him? . . . I mean the clunk who gets two items out of one rumor. One day he belittles a local—and the next day he retracts it. What a cinch system of wasting space.

Your item of last week that the superstitious would enjoy knowing that 3/4/33 (the date the banks closed) totals 13—wasn't so hot . . . The figures 3/13/33 sum up 13, also, and that date the banks opened—so what? . . .

There certainly are brass bands in Elkhart, Indiana!... Joe Weil says we won't recognize Russia . . . If this keeps up Russia won't recognize us!...

Throw a salute at Comm. D. F. Soden, of B'klyn, who served Mr. McCooey so faithfully. The Commissioner promotes more charitable affairs than any man . . . The editor of Racing Form called. Said you hurt Clem McCarthy by pinning that rap on him—and that there isn't a horse by that name in the Derby, and that your item made Clem look silly, as he knows better . . . In my haste, I forgot to tell him that Clem wrote it to you. Maybe that editor is another editor without a sensayuma, huh?

An honest gentleman came in with an unusual story. He found a pocketbook containing some money and a $75 check and other things on Tuesday in Union Square . . . There are papers in it identifying the owner. He wants you to decide what he should do with the money. He would have returned it himself, under ordinary circumstances, but now he wonders if his wife and two children shouldn't come first! . . . On the other hand, he feels that perhaps the loser needs the money as badly as he does. He wants you to decide for him. He says his conscience will trouble him no matter what he does . . . I told him to take $5 of it to buy food and necessities of life for his family, which he reluctantly agreed to accept . . . I told him, also, that if the owner complained, that you would make up the difference—and I know you will . . . He urges you not to reveal his name, which I know you won't, because he fears that people will misunderstand . . . He certainly rates a reward from the loser—if only to encourage others to return lost articles when they find them . . . The loser, according to a motor car license in the found purse, is Mrs. Florence Rothman, of Richmond Hill, N. Y. . . . Tell her via the column to call at the office after 11:30 a. m. and I will return the contents, except the $5, to her—unless she demands it all.—Your Girl Friday.

Film Star, Husband On Sudden Voyage

NEW YORK, March 20.—(AP.)—Helen Hayes, the actress, and Charles MacArthur, her husband-playwright, went down to the liner Conte De Savoia Saturday to see some friends off—and they ended up by sailing themselves.

They arrived here Monday from the Coast with Norma Shearer, actress, and her husband, Irving Thalberg, motion picture production manager. The Thalbergs were going to Europe and the Mac Arthurs went down to see them sail. At the last minute the MacArthurs decided to go along too. They will return in three weeks.

Shearer Loss Crawford's Gain

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, March 20.

With a ready opportunism, Louis B. Mayer may switch Joan Crawford's next picture from "The Dancing Lady" to the story of the lady and the prize fighter, once spoken of for Norma Shearer.

Frances Marion was hard at work upon an idea, which borrows a number of situations from her earlier story. Between her and Howard Hawks, who will act as supervisor, the script may be ready for shooting in three weeks.

Moreover, Clark Gable will be Joan's leading man in the picture.

At the moment, and I've been warned there'll be a change, the title of the new story is "Sucker, Sinner or Saint."

Joan's last film, the war story she did with Gary Cooper, is regarded by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer as a potential special. It will introduce clipped, economical dialogue, the work of William Faulkner, author of the sensational novel, "Sanctuary."

* * *

One of the better retorts of the week is credited to John Barrymore on the "Reunion in Vienna" set.

They had come to a scene where John was called on to parade around in his shirt-tail and undies. Director Sidney Franklin asked if he wanted to have the set blocked off from visitors.

"Not I," snapped Barrymore. "I'm perfectly at home. I've dreamed this scene hundreds of times."

* * *

Unusual, the case of that girl who wrote to George Raft, thanking him for saving her a lot of unhappiness. She had a framed picture of George in her room. Her fiance resented it so much that, on the eve of their marriage, the two had a violent quarrel and broke the engagement. The girl thinks now that she would have been very unhappy with such a jealous husband.

Chances are that Marion Nixon will go back to free-lancing after her contract (one more picture) is finished at Fox. . . . Joan Bennett is another who will be leaving this company. Sally Eilers, on the other hand, just signed a new contract . . . St. Patrick's Day was Sari Maritza's birthday. Very soon now, the blonde Sari will be taking the train for New York. Sam Katz, who squired her to many Hollywood parties, also is in the East.

Hollywood's newest boon companions are Lilyan Tashman, Edmund Lowe and James Thomas. Known chiefly for his stage work, Thomas was the blonde star's leading man in her recent footlight appearance here. The three, often accompanied by others, are frequent dancers at the Beverly Wilshire. . . . Adrienne Ames has bought her tickets for a New York visit. She'll be there only a week.

There's nothing monotonous about Hollywood to Henry Garat, the French star. In addition to the salary cuts, the bank holidays, etc., his car caught fire the other day. And he's had insomnia ever since arriving here from the East... His narrow escape in that collapse of a breakaway set did not keep Gary Grant from taking Virginia Cherrill to lunch Friday at the Paramount Commissary . . . A San Francisco scout reports that the Clark Gables were dancing to Ted Fiorito's music at the St. Francis the other night.

Miss Cherrill

A note of pathos in an incident which occurred at the Paramount casting office.

They had sent for 40 "Royal Flying Corps types." When the men arrived, the casting director said:

"Why, these men won't do—not any of them."

"But my dear fellow," said one of the applicants, "we WERE R. F. C. boys, you know."

The official looked at the speaker, a graying man with a Cross of St. George on his tunic.

"Yes," he said, gently, "but we must have men like you were 15 years ago—young fellows like they had in the war."

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Of Thee I Sing," musical comedy satire that packed 'em in in the Nixon last week, will begin the second lap of its extended engagement tonight, to continue through Wednesday. There will be the customary matinee on that day. In case you didn't know, it may not be amiss to mention the fact that its stars are those of the original New York production, Victor Moore, Lois Moran and William Gaxton.

* * *

The box office sale of seats for the next Nixon attraction, "The Green Pastures," will open Thursday morning. This Marc Connelly Pulitzer prize winner also comes with the original cast intact, except in the character of the Angel Gabriel, in which two substitutions have been caused by death. The part is now played by Doe Doe Green. Richard B. Harrison has the leading role of "The Lawd," which he created at the premiere of the play in the Mansfield Theater, New York, February 26, 1930, and in which he has appeared at more than 1,100 performances. The production calls for the service of a large cast and a choir, which is under the direction of Hall Johnson.

George S. Kaufmann, who, with Morrie Ryskind, wrote the book of "Of Thee I Sing," will collaborate next with Robert E. Sherwood in turning out Eddie Cantor's next vehicle for the cinema-tickled public. The project contemplates having Eddie in the atmosphere of ancient Rome, a ground familiar to Sherwood in a box-office way, judging by the success of his hit of a few years ago, "The Road to Rome," which had Jane Cowl and Philip Merrivale in the leads in New York. Grace George played the Cowl part on the road.

Broadways of the World

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

KING DAVID HOTEL, JERUSALEM, Palestine.—The political situation in the Palestine of today is one of the strangest in the entire world. Especially is it strange in the city of Jerusalem, one of the most cosmopolitan towns in the same entire world. The more you talk to people and the more theories you hear advanced, the more perplexed you become. Because no two people argue alike and every viewpoint is biased in some direction or other.

Everything in Jerusalem is the basis for an argument. Even the churches, themselves, do not agree on many points of a historical nature. The man who is deeply religious—regardless of his belief—would do well to avoid a personal contact with Jerusalem. Otherwise, when he leaves, there will be a great disappointment in his heart.

I will say no more along these lines because, as I have written many times, nothing but trouble ever comes of a religious discussion in a daily column. A discussion of the political situation, however, can do no harm. So we'll proceed along those lines:

The modern history of Jerusalem begins on the day that Gen. Allenby captured the city from the Turks back in December, 1917. That ended almost four centuries of apathetic rule on the part of the Turks and paved the way for English jurisdiction over Palestine.

All this happened practically in conjunction with the Earl of Balfour's famous pronouncement in favor of Zionism. Briefly, that all-important statement read as follows:

"His Majesty's Government views with favor the establishment in Palestine of a National Home for the Jewish people, and will use their best endeavors to facilitate the achievement of that object, it being understood that nothing shall be done which may prejudice the civil and religious rights of existing non-Jewish communities in Palestine, or such rights enjoyed by the Jews in any other country."

The Arabs resented that policy the very first day, and they have resented it ever since.

"Look here," they cry, "see what is happening to us? The Jews are taking our lands and leaving us nothing. The British have always favored the Jew and they are doing it today. We are being pushed out of our own territory bit by bit. Something will have to be done about this."

"We want nothing more than to be allowed to pursue our own peaceful ways," the Jews answer in friendly fashion. "We ask that they show us the same courtesy. The lands that have come to us from the Arab have all been purchased at a high figure; higher, in fact, than the Arab ever dreamed they would bring. If we make those lands pay more than they paid in the past, is this the time for the Arab to grow jealous?"

Some day the pot is going to boil over. It began to boil over back in 1929, when the Arabs and the Jews had a severe battle that had its beginning near the old Jaffa gate. Many were killed then, although the exact count is something of a mystery.

The Jews say that 23 of their men were killed, as against some 200 Arabs. The Arabs say it was the other way around. The English say it didn't amount to very much anyhow.

Today, in this city, everything is supposed to be friendly. The Arab and the Jew are getting along splendidly—unless you peer beneath the surface. And there you see the pot boiling just as vigorously as ever. Some day—but why go into that?

Accused of favoring the Jew with too much intensity, the Government has recently taken steps to pacify the Arab to some extent. They now have a restriction of immigration in Palestine. Which simply means that, although Palestine is the national home for the Jew, the Jew without a little money has a tough time getting in.

When I get back to New York I must visit some of the more learned folks in my town and learn the exact meaning of Zionism. I thought I knew what it was—until I was visited this afternoon by the associate editor of the Palestine Post, who came to interview me.

The gentleman in question proved to be a highly intelligent young man who had graduated from Cornell University. Not that the two facts have anything in common; they merely happened to hit the typewriter at the same time.

The young man—Jewish, of course—was highly enthusiastic about the possibilities of Palestine. He had no axes to grind, he said. He had come to Palestine on a visit with his parents and he had fallen in love with the place. His people left—and he remained.

"Do you realize, sir," he enthused, "that Palestine has grown by leaps and bounds during the depression? Do you realize that property values have trebled here in three years? Do you see the building that is going on around you? Do you know that Palestine, under Zionism, is actually enjoying prosperity at the most crucial point in the world's history?"

"That's great," I asserted, "but tell me something. Aside from doing wonders with real estate values, what has Zionism done for Judaism?"

"Zionism, Mr. Hellinger," he replied flatly, "has very little to do with Judaism. They have very little in common."

I certainly have plenty to learn . . .

SUICIDE THEORY IN 'Y' DEATH

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 26.—(AP.)—The theory that Erik Baumann, 27, Y. M. C. A. gymnast, bound himself up in the improvised straitjacket in which he strangled to death last week, was the newest development in investigation of the case today.

District Attorney Ray F. Fowler, unable to discover why anyone would have wanted to kill Baumann, witnessed demonstrations by "escape artists" who bound themselves up in the same fashion in which his body was found tied.

Satisfied that Baumann could have arranged the intricate system of knots which caused his death, authorities pondered whether he might have died accidentally during an experiment in "escape artist" work, or whether he might have chosen such a spectacular method of suicide.

HOMES FOR 50 AT COXTOWN

Father Cox is now turning no little attention to the development and improvement of "Coxtown," the Kittanning pike farming community he started about a year ago. There are already about 50 families living on the farm and he has room for about 50 more. He is taking applications from families that want to live at "Coxtown" but will award this privilege only to those with the best references and who are suffering on account of the depression.

Six of the new families will be housed in the retired trolley cars donated by the Pittsburgh Railways Company. Farming preparations already have been started and Father Cox expects that the families in this community will raise enough vegetables to more than take care of their own needs. He will buy all over-production, paying for it in "Coxtown scrip," and employ this over-production in feeding his breadline.

In his radio talk over WJAS yesterday morning, Father Cox, among other things, said that he himself would have been fearfully handicapped this winter if it were not for the help of the Sun-Telegraph. Every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page or is telephoned in with the request that Father Cox be given credit for it, brings to his unemployment relief fund a liberal cash commission.

Love Can Be Killed by Unfair Suspicion and Jealousy

He's engaged to Babs—

But still a vamp pursues him, telephoning him, writing him, turning up at his home on every pretext and no pretext, telling him that "Babs'll never know" if he cheats and takes her out.

So what'll Babs do? Go on suspecting him? Go on being jealous? Is that what you think she should do?

Dear Miss Robinson:

I am engaged to a very nice chap, and we expect to get married next summer.

Now there is a young girl whom he used to take out, and just lately she keeps pestering him all the time. She is always at his home of evenings. She claims to come to see his sister.

One night she asked Jack why he didn't take her out any more, and he told her that he didn't care to—that he was in love and engaged to me. She then said, "That's nothing. She would never know if you took me somewhere."

He has told me all this, but still I am terribly unhappy and worried. I work nights, and therefore get very little time to be with him. He takes me home from work every night and also plays cards with my mother almost every night from 10 till 12; then he comes after me.

But this other girl keeps asking him to take her here and there. He claims that he always refuses, and just ignores her, and only speaks to her when he is spoken to.

WORRIES ABOUT GIRL

I am afraid that something is going to happen. I can't be nice to him when I think of her, and she is constantly on my mind. Only the other night she tried to coax him to bring me to his house. I have been told that she is "very anxious to see what I look like." But I just didn't care to satisfy her curiosity, so even if he had urged me I would not have gone.

"What shall I do? I hate to mention her to him. When he tells me that she was over there again, and how she asked him to stay, and to phone me that he couldn't see me because he was sick, it just made me feel awful. So far, he claims, he has been true to me. I love him dearly, and I could never bear to lose him.

Please advise me what he should do to get rid of her. He claims he can't throw her out of his home, for she comes to see his sister. And I haven't asked him to do that.

Oh, please, what shall I do?

BABS.

Use your head, honey! And use it pronto, if you don't want to lose him.

Does that mean you should do something to this girl?

It does not! It means that you should do something to yourself!

For you, yourself, are doing far more damage to Jack's love than any vamp could ever do. You, yourself, are about to drive him away with your unfair suspicion, your nagging jealousy.

MEET COMPETITION

What'll he do to "get rid" of her? There's nothing he can do, if she is a family friend, except to laugh her off, which is exactly what he is doing. There isn't a sign that he has any real regard for this girl. His mention of her to you is just a bit of loving teasing, which he expects you to be good enough sport to understand.

But even if Jack could do something about her, it wouldn't solve your problem.

Your problem isn't this girl, Babs; it is your own fear—your fear of and refusal to meet competition. But you'll always have to meet competition, Babs. You will never be able to get away from it, no matter how many individuals you "get rid of."

And you can never meet competition successfully with suspicion, or tears, or temper. You can only meet it successfully by making yourself desirable—by being so gay and sweet and understanding that people will desire you above all others.

So stop cutting your own throat, my dear. Be your old, sunny self—the self your man fell in love with. Love him and believe in him, and make him feel that you'll be his comrade "for better or for worse," whatever the years may hold. If he once feels that, you need never fear that he will fall for any other woman's wiles.

Bank Holiday Made Small Change Important to Fay King

HOORAY! HERE'S A QUARTER AND A PENNY FROM THE LINING OF THIS OLD PURSE I QUIT CARRYING!
WHERE, OH WHERE ARE THOSE DIMES I STARTED SAVING LAST SUMMER?
MIGHT FIND A FEW MORE NICKLES THAT SLID DOWN THE SIDES OF THIS CHAIR!
FAY KING

By FAY KING.

Every once in a while some friend of mine starts saving dimes—for fun. One got me enthusiastic over the idea last summer. But my interest in anything financial is very slack. It's too much like arithmetic, and I loathe arithmetic.

When the bank holiday was declared, of course I thought of my dime box. I dug around in bureau drawers until I found it. But, alas, I might have known 15 dimes would be the limit of my dime saving enthusiasm.

Ten dimes never did look like a dollar to me before, but each dime looked like a dollar to me then. Believe me, my respect for small change has greatly increased since this "chicken feed" turned out to be a "bank-quet."

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

The Value of Oxygen in Treating Disease

If you have had occasion to visit a hospital, perhaps you noticed a room set aside for the storage of tanks containing oxygen and other gases. Though most of us are aware of the necessity of oxygen for life, perhaps few realize that oxygen is daily used in the treatment of certain diseases.

Dr. Copeland

"Anoxemia" is a big word. It means that condition in which there is a deficient amount of oxygen in the blood.

Anoxemia may result from a decrease of oxygen in the blood circulating in the small vessels of the lungs. It may be caused by an obstruction to the air passages, as may happen in pneumonia, pulmonary emboli, diphtheria and other inflammation of the air passages.

Lack of oxygen occurs in cases of "carbon monoxide poisoning." This poisoning is due to inhalation of illuminating gas, furnace gas, gas from the exhaust of automobiles.

Lack of oxygen occurs in certain types of heart disease. Severe hemorrhage will lead to anoxemia. It may also occur from breathing poor air, or air deficient in the proper amount of oxygen.

The sufferer from anoxemia has a grayish or greenish pallor. The lips are bluish and the fingers and toes are cold. The victim breathes rapidly and has a rapid pulse. From lack of air he may appear to be choking. The administration of oxygen in all such cases is of great benefit.

It is especially valuable when given to the victims of pneumonia. In severe cases of pneumonia, breathing is almost impossible. When oxygen gas is given the breathing is easier and usually the life of the victim is saved.

The value of oxygen in resuscitating individuals from drowning, suffocation and asphyxiation cannot be overestimated. It is of tremendous value in saving the lives of infants at birth. Frequently new-born babies have difficulty in breathing. The use of oxygen carries them beyond the point of danger. In former years such suffering babies were spanked, immersed in cold and hot water baths, or air was blown into their little mouths. In many instances, despite the heroic efforts of the physician, the infant succumbed. The prospect is much brighter today.

Oxygen gas is stored in a large metal cylinder. It has an attachment to a breathing cylinder or tent. The apparatus can be carried to the bedside. In an emergency it may be used in the operating room. It is carried on the ambulance and is available at all times.

The necessity of oxygen for the maintenance of life has been known for centuries. Fresh air is our natural source of oxygen. We should ever avail ourselves of an abundant supply of this precious element. At night the windows of the bedroom should be kept open. During the day breathe deeply of the fresh air.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. E. G. B. Q.—What do you advise for blackheads?

* * *

A.—Diet and elimination are important in the correction of this disorder. Eat sparingly of starchy and sweet foods. Send self-addressed stamped envelope for full particulars and repeat your question.

Household Hints

If a cake that you intend to ice cooks with an uneven top, invert and ice the reverse side, which will be perfectly smooth.

When making junket, if milk has been overheated, add cold fresh milk before stiring in the rennet.

Stained teacups can be cleaned by rubbing with a little common salt.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Alcohol rubs are recommended for treatment of gooseflesh on arms and legs. After the friction, rub in cocoa butter with an up and down movement of the palm of the hand. Continue until the oil has disappeared, powder with borated talcum, go to bed. Uncared for arm surfaces rob the new evening frock of its glamour. Pretty arms are a real beauty asset.

Never should the woman with a long face wear a flat little hat that turns up at the back as do so many chapeaux these days. Better the shadowing brim that continues on its downward way at the rear. Another hat rule: no long-nosed baby should wear a hat that comes down in a point in the front; the line calls attention to the nose, accentuates its size.

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

Lee Chow Questions Kidnapers' Henchman

It was Wynne who spoke first after my shocked recognition of Samuel Brixton as the bound, unconscious figure lying upon the floor of the deserted mountain hut.

"That's what I thought just now," he said, with a triumphant little note in his voice, "but I never saw the man but once, and I couldn't be sure. You couldn't be mistaken, could you?"

"I am not mistaken," I said at last. "This is Mr. Brixton."

"Then," Lee Chow interpolated, "we must get him away from here at once, and take him as fast as possible to the rest of the party. I have some little skill in illness, and both Maj. Grantland and Mr. Underwood have Army experience. We may be able to revive him sufficiently to talk. But getting him away from here is the first consideration. It is not going to be an easy job or a swift one. I am afraid, Wynne, that I shall have to leave him to you and our friend from the farm house."

He waved a slender hand toward Hen-ner-y. "It is more than ever vital that Mrs. Graham and I push forward to the rest of the party, and Miss Mary, of course, must come with her aunt."

"That's all right," Wynne said, "but I want your help for a minute to get the gag away from this man, and help me fix up the bird we've got outside so anybody just looking in here wouldn't think there'd been a switch. Not that I'm anticipating any more visitors tonight. I don't think there's another scout left roaming this particular neck of the woods. Still, you never can tell, and it's as well to be prepared."

STRETCHER FOUND

"An excellent idea," Lee Chow said, and then the three men bent over the unconscious form of Samuel Brixton. But when they lifted him from the corner where he had been lying, Wynne gave a jubilant little exclamation.

"Look what's under him!" he said. "A stretcher! And a good one too, one of those new things that take up very little space when they're not in use. We can get him up the path now in short order. These things are a cinch for men with as good muscles as my friend here and me."

"There ain't many can beat me at lifting and carrying," Hen-ner-y said, not boastfully, but as one speaking a simple truth.

"I'll bet not," Wynne agreed, "but you'll need all your power before this job's done. There!"—picking up the stretcher—"this corner's cleared. Let's lug in the other bird and plant him in the same place. Mrs. Graham, will you take the flashlight? Keep it trained low. We don't want to advertise our being here, and we'll gag this lad so he can't broadcast when he comes to."

CAPTIVE FRIGHTENED

"I've come to now," The raucous voice of the man who had commanded "Hands up!" from the darkness of the mountain trail sounded unexpectedly from the floor, only this time it was sharpened by fear. "What are you doing with me?"

"Just leaving you here in this boudoir where you can rest and keep off your feet," Wynne said cheerfully. "We'll let the police know where you are in the morning. Here, open your mouth pretty, and we won't have to hurt you getting this gag in. But don't make any mistake. I know more about this game than the lad did who fixed up the mouth of the poor old gink yonder. Mine won't slip enough to let you even groan."

"Oh! Don't do that." The voice was filled with stark terror now. "Gag me, tie me up, but don't send the police down here after me."

The words were silenced by the gag which Wynne deftly slipped into his mouth, but Lee Chow interrupted unexpectedly.

"Wait just a second," he said. "Take the gag out again."

Wynne obeyed, and Lee Chow bent over the man.

"Tell me what you know," he said. "If it proves of value to us, I promise you we will not deliver you to the police. But if you mislead us, or bring your fellows upon us, you will beg for the police before I get through with you."

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Right Point of View

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At many of the parties I attend necking is extensively practised. It is distasteful to me, but they think I'm a prude if I don't do it, too.

Do you think I ought to neck just to be in the swim?

BEWILDERED.

No, ma'am, I'm not going to tell you to do anything of this kind, which so inevitably cheapens a girl that, although she may seem "in the swim" now, will find herself "All washed up" . . . on the bleak shore . . . very soon. Watch that word "cheapens." It has impressed many a girl who won't be impressed by many less ugly words. And her point of view about this compelling word reveals inevitably what kind of girl she is, how she thinks, what her plans for herself are, what kind of ideals she has hitched her wagon to. And nobody can polish up this point of view but herself . . . and no one can tarnish it but herself. And if the wrong point of view is "distasteful" to you, the right point of view will be very easy for you.

WE'RE HEATING—AND SAVING—WITH NATURAL GAS . . . WON'T YOU JOIN US?

You've always wanted to heat with natural gas—now you can do it! The new rate reduction lets you enjoy the cleanliness, comfort, convenience and healthfulness of natural gas heating at less than the first cost alone of certain commonly used fuels.

Don't say, "Winter is nearly over . . . I'll not start gas heating now." Spring's changeable, warm-cold weather brings heating difficulties that can be completely overcome only by automatic natural gas heating. Over-heating and under-heating, that cause colds, breed sickness, are banned.

On top of the cut in rates, a reduction has been made (for a limited time and on a limited number) on round conversion burners. You can now convert your present coal boiler or furnace for gas at a lower price than ever before. Our representative will gladly make a survey of your home, give you—without obligation—an estimate of the cost of heating. Check any or all of the items in the coupon below in which you are interested.

SIMPLE BLACK VELVET COAT IS AN ALL-DAY FAVORITE

THE SIMPLE coat of black velvet, ungarnished save for its widened sleeves, is a great favorite right now. Done in velveteen, and cut on tailored lines, it is used for an all-'round, all-day, knock-about wrap; done in silk velvet, with perhaps some tucking by way of elaboration, it accompanies afternoon dresses to luncheons, to afternoon bridge, and to dinner.

* * *

WHEN DONE in the afternoon manner, its wide sleeves are designed not only for fashion's sake, but are a gesture that is a concession to necessity. Since many of the new afternoon dresses have full wide sleeves or frilled cuffs, a successful coat must necessarily have sleeves which will not crush the dress beneath.

* * *

THE VELVET coat in today's sketch is of silk velvet, and has only its tucks across the shoulders and at the back for decoration. The sleeves are wide and full, but narrow down at the wrists. The collar is cut shawl-fashion.

* * *

THE DRESS has a yoke of its own material—black marocain crepe—cut wide to make the shoulders look broad. Its sleeves begin at a low shoulder line and widen toward the elbows. Ruchings of black velvet ribbon are placed below the elbows and around the throat; black velvet ribbon fashions the belt and bow.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

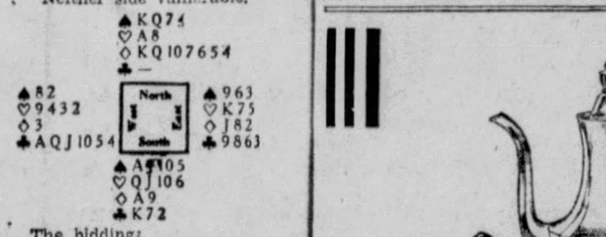
Choosing the Correct Suit

Bridge players have long ago found out that when one suit is divided 4-4 in the hands of the Declarer and his partner, and another suit is much longer in one hand and shorter in the other, it is generally better to have the short suit the final trump, especially when such a suit has tops, so that one hand or the other may be used for ruffing and still permit the drawing of adverse trumps.

An interesting example of this occurred the other day in a Rubber Bridge game in New York City.

South, Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 N T (1)	2 ♣	3 ♣ (2)	Pass
3 ♠ (3)	Pass	4 ◇ (4)	Pass
4 ♡ (5)	Pass	7 ♠ (6)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—The holder of the South hand greatly prefers to play the hand at notrump, if at all possible. This explains the choice of notrump rather than one spade, which is unquestionably a better bid.

2—Disclosing a very strong hand.

3—South now shows his spade suit.

4—Conveying the additional information of a biddable suit in the hand. There is no need to hurry, as North feels that there is a good prospect of a Grand Slam.

5—South now shows his second biddable suit, although slightly shaded.

6—North rightly reasons that South must hold the Ace of spades and the Ace of diamonds, as, had part of the strength of his hand been the Ace of clubs, South could have given warning of this duplication of values.

It will be noticed that a Grand Slam in diamond cannot be made, even with the diamonds dropping.

Against the seven-spade contract, West opened the singleton diamond, but, as a matter of fact, the lead made no difference. South then drew three rounds of spades and discarded three losing hearts upon Dummy's diamond suit. The Ace of hearts was then cashed, and Dummy's small heart ruffed with the Declarer's last trump, at which point all cards in the Dummy were high.

TODAY'S QUESTION

What is the correct response to an Opening bid of two spades with the following hand?

♠K976 ♡A942 ◇97654 ♣—

Answer: Three spades. This call does not show the full strength of the hand in support of partner's bid. However, in this manner the chances of reaching a successful Slam contract can better be determined if the Opening bidder makes a rebid of four hearts or four diamonds. If partner bids four clubs, a duplication of values appears, and the chances of a Slam are not quite as good.

5 in Family Killed As Train Hits Auto

MONSON, Mass., March 20.—(AP.)—Five members of the family of Joseph Gagliano, of Monson, were killed last night as their automobile was struck by a train at an unguarded railroad crossing during a heavy snowstorm.

The victims were Joseph Gagliano, 38; his wife, Catherine, 36, and their three children, Tony, 14; Frank, 9, and Eleora, 7.

Judge Banishes Seats in War On Snores

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 20.—Judge George H. Gessner smiles in pleasure these days as the snores which interrupted many a law suit are banished forever from his courtroom. Judge Gessner ordered the benches removed from the room and the public must stand. The snores departed with the benches, Judge Gessner reports.

Cake Causes Auto Smashup, Two Hurt

Solicitude for a cake held in her husband's lap as she drove the family car home last night caused Mrs. Alexander Philp, 1482 Greenmount avenue, Dormont, to turn and caution him against holding the cake against his coat.

The Philp car ran into the parked machine of Laird J. Spencer, of 3007 Pioneer avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Philp were treated for bruises.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

Today announcement is made of the bethrothal of two very popular members of the younger set. The junior John Hartwell Hillmans announce the engagement of their daughter, Anne Elizabeth, to Benjamin Harvey Kountz, son of the George McClellan Kountzes, of Aiken avenue.

A June wedding is being planned.

Elizabeth attended Dobbs Ferry and the Greenwood School and her fiance attended Washington and Jefferson College.

* * *

Future debutantes who are now studying at Miss Shearer's School, Amberson avenue, are ever so busy nowadays arranging an exhibit—an exhibit showing individual achievements.

Hobby Exhibit

The object is to stimulate hobbies.

The seventh grade has a very modern farm, arranged on card tables, with barns filled with hay, toy animals and poultry, grass, farmhouse and all.

There are several miniature turtle farms, coin exhibits, needlework, clay modeling, collections of diminutive china animals and dolls of all sizes. And there's even a sweater, knitted by one of the pupils; a stamp collection and dolls collected in various parts of the world, one pair over 100 years old.

Kathleen Nimick has one of the most unusual exhibits, a typewritten booklet of her own poems. One of them is "Echoes":

Exhibit Of Poems

"Echoes have good hiding places,
No one ever sees their faces.
They seem to come from far away;
Though they are near, they never stay."

Little Lowrie Wurts has a Japanese garden, and her sister, Mernie, a glass garden, on exhibition. Kathleen Oliver has a turtle aquarium, and an amusing little sign on it says, "Kathleen Oliver, loaned to a friend part of the time."

Elizabeth Kennedy has a braided lariat, and Isabel Patterson a coin exhibit and another "achievement" on the clay modeling table.

Braided Lariat

Among the aides arranging the exhibits are Polly Laughlin, Kitty Schaefer, Henrietta Gould, Betty Snowden, Catherine Edmundson, Anne Teall.

* * *

A Pittsburgh son's wedding is to take place on April 18 in Fort Sam Houston, Tex., and will attract a number of easterners. The bride-to-be is Norma Katherine Pennell, daughter of Lieut. Col. Ralph Pennell and Mrs. Pennell, of Fort Sam Houston, and her fiance is Lieut. R. Klemm Boyd, 9th United States Infantry, U. S. M. A. 1931, son of Mrs. Richard H. Hawkins, of Squirrel Hill avenue, and a brother of popular Eliza Boyd. Lieut. Boyd is stationed at Fort Sam Houston.

Pitt Senior Girls To Be Alumnae Tea Guests

On Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock, the University of Pittsburgh alumnae will receive the senior girls at a tea in the Heinz House.

Manager, Voting Reform Topics For League

The progress the Allegheny County League of Women Voters has made its campaign for election law reforms and the enactment of legislation providing for the city manager form of government for Pittsburgh will be discussed before the postponed meeting of the Twenty-sixth Ward League Wednesday afternoon in the American Legion Hall, Perrysville avenue, by Mrs. J. O. Miller, chairman of the county government committee.

"The Immigrant in the Community" will be discussed at a meeting of the Twenty-third Ward League tomorrow in the Schiller School by Dr. Harvey Salt, executive secretary of the American Citizenship League.

The University of Pittsburgh debating team in a debate on utility ownership, will feature the regular meeting of the Twentieth Ward League in the social room of the Episcopal Church, Sherwood and Ashland streets, this evening.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the monthly conference set for Thursday in the Congress of Clubs. The conference luncheon will be in charge of the county government committee, while the day will be devoted to committee discussions.

Reception to Precede Banquet for Dr. Woolley

Preceding the banquet which the Western Pennsylvania Cause and Cure of War Committee will give in honor of Dr. Mary Emma Woolley March 30 in the Hotel Schenley a reception will be held. Mrs. Ralph W. Johnston, assisted by representatives from all the affiliated organizations, will receive the guests. Invitations have been sent to all the foreign consuls in the city.

Committee chairmen, functioning under the general chairmanship of Mrs. A. H. Bowman, are: Miss Mabel Gillespie, who is in charge of the program; Mrs. H. L. Cleland, reservations; Mrs. Charles L. Reizenstein, publicity; Mrs. Henry D. Stark, dining room and decorations; Mrs. William Schuette, church; Mrs. J. M. Simpson, aides.

Co-operating are the Mt. Holyoke College Club, Women's International League, League of Women Voters, Congress of Clubs, Allegheny County W. C. T. U., Rodef Shalom Sisterhood, Catholic Forum, Council of Churches, Council of Jewish Women and the Y. W. C. A.

CLERIC POINTS TO PEACE GAIN

The world is becoming more imbued with the spirit of settling entanglements without war, the Rev. Dr. Cleland B. McAfee, of New York, declared in an address at the one hundredth anniversary services of the Third Presbyterian Church, Fifth and South Negley avenues last night.

Dr. McAfee, who spoke on "The Progress of Christianity and Civilization," is secretary of the board of national missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, and a former moderator of the General Assembly. He said:

"Christianity in the last 100 years has spread all over the world, education has reached a tremendous peak, and the level of humanity has been lifted remarkably. These changes may be attributed to transportation, communication and information."

A history of the church was outlined at the morning services by the Rev. Dr. William L. McEwan, pastor emeritus.

GROUP MEDICAL PLAN ASSAILED

Such a movement as "group medical service" would force the medical profession off the gold standard of sympathy for the afflicted and self-sacrifice to the indigent, Dr. W. H. Mayer, of Pittsburgh, chairman of the public relations committee, said yesterday. He was reiterating the stand of the State Medical Society against the proposed group.

Dr. Mayer cited statistics of the Allegheny County Medical Society showing that approximately 2,500,000 contacts without hope of remuneration were made in 12 months by physicians in the county. He said in part:

"One cannot look upon sickness and its care as purely scientific, or in purely economic terms. If we cheapen medical service we eventually reduce its efficiency and stifle progress."

EX-CONVICT, PAL FOUND SLAIN

BEDFORD, N. Y., March 20.—(AP.)—A farmer driving to church yesterday found two bodies, apparently dumped from an automobile, each with two bullets in the heart and one in the head.

Papers in their pockets indicated they were Joseph Callegari, an ex-convict, of Brooklyn, and Frank Russo, of Ozone Park, L. I.

A parole card in Callegari's pocket showed he had been discharged from some New York state prison March 14. He also had several letter signed "Pop," postmarked from Waynesboro, Pa.

New York City authorities were asked to assist in the investigation of the double slaying.

KIDNAPED BOY'S FATHER WAITS RANSOM NOTE

POLITICS

Lencher Appointment To Judgeship Looms

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, March 20.—Unless there is some change of program not now foreseen, Gov. Pinchot this week will fill the vacancy which has existed in the Allegheny County Court bench for months.

Mr. Shields

And when and if he does fill the vacancy, the appointee will be Attorney Benjamin F. Lencher, according to information from sources usually entirely reliable in predictions as to Mr. Pinchot's course.

Mr. Lencher already has impressed Attorney General William A. Schnader through the caliber of the indorsements given him by other Allegheny County barristers. Members of legal firms of the highest standing, their members divorced from the cold by-play of politics, have written the Attorney General on behalf of the young Allegheny County lawyer.

The strength of these indorsements has been laid before Gov. Pinchot.

But, despite what you may wish to believe about the divorce of the bench from politics, it is incumbent upon any aspirant for appointment to have political sponsors.

* * *

Mansfield Asked To Urge Appointment

Those are mustering in behalf of Mr. Lencher this week. Persuasion is being exerted upon Senator William D. Mansfield to go to the Governor with the word that he would be completely satisfied to have Mr. Lencher on the bench.

Only that word is needed to swing the balance, for Mr. Lencher already has the indorsement of Common Pleas Court Judge Ralph H. Smith, a Pinchot political traffic beacon in Allegheny County, and is one of the alternative recommendations on the list handed the Governor by County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, now vacationing on the bounding and rebounding main.

The word of Commissioner Mansfield is important. It was his influence that finally swung the Common Pleas Court appointment of Judge Smith a few weeks ago, a matter for which the Senator, in his newspaper, took his full share of credit when there was a disposition in some quarters to award the lion's share of influence to McGovern.

Mr. Lencher's prominence in the picture is part of the arrangement which brings Judges Smith and Harry Rowand into accord in the coming campaign, with both having the backing of District Attorney Andrew T. Park.

Mr. Lencher is the cement of the tie that binds.

The disposition of Judge Smith toward his appointment, and nothing else, is responsible for the changed attitude of Mr. Park toward the young jurist. With justice Mr. Park had a right to resent some of the things Judge Smith said about him less than two years ago, when they were contesting for the Republican nomination for District Attorney, with Mr. Park the victor.

* * *

Smith Outspoken In Campaign Fights

Judge Smith in campaigns does not pull his verbal punches. He did not in 1929, when he was supporting the mayoralty candidacy of James F. Malone, and one of his speeches in that campaign still rankles in the breasts of some Independent Republicans then supporting the late Judge Richard W. Martin.

Neither did the Judge deal gently with what he termed the faults of Mr. Park, when engaged in the campaign of 1931.

Now all that is forgotten—by the principals. It is a strange turn about, and the wonder is how it will be received by Senator James J. Coyne, heretofore friendly to Mr. Park, but not now or ever friendly to Judge Smith.

It would be quite appropriate for this appointment to be made while Col. McGovern is vacationing.

For one thing, he could not be opening charged with having had much hand in the matter by any of the patriots who believe the job should have gone to them. He could explain that he was out of the country and out of touch.

* * *

Gollmar Named When McGovern Was Away

It would be reminiscent of the last time the colonel went yachting, when Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar was appointed to the vacancy created by the election of Capt. Bob Cain as County Treasurer. That appointment was credited to Senator Coyne, for it was made at a time when Coyne and the Governor were friendly.

County Commissioner C. M. Barr did all he could to stop it, and McGovern says he did not approve—though both Barr and McGovern were friendly to Gollmar, and felt he was entitled to some preferment at the hands of the Governor for past services.

But the colonel said, and the nautical charts bore him out, that he was not in a position to interfere. All he could do was register distress by radiogram to the Sun-Telegraph, which he did—after the appointment was made.

This is a fairly lengthy column to write out of the fact that Clerk of Courts S. J. Topley, close friend of Mansfield and ardent well wisher of Lencher, planned to be in Harrisburg today. But it all grows out of that circumstance, and the ways are greased unless some one bobs up from nowhere to sand the track.

THREE INJURED IN NORTH SIDE GAS BLAST

Barber Afire, Patron Blown From Chair, Building Wrecked

Three persons were injured today when a gas explosion in the basement of a two-story brick building at 1319 Reedsdale street wrecked the structure, damaged buildings on each side and shattered windows in the neighborhood.

John Sherpensky, 40, owner of the building and proprietor of a barber shop on the first floor, was severely burned. He was seen by neighbors running up and down Reedsdale street, following the blast, his clothes nearly burned off. He was taken to Presbyterian Hospital.

Mrs. Helen Sherpensky, 38, his wife, was blown from her bed on the second floor. She was taken to Allegheny General Hospital suffering from shock.

The third injured was a brother of the proprietor, Joseph Sherpensky, 35, who was cut by flying glass while talking with Joseph Cutense, 20, of 1333 Reedsdale street, in the barber shop. Cutense was knocked from a chair but was unhurt.

CHILDREN AT SCHOOL

Waslo, 19, son of the Sherpenskys, on the second floor, escaped injury. Three other children, John Jr., 12; Helen, 10, and Albert, 16, were at school.

The building adjoining, at 1317 Reedsdale street, occupied by the Columbus Battalion Political Association, was damaged $200 when the wall adjacent to the wrecked structure was blown in. Tony Postol, an employe, was hurled to the floor but was unhurt.

John Wilk and his wife Anna, who conduct a confectionery at 1321 Reedsdale street, escaped injury when the force of the explosion upset their counter and toppled groceries to the floor. The wall of their building also was damaged.

CAR WINDOWS BROKEN

Windows of a parked car across the street, belonging to C. Newton Berryman, salesman, of 5635 Melvin street, were broken. Windows in several nearby houses were shattered.

Sherpensky's building was so badly wrecked firemen said it would have to be razed. Fire Chief Alex Reed estimated the total damage at $7,500.

Neighbors told police workmen for the Equitable Gas Company had been hunting a leak in a gas main for a week. A hole was dug in Ridge avenue nearby. An official of the gas company requested police to prohibit lighting matches and smoking near the scene.

HOTEL READY TO SERVE BEER

Long forgotten boxes pushed in the darkened corners of storerooms in the Hotel William Penn today were being searched for pre-prohibition supplies as the Eppley management prepared for the advent of beer and light wine.

Silver service pitchers with strainers to hold back the beer foam, mugs and steins are being cleaned and polished. Maitre de Hotel A. Alberts reminiscences of the old days as he inspects a wide variety of wine glasses. Each wine had to have a certain type glass if it were to be properly served. Alberts goes on to explain. There are wine bottleholders in the wide assortment. Odds and ends of champagne, cocktail and what not equipment has come to light.

It will be the revival of an old service to Alberts. It will mean training the staff for the added service and that is extra work for Alberts. But he is jubilant in anticipation of serving the added zest to diners.

BIG BREWERIES HUM AGAIN

The beat of hammers is ringing through large beer making plants for the first time in years as the breweries prepare for legalization of beer.

Big plants, idle since prohibition made operation unprofitable, are being put into shape in this district and adjoining states. Some expect to be producing within a few weeks after Congress legalizes the output.

Men are being put to work repairing and equipping the breweries. Many orders are being placed for supplies, dealers report.

The Tube City Brewing Company, McKeesport, expects to be ready to operate within a month. The brewery has been idle since 1927. Thousands of dollars are being spent to put the plant in condition.

Familiar faces will return to the breweries. The repairs at the Tube City brewery are being superintended by Jacob Sutter, pre-prohibition brewmaster, who has been employed by the company for 24 years.

The Home Brewery of Braddock expects to begin reconditioning its plant soon, and it was said there are several closed breweries in Eastern Ohio which will be put in shape. There are several plants in the Pittsburgh district which probably will not resume operations.

OHIO INNKEEPER GETS THREAT; GUARD GIRL

Police Trace Number Of Abductor's Auto; Description Given

WARREN, O., March 20.—Peter Myers, tavern keeper, today awaited a demand for ransom, following the kidnaping of his son, Peter, 16, Saturday night at the Myers home, near Masury. He is closely guarding the boy's sister, Helen, 14.

After the boy had entered the home, Mike Stevens, the chauffeur, said he was attacked by three men, who, after overpowering him, went to the house and kidnaped the boy. He said they then forced him into the house and, on leaving, gave him a note addressed to the elder Myers. The note warned not to notify the police and promised to return or get in touch with him.

Stevens told police he recognized one of the men, and furnished a description. Florence Rhiel, who lives near the Myers home, gave officers the number of the car which she saw parked nearby.

Police said Stevens reported that the men were waiting when he and young Peter drove up to the house early Saturday evening. After the boy entered the house, he said, they flashed guns and kept him covered while they went to the house to kidnap the boy. Stevens said the men first posed as prohibition officers.

Myers and his wife were at the tavern when the kidnaping occurred. Police, checking the auto license number, said it had been issued in the southern part of the state. They said they were studying the case to determine whether it was for ransom or to pay a grudge.

MARSH FLAYS F. R. ACTION

Labeling President Roosevelt's recent emergency measures as a "move to save the bankers and turn the country over to the profiteers," Benjamin C. Marsh, executive secretary of the "People's Lobby" at Washington, outlined the organization's program for "underconsumption" relief before the Pittsburgh Joint Committee on the Social Crisis today in Fort Pitt Hotel.

Immediate appointment of delegations to intercede with state governors on behalf of this program was urged by Marsh, who declared:

"Congress cannot in decency or safety either recess or adjourn till it enacts, and the President signs, a thorough going program on unemployment and farm relief.

The plan includes:

"Creating a Federal Relief Board as provided in the Costigan-LaFollette relief bill, appropriating $1,000,000,000 for a relief grant this year, with provisions that a large part of this sum to be spent for maintenance of the nearly 4,000,000 youngsters under 18 and those over 65, now gainfully employed."

Although he described the Pennsylvania Legislators as a "band of gangsters and racketeers," Marsh expressed confidence that they could be forced by the people to amend the State Constitution so as to immediately furnish state unemployment relief by taxing incomes.

ELEPHANT HUNT JAILS PAIR

All because of some china dogs and elephants, Jim Clark, 723 Ridge avenue, and his "pal," Cliff Harmon, 27, of 40 Bly street, were to be given a hearing in North Side Police Court today.

Clark had a party at his house Saturday night, and when his friends had left, he discovered his sister's china menageries had left, too, police said. He told the police—and to make their game worthy of the hunt, he is reported to have told them the china dogs and things were worth $500.

When Patrolmen George Moulder and Joseph Croke returned from the hunt with Harmon, who had been at Clark's party, and four of the dogs, Clark was put in a cell adjoining his one-time "pal."

ADAIR TO PRESS TAX CHARGES

Accusations against Burgess John H. Cavanaugh and five other residents of Homestead, accused of conspiring to juggle borough assessments, are not to be forgotten, Leo A. Riordan, chief county investigator, said today. Riordan and Assistant District Attorney Earl T. Adair were to confer this afternoon to determine what action is to be taken.

The charges were dismissed Saturday by Alderman Edward W. Haas. At the conference today, Riordan and Adair were to decide whether the informations would be taken before another alderman or be presented by the District Attorney's office directly to the grand jury.

The informations were made by the County Investigation Department, working in conjunction with the District Attorney's office, against Burgess Cavanaugh, School Superintendent Port Eckles, C. J. McBride, former secretary of the Board for the Assessment; William Dee, former sub-assessor, and Councilmen Jesse Honse and Martin Delaney. They were charged with conspiring to juggle tax assessements during the 1931 triennial assessment.

Greensburg Sisters Victims of Burns

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 20.—When her clothing caught fire from paper she was burning in a furnace, Jean Russell, 10, Greensburg, was seriously burned and her sister, Charlotte, 14, was less severely burned in attempting to extinguish the flames.

'Haunted,' Russ Reveals Counterfeit Life Here

Haunted, he claims, by a recurring vision of his father and mother slain during the Bolshevist revolution in Russia, Joseph Nickolovitch, alias Luidvikas Pacius, 28, of 1258 Ridge avenue, early today walked into Central Police Station and asked Lieut. Albert Florig to hold him for the immigration authorities.

He was arraigned before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg, who ordered him held for federal investigation.

At the hearing, Nicholovitch declared his friend, Pacius, died in his arms during a revolution in Lithuania, and that he took papers from the pocket of his dead friend, among which was the passport which he used to enter the United States.

Nickolovitch, who said his father was an army officer and related to the Czar, claimed he had been living a life of deceit since 1923, when he came to this country.

With the pilfered passport, Nickolovitch assumed the identity of Pacius and on his arrival here found his "family," he said. He was able to continue the deception because Liudvikas was left in Lithuania at the age of 6. Recently, Nickolovitch said, his dead father and mother had been appearing in dreams. He felt they were trying to tell him to reveal his identity. He added:

"I confessed to the Pacius family that I was not their son, but they wouldn't believe me. I want to go back to Russia and see if I can locate the graves of my parents. I am also anxious to see if I can find my sister, who, I think, escaped the assassin's bullets."

CHURCH KILLER GETS LIFE

INDIANA, Pa., March 20.—(AP.)—Everett G. Wilhelm, 57, today was under sentence of life imprisonment on conviction of killing Alexander Warden, 69, as a result of a church quarrel.

A jury which deliberated eight hours returned the verdict yesterday.

Witnesses in the trial said Warden and others had Wilhelm arrested on a charge of disturbing a religious gathering. The state held bitterness because of this caused the killing.

Warden's charred body was found after his house burned. He had been shot in the abdomen with a shotgun and stabbed in the chest with a file.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., March 20.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

If the beer is three and a fraction per cent alcoholic, and you want to get 100 per cent drunk, all you're going to have to do is drink 33 and a third glasses, 50 per cent drunk, 16 and a half glasses. We will be the only country in the world where you can just regulate your intoxication by arithmetic. You say to some friends, "Let's go out and have a 10 per cent good time." So you get out your pencils and find that's only three glasses. So you all decide to raise it to a 20 per cent party. A wife will bawl out, "John, you have had 12 and a half per cent too much now." From the looks of it the Treasury is going to get a bigger kick out of it than the drinkers. Yours, WILL.

Peace on Earth, At Least Until Late Bulletins

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Our keyhole astronomer in Europe still has his ear to the putting green.

That old jingo song about having the men, the fleet and the money no longer reaches the second chorus. War is expensive delicatessen, and the glory of winning is diluted by the lack of profit.

The friendliness in the old world has reached that stage where they are insisting we take three spoonsful of sugar to every cup of coffee.

It's amazing but true. Even in Fontaine's wildest animal fables he never dreamed of a wolf pack with a Red Cross unit for wounded members.

We may be stretching our optimism on the scale of 10 miles to an inch. But everything looks very serene on a Monday morning and we can almost guarantee permanent peace until the evening papers arrive.

Attack Victim Dies; Identified By Wife

Believed to have been attacked and beaten, a man identified early today as Joseph Fzparkowski, 40, of Blawnox, died yesterday afternoon in St. Margaret's Hospital. The body was identified at the morgue by his wife, Mary Fzparkowski, of 142 Forty-sixth street, who said she and her husband had been estranged for eight years. Fzparkowski was found unconscious in a vacant lot early Sunday morning.

Denver Kidnap Fugitive Also Lindy Suspect

DENVER, March 20.—(AP.)—An investigation he hopes will definitely connect Verne Sankey with the Lindbergh baby kidnaping and the abduction of Haskell Bohn, member of a wealthy St. Paul family, was being pursued here today by County Attorney M. F. Kinkead, of St. Paul.

Sankey is sought by Denver police as the ringleader of the recent abduction of Charles Boettcher, II, wealthy broker who was released after $60,000 ransom was paid.

Kinkead said Sankey "undoubtedly engineered" the Boettcher and Bohn kidnapings and he said there was reason to believe he might have been implicated in the abduction, March 1, 1932, of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's first son. Kinkead declared:

"We have information that a telephone call instructing Col. Lindbergh as to the manner in which he should pay ransom for the return of his son was made from a filling station in Minneapolis. We believe Sankey was in Minneapolis at the time."

Kinkead said samples of Sankey's handwriting appeared identical with that contained in notes in the St. Paul case. Bohn was held captive one week last summer before he was released.

HIT-RUN CARS KILL WOMAN, MAN HERE

Police today were searching for the hit-and-run drivers believed responsible for the deaths of two persons yesterday, while seven other victims of Sunday automobile accidents were recovering in Pittsburgh hospitals or at their homes.

An unidentified woman, about 75, died in Allegheny General Hospital from head injuries which police attribute to being struck by an automobile or a fall against a curb. She was found in front of 833 North Canal street.

James Jackson, 53, Negro, 4806 Yew street, found unconscious at Millvale and Center avenues, was taken to Homeopathic Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

COLLISION HURTS THREE

Three persons were injured when the car in which they were riding collided with another at Fifth and Millvale avenues Sunday morning. They are Rose Saltz, 47, 5706 Darlington road, fractured ribs; Harold Martin, 25, 7031 Bennett street, lacerations over right eye, and Abe Saltz, 24, 5706 Darlington road, head injuries. They were taken to Homeopathic Hospital.

Mike Gahschell, 47, of the Improvement of the Poor, is in a serious condition in Homeopathic Hospital, suffering from a skull fracture received when he was struck by an automobile at Bayard and Melwood streets. James Walker, 32, Negro, was arrested on a reckless driving charge.

HIT PARKED CAR

Mrs. Elizabeth Gove, 29, Penn Shady Hotel, was seriously injured, and her husband, Rayburn Gove, 38, suffered head lacerations, when their car collided with one parked at Fifth avenue and Craig street, according to police.

Mrs. Amelia Morschini, 51, of Crucible, is in serious condition in Columbia Hospital, following a collision between an automobile in which she was a passenger and another in East End avenue, Wilkinsburg. Glenn Prady, 8, of Crucible, was slightly injured. Joseph Prady, 29, father of the boy, was driving the car, according to police.

Anesthetic Kills Ohio Horsewoman

BATAVIA, O., March 20.—(AP.)—Mrs. Maude Pindell Taylor, a horsewoman known throughout Ohio and Kentucky, died at her home at Marathon, near here, yesterday, of an anesthetic which the Coroner was told was administered by her husband to ease the pain of illness.

Dr. S. M. White, the Coroner, returned a verdict of accidental death. He said Irvin F. Taylor, the woman's husband, told him his wife had been ill and that he had administered the anesthetic on a handkerchief to put her to sleep.

Man Trying to Save Wife Dies in Fire

PLEASANTVILLE, N. J., March 20.—(INS.)—Unaware that his wife had escaped, David Cox, 25, lost his life early today when he dashed back into the flame-swept dwelling to rescue her.

After carrying their baby to the street, Cox noted the absence of his wife, Evelyn, and ran back into the house. Braving a flaming staircase he raced to her bedroom. It was there that firemen found his charred body.

GRETA GARBO

GARBO CHEERS STOP PLAY

STOCKHOLM, March 20.—(Universal.)—Greta Garbo, Hollywood's reticent Swedish screen star, has formed such a habit of trying to disguise herself that today Stockholm recognizes Greta by her efforts to conceal her identity.

Greta, [illegible]t Sunday with the Count [illegible]untess Wachmeister, at [illegible] attended the Stockholm p[illegible] of Vicki Baum's "Grand [illegible] La Garbo played the dancer, Grusinskaya, in the American film version.

Looking lovelier than ever, but with a black hat and veil pulled well down over her face, Greta sat between the Count and Countess. As soon as the crowd saw she didn't take her hat off, their shouts stopped the play. Greta smiled, the crowd applauded, and the show went on.

Asked when she was returning to Hollywood, Greta said:

"I am sorry, but I have to tell you that I am thoroughly enjoying my stay in Sweden. I feel very happy and I don't know when I am returning to Hollywood."

Reminded that she had given her landlord notice that she will not need her apartment after April 1, and that her trunks are packed, Greta laughed and said:

"You seem to know more about the trunks that I, but—do you?"

MUSIC

Pittsburgh Symphony Society and Walter Gieseking
Syria Mosque

PROGRAM

Overture, "Marriage of Figaro" ..... Mozart
Symphonic Suite, "Scheherezade," Op. 35 ..... Rimsky-Korsakoff
Concerto for Pianoforte, in A minor, Op. 54 ..... Schumann
Spanish Dance from "La Vida Breve" ..... de Falla

The Pittsburgh Symphony Society gave another finely balanced program in Syria Mosque last night before a record audience. The music was surely to its liking, for we do not frequently have such enthusiasm.

Mr. Lissfelt

The orchestra was in excellent spirits and the program gave many occasions for the display of solo instruments so that we might hear how they are coming along in the ensemble. Especially noteworthy was the playing of the concertmaster and first cellist during the "Scheherezade."

Antonio Modarelli conducted; in the "Figaro" he took an exceptionally brilliant tempo, perhaps too fast, but right agreeable music. In the symphony he worked cautiously before he let his forces fly toward the brilliance of the finale. After the concerto Gieseking paid him a gracious compliment by making him accept the applause with him.

Walter Gieseking has many times proven himself a great favorite for the layman as well as the initiated. As piano soloist last night he again won distinction through his noble musical feeling, the brilliance of his playing, and his happy attitude to us all. The Schumann Concerto remains among all such works the most romantically beautiful work written for piano. Symphonic in conception, it remained so in Gieseking's interpretation, but displayed more than usual the marvels of Schumann's fancy.

In addition the pianist gave as encores the F Sharp Chopin Nocturne, a dazzling paraphrase of Viennese waltzes by Gruenefield, and at the finish an incredibly pure reading of a Scarlatti Sonata.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

STUDEBAKER CARRIES ON

Receivership proceedings find world's oldest vehicle manufacturer with assets exceeding liabilities by over $70,000,000

FACTS LEADING TO COURT ACTION REVEALED

STUDEBAKER is still Studebaker in spirit, scope and service.

There has been no change, except for the better, in the policies and program of the historic Studebaker institution.

And Studebaker is fortunate that the men appointed to administer its affairs are H. S. Vance, Vice President of The Studebaker Corporation; Paul G. Hoffman, Vice President of The Studebaker Corporation, and A. G. Bean, President of the White Motor Company—men schooled in the traditions which have given Studebaker its world-wide prestige.

The great South Bend plants of Studebaker, closed since the announcement of the bank moratorium, re-opened Tuesday, March 21st, under the direction of these seasoned automotive executives.

The New Strength of Studebaker

The Studebaker Corporation and its subsidiaries (including The White Motor Company and The Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company, which are not included in this receivership) had on January 1st, 1933, excluding good-will, net assets of $77,622,293 in excess of all liabilities and a book value, excluding good-will, of $26.22 per share of Studebaker common stock. Of these total net assets, net current assets were $21,781,243 or $8.84 per share of common stock. Cash alone was more than $9,000,000.

Directors of Studebaker consented to the friendly receivership, despite the company's strong financial condition, because in their opinion the best interests of Studebaker would be protected until certain legal entanglements in connection with the proposed merger with The White Motor Company are adjusted.

The Studebaker-White Merger

Six months ago it was decided unanimously by the respective Boards of Directors of The Studebaker Corporation and The White Motor Company, that many economies and commercial advantages would result from a merger. A plan looking toward this merger was submitted to the stockholders of The White Motor Company. Within a short time 95 per cent of the White stock was turned in, manifesting the almost unanimous approval of White stockholders.

In recent months, however, holders of approximately 3 per cent of the White stock have threatened litigation against the merger unless their stock were purchased at a price which Studebaker directors felt to be unreasonable and upon terms which it was impossible to meet. Studebaker recognizes the right of minority stockholders to set any price they please on their White stock—even, as in the case, a price higher than it has commanded on the open market at any time since 1929. In addition to private negotiations for this minority stock, Studebaker offered a plan of consolidation under which its value could have been established by court appraisal, but the minority stockholders refused to accept it.

The Studebaker Corporation issued $14,900,000 in Notes in connection with the acquisition of the assets of The White Motor Company. As a result of the attitude of the small minority group, these assets of White have not yet been merged with those of Studebaker. Furthermore, the terms under which these Notes were issued have made it impossible, in the present banking situation, for Studebaker to secure its customary financial accommodation.

Studebaker's competitive position in the industry has been improving steadily. During each of the past four years Studebaker-built cars have secured a larger proportion of total registrations than in the previous year.

The four lines of trucks—White, Pierce-Arrow, Studebaker and Indiana—now sold by The White Company, showed a larger dollar volume last year than any competing company except Ford and Chevrolet. With these four lines of trucks, White branches made a better showing in January 1933 than in January 1932, when general conditions were much better.

There will be no variation whatsoever in the quality of Studebaker and Rockne workmanship. Studebaker and Rockne automotive products will continue to be built without interruption or change, by Studebaker men. This pioneering organization has already faced and fought and triumphed over more "depressions," wars and "bad times" than any other company in the automobile business.

WATER COLORS OF PITTSBURGH EXHIBITED

By PENELOPE REDD

William Shulgold, well-known Pittsburgh painter, offers a new kind of emergency exhibition at his studio in the Bellefield Dwellings, Schenley Farms. He will exhibit paintings in oil, paintings in water color, and drawings every evening this week.

The collection of 50 works is scaled to the wall space available in the modern home. In this exhibition, Mr. Shulgold is less formal than one is accustomed to find him when showing competitively.

He has a flexible control of the temperamental medium of water color in his Pittsburgh series. The "Monongahela Valley" with jade river and amethyst hills as a foil for the monstrous, brooding mills, has a dramatic envelop that, unlike most conscious experiments in super-realism, is authentic. There are many water colors in which Shulgold has used the natural, geometric contrast of houses on hills to build up integrated form without losing the human quality.

Miss Redd

Mr. Shulgold's water colors painted in Somerset County have a holiday flavor removed from the austerity which the Pittsburgh scene imposes. In "The Red Silo," he seizes upon a fortuitous architectural accident to portray it with zest. There is also a study of a country cottage fiercely declaring its individualism through Shulgold's immaculate perception of it.

More earthy is an interior with a Bonnard-like sphinx seated at a table. Here Shulgold's poetic transcription implies the rare union of the sensitive apprehension of beauty in the commonplace with the skill to transmit this feeling directly to the observer unimpeded by the intervening medium of paint.

William Shulgold is certainly one of the finest native painters Pittsburgh has produced. Those who claim any interest in local art should encourage Shulgold and the other painters now pressed by the prevailing conditions to dispose of their work at distress prices. In all of our contacts, we have never yet found anyone who did not regard the paintings they owned with increasing interest as the years passed.

Pair's 20th Child Named Roosevelt

GRASS VALLEY, Cal., March 20.—(AP.)—Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Kistle now are the parents of an even score of children.

Steele Dies at 72; Former Congressman

EASTON, Pa., March 20.—(AP.)—Henry Joseph Steele, 72, newspaperman and former representative in Congress, died yesterday.

A former president of the Pennsylvania Bar Association, Steele two years ago celebrated 50 years of practice at the county bar. He served three terms in Congress from 1914 to 1920.

THEY LONG FOR A HORSE FOR THEIR TINY FARM

MRS. JOHN BITTNER

MR. AND MRS. BITTNER AND THEIR LIGHT WAGON . . . A HORSE WOULD EASE THEIR DAYS

Mrs. Bittner at 68 walking miles to sell her home-baked foodstuffs to keep herself and her ill husband on a farm that produces little because there is no horse and no money. These are Sun-Telegraph pictures.

AGED COUPLE MOURNS HORSE

While all the world sighs for airplanes, fast autos, money, luxuries—Mr. and Mrs. John Bittner desire a horse.

Bittner, 69, and his wife, Anna, 68, married 46 years for the past 12 have been farming on their eight-acre plot in Adara road, Huntingdon Township, Westmoreland County.

In the summer, they take their vegetables to surrounding Allegheny County towns and sell them to housewives and stores. In winter, Mrs. Bittner bakes bread, cakes and rolls and disposes of them in the same manner.

Highly important to them was "Prince," a valiant old horse that uncomplainingly pulled plow or buggy.

But two years ago "Prince," 25, died of old age. Walking became their only method of travel

Recently, Bittner was unable to acompany his wife, due to ill health. She continued her tasks alone.

A horse is needed by the aged couple who are unable to buy one.

They have five married children, all having large families and themselves in financial difficulties.

This case has been brought to the attention of the Sun-Telegraph by a member of the Junior Patrol, an organization originated by Quin Hall, cartoonist.

ROOMER HURT, 2 HELD IN ROW

A quarrel which started over a penny box of matches led to the serious injury of Joseph Mays, a roomer at 507 Water street, and the holding for a further hearing of the proprietor of the rooming house, Joseph Ramchak, 42, and Joseph Domonkos, 38, of the same address.

Police are looking for a third man said to have been present at the fight and known as "Pete the boarder."

At the hearing today before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court, Lieut. Frank Ferris of the Homicide squad, testified that Ramchak and Domonkos had beaten Mays when he had demanded to know who had stolen a box of matches from his room. Mays is reported in a serious condition from chest injuries in Allegheny General Hospital.

Edward G. Robinsons Parents of Baby Boy

NEW YORK, March 20.—(AP.)—An eight-pound son was born yesterday to Mrs. Edward G. Robinson, wife of the motion picture actor.

Mrs. Robinson is the former Gladys Lloyd, who appeared with Robinson on the stage. Both mother and son were reported doing well at Doctor's Hospital.

Salesman's Samples Stolen From Auto

Three stationery sample cases valued at $125 were stolen from an automobile parked in Sixth street, V. Johnston, a guest at the Roosevelt Hotel, reported to police. Johnston told police the thieves broke a rear window of the car.

SQUIRE LOGAN'S HOUSE ROBBED

Alderman Robert Logan today was aiding police in search for a burglar who broke into his home, 2825 Webster avenue, late last night and stole $50 worth of clothing and jewels.

Royal McAdams, attendant at a gasoline station at Dallas and Hamilton avenues, was held up by two armed bandits who escaped with $13 yesterday.

Forcing a rear cellar door in the home of Edward Dalton, 6359 Waldron street, late yesterday, thieves stole jewely estimated at more than $50, according to police.

Assistant Succeeds Dr. H. W. Mitchell

WARREN, Pa., March 20.—(AP.)—Trustees of Warren State Hospital have accepted the resignation of Dr. H. W. Mitchell, superintendent. Dr. Ira A. Darling, Mitchell's assistant, was elected superintendent. Dr. Mitchell has been seriously ill in a Pittsburgh hospital for three months.

300 Burgettstown Miners Go on Strike

BURGETTSTOWN, Pa., March 20.—Three hundred miners in the Bertha mine of the Bertha Consumers Mining Company struck today. Miners said they did not draw their pay on Saturday and they are asking for an increased pay together with other changed working conditions.

Company officials said the men were paid Saturday, but the bank on which the checks were issued did not open until today. Other complaints were expected to be adjusted, the company said.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your headaches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware substitutes.

BENDIX OPENS INSPECTION CLINIC

The National Safety Clinic, an association designed to improve highway safety by periodic free inspection of the safety factors of motor vehicles, has been opened at the Bendix-Westinghouse Company, 5001 Center avenue, it was announced today by company officials.

The clinic is the first of its kind in Pennsylvania. The Bendix-Westinghouse Company, sponsor of the safety association, plans to open similar organizations in towns and cities in the state. The same idea is being carried out in other states and it is planned to band together a network of the clinics throughout the United States.

In checking the mechanical details of cars, the National Safety Clinic inspection machine is being used. In 10 to 15 minutes time the entire mechanical and lighting system of an automobile can be checked. The machine comprises a hydraulic lift, hydraulic jacks, a headlight tester, a brake tester, telescoping rules and steering geometry.

Robert E. Behlen, sales manager of the Pittsburgh division of the Bendix-Westinghouse Company, in explaining the purpose of the clinic to a group of visitors, said:

"The purpose of the clinic is to increase highway safety by frequent periodic inspection of all motor vehicles. The inspection is free of charge to the motorists.

"We recognize that the reason for the poor mechanical condition of motor vehicles in use on the highways is due to the failure of owners to maintain their cars in proper operating condition."

Behlen explained further that a motorist can have his car checked at the clinic just as often as he likes. Experienced mechanics, who check the car, examine it from bumper to bumper and from the rear axle to the horn. Every mechanical detail is gone over with the aid of the National Safety Clinic inspection machine.

As the mechanics examine the car they put their findings on an inspection chart. After the inspection is finished one of the charts is given to the motorist, while a duplicate is kept at the clinic for future reference.

STUDEBAKER TO CONTINUE

SOUTH BEND, Ind., March 20.—(AP.)—Friendly receivership proceedings into which the Studebaker Corporation, pioneer in the automobile industry, has been placed, was not expected by officials to interfere with plans for resumption of production tomorrow. The corporation's factories have been closed since the banking holiday.

H. S. Vance, one of the conservators appointed in the receivership, expressed conviction the Studebaker factories would resume production as scheduled.

The receivership petition was filed Saturday by the Edwards Iron Works, Inc., local auto body building company which had a claim of $6,229. Federal Judge Thomas W. Slick appointed as conservators Vance and Paul G. Hoffman, vice presidents of the Studebaker concern, and A. G. Bean, president of the White Motor Company of Cleveland.

The Faunce Motor Company, Pittsburgh distributors for Studebaker Corporation continued operations as usual today.

Charles L. Day, Faunce general manager said the receivership was made necessary by minority stockholders in the White Motor Company, recently merged with Studebaker.

These stockholders, Day said, objected to the terms at which Studebaker took in the White stock.

During the banking crisis, it was impossible for the Studebaker firm to obtain the usual banking accommodations, Day declared.

Plate Glass Output Lower for February

Total production of polished plate glass for the month of February was 4,955,293 square feet compared with 6,188,263 square feet in January and 6,426,905 square feet produced in February, 1932, according to Plate Glass Manufacturers of America.

California Crude Oil Output Lower

LOS ANGELES, March 20.—California crude oil output during the week ended March 10 averaged 409,300 barrels daily against 471,350 barrels daily in the previous week. The decline is due to shutting down of fields following the earthquake.

MARIE OFFERS NEW STOCK

Public offering is being made of 200,000 shares of $1 par cumulative participating 8 per cent preferred stock of the Marie Gas and Oil Company at $1.25 a share.

The stock pays an annual dividend of 8 per cent and, when dividends on the common stock reach 8 per cent, it shares equally with the common stock on any additional dividends up to 4½ per cent, bringing the total cash dividend which the preferred stock may earn up to 12½ per cent. The preferred stock, in addition to cash dividends, is entitled to participate in any stock dividends up to 12½ per cent.

The Marie Gas and Oil Company is a Pennsylvania corporation chartered to succeed the Marie Gas Company, which was founded in June, 1931. In spite of adverse general business conditions the company has prospered and expanded.

STEEL TRADE CONFIDENT

CLEVELAND, March 20.—(AP.)—A strong feeling in industrial circles that government and industry has passed successfully through a crucial test was reflected in the weekly review today of the magazine Steel.

A greatly improved tone in iron and steel markets was noted, although it also was remarked that steel makers were "under no delusion as to the obstacles still ahead." It was added, however:

"Breaking down of the barriers to trade with the freer flow of currency and checks, deflation of government costs, and rising grain and other commodity and security values is imparting a greatly improved tone.

"This surge of confidence has not yet resulted in an impressive increase of iron and steel consumption, though it is responsible for releasing practically all tonnage suspended recently; it is impelling consumers to seek protection farther ahead than at any time during the depression, and it is setting in motion mechanism certain to generate larger steel requirements.

"There is a strong feeling that government and industry have passed successfully through a crucial test, and are gaining fresh vitality for the grind of recovery."

Investment and Banking Reform Becomes Inevitable

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

RADICAL CHANGES in banking and investment practices have become inevitable. The evils which were exposed by a few commentators within the past two years are about to be eliminated.

This movement is reflected in the pronouncements of the new administration and has been brought to public attention in a sensational manner by Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National Bank. Whether or not Mr. Aldrich's opinions come from the heart or from a desire, as has been suggested, of avoiding an investigation of his own institution, his declarations on the future policies of banks represent submission to an inevitable development—a development necessitated by public opinion and shortly to be enforced by legislation.

It may be recalled that the reforms now under consideration were advocated in this column and by a few other financial writers long before the problem was under general discussion.

* * *

Problem Involves Too Many Masters

A BANKER WHO is engaged in a commercial business, operates a trust department and also underwrites securities is running into the biblical problem of serving too many masters.

In the investment end of his business, he is constantly in danger of diverting funds which should be available to his commercial customers into underwriting operations which may be hazardous. In his trust department business, he is faced with the temptation of increasing his market for underwritten securities by loading them on his trust accounts. He may even be faced with the more dangerous temptation of dumping slow moving securities into this department to pull his own chestnuts out of the fire.

* * *

Sharp Division May Take Place

A SHARP DIVISION between investment banking and other forms of banking must take place. In fact, it has been taking place during the past two years.

Even without the pressure of public opinion and legislation some banks have divorced their security marketing affiliates. This may reflect the fact that the business of underwriting and selling stocks and bonds is no longer profitable, but it also has been in recognition of the dangers of such alliances.

Even though this trend has been under way, the legislation expected from the new administration will be necessary. It will be needed to complete the process. It will be needed to prevent a reversion to the old conditions when investment banking again becomes a lucrative profession.

COLUMBIA'S NET 96c A SHARE

Bank loans of the Columbia Gas and Electric Corporation were reduced substantially during the past 14 months, being at the present time $15,500,000, as compared with $43,500,000 on December 31, 1931. Cash on hand was approximately $10,000,000.

The pamphlet report for the year ended December 31, 1932, shows consolidated net income equal to 96 cents per share on the common, against $1.42 in 1931.

Total assets were $734,479,482 on December 31, 1932, compared to $736,893,915 at the close of 1931, and surplus amounted to $40,851,861, compared with $44,448,804 a year previous. Current assets totaled $23,163,105 and current liabilities $30,768,981, as against $29,661,339 and $56,632,884, respectively, on December 31, 1931.

Carnegie's Life Story — From Burton J. Hendrick's Biography of the Steelmaster — New Institution Built

'Cathedral' Erection Pleased Steelmaster

In January, 1897, Bishop Henry Codman Potter, of the New York Diocese, wrote Carnegie suggesting that he provide the organ for the new Cathedral of St. John the Divine, then beginning to rise on Morningside Heights. "My dear Lord Bishop," Carnegie replied, "Anything that would bring me into closer relations with you would be worth much, but I cannot enjoy the pleasure of furnishing the great organ for the noble cathedral, which is certainly to be your greatest monument in stone, yet not so great as the record you will leave behind you for participation in every great work. I am pledged to spend $2,000,000 more in and around Pittsburgh, your starting place as it was mine.

"This is my cathedral work. Some day I should so like to have you go there with me and see the latent desires for higher things the institute has called forth—music, literature, painting and the museum . . . Not less than five million dollars I shall spend in this work, as rapidly as I receive it. Just now I am a little behind in cash. Must concentrate on my Pittsburgh work."

Carnegie was modest in his estimate of the ultimate cost of his "Cathedral." The $5,000,000 which he suggested grew to $36,000,000 in 20 years. The date of this letter represented a troublous time in the American steel trade. Dividends were scanty; Carnegie himself was compelled to borrow money for several enterprises; yet so great was his confidence in the future that he had not hesitated to make liberal promises to Pittsburgh—promises for the fulfillment of which, as this communication indicates, the money was neither in hand nor concretely in sight.

Carnegie arrived from Scotland in the autumn of 1881, fresh from coaching excitements and full of the glow with which his gift of a library for Dunfermline had been acclaimed. That he would grant an even greater boon to his adopted city was inevitable. Almost his first act was to write a letter to the Mayor, offering $250,000 for a library building, provided Pittsburgh would furnish the site and appropriate $15,000 annually for support. His formula for library giving, from which he never departed, was thus applied, at this early date, to Pittsburgh, as it had been to Dunfermline.

Offer Declined

The Pennsylvania town, unlike the Scottish which had eagerly and gratefully accepted these terms, began to balk and raise legal difficulties. Pittsburgh, it was urged, had no power to appropriate money for such a purpose. Other more disagreeable animadversions followed, the suspicion, since become so stale, that Carnegie was merely "glorifying" himself, building a great "monument" to his fame, finding its way into conversation and the public press.

The offer having been declined, Allegheny, where the Carnegie family had spent its years of struggle, stepped into the breach. Since Pittsburgh did not desire this money, why should not the sister community have it? The terms on which the library had been offered were entirely satisfactory to the smaller town. Carnegie was greatly pleased and at once transferred his appropriation to the more grateful applicant. A fine building, comprising not only a library, but a music and lecture hall, rapidly took form, situated not a stone's throw from Rebecca street, and the dedication, in 1890, became a national event, the President of the United States, Benjamin Harrison, being the orator of the occasion.

Two or three months before the Allegheny Library was opened, a committee, representing the Pittsburgh Council, sought an interview with Carnegie. Would he not renew his offer? Suitable legislation had been passed and the terms could now be met.

"No," replied Carnegie, keenly relishing, as always, the dramatic phase of the meeting. "I do not think that $250,000 is enough for Pittsburgh. I'll quadruple the amount and make it an even million."

One man greatly displeased by this episode was Herbert Spencer, whose visit to Pittsburgh had been made when the discussion was entering the liveliest stage. Newspaper comments which he read, reflecting in unfriendly terms on Carnegie's motives, aroused his anger, for Spencer's emotions, despite his voyagings into the unknown, were intensely human.

Pittsburgh, he exclaimed to Carnegie, deserved no library; an opinion that was reiterated when the second offer was made. But Carnegie only laughed at the philosophic explosion and far from nourishing any resentment, began to add million after million to his gift. Before the library was finished he gave an endowment yielding $50,000 a year, for the encouragement of music and art and for the foundation of a scientific museum. By 1897 his gifts—or pledges—for these several purposes had reached $5,000,000. How great was the pleasure derived the following letter shows:

To W. E. Gladstone

"February 3, 1897.

"My Dear Mr. Gladstone:

"I remember you were surprised when I said that I was spending 400,000 pounds sterling in Pittsburgh for Library Hall, Art Gallery and Museum. The amount has grown to 600,000 sterling and I am pledged to make it a round million sterling before stopping.

"Never in my life have I known or read of such a success as this institution. Pittsburgh is the smokiest place in the world; your Sheffield is clean in comparison. It has never been anything but a center of materialism; has never had a fine hall for music, nor a museum, nor an art gallery, nor public library, and yet the result proves that there has been lying dormant the capacity to enjoy all of these.

"The Institute was opened November, 1895. Founder's Day was celebrated November 5 of last year. Let me tell you some of the results of the first year's work. As a result of a hall—which Ian MacLaren I see pronounces the finest hall he has even spoken in—Pittsburgh has now a permanent orchestra. Only three cities in the United States can boast of this; and unless it be Glasgow, Scotland, I do not think there is one permanent orchestra in the United Kingdom. We have free organ recitals for the masses Saturday afternoons and Sunday afternoons. The organ is not excelled by any in quality, if equaled. So numerous have been the high class entertainments in the hall, for which a charge is made, that it has not only paid expenses, but turned a profit of 400 pounds into the general fund. In short, I may say that music of the highest order has taken root.

The Art Salons

"The Museum is already almost filled with fine things, including many casts of the finest statues, all the Neapolitan bronzes, etc., etc.

"The scholars from the public schools are taken in detachments, and prizes are given for the best essays describing their visits.

"The most surprising success of all, however, is in the Art Galleries. The exhibitions have attracted the attention of the whole country, and we hope to make Pittsburgh a center of art. Many of its citizens have fine collections of paintings, and the leading artists here assure me that if we go on as we have begun the principal art event of the year may be the exhibition at Pittsburgh. The foregoing (art galleries and museum) have a revenue of ten thousand pounds per year, the proceeds of two hundred thousand pounds, five per cent gold bonds, which I set aside.

"The Library, of course, we expected to show great work, but its record also is surprising, and the City Councils are supported by public sentiment in appropriating this year eighteen thousand pounds for the Library. I required the city to support her libraries. We have seven other branches now building.

"Mrs. Carnegie and I derive the sweetest of all our satisfactions from our Pittsburgh benefactions . . .

"Yours devotedly,
"ANDREW CARNEGIE.

"One mail brought me three letters,
"One from you—Gladstone
"One Herbert Spencer
"One from John Morley
"I am quite set up as no other one can say this.
"A. C."

His "Cathedral"

Such then was Carnegie's Pittsburgh "Cathedral." But the present institution is a different affair from the one he so heartily described to Bishop Potter and Mr. Gladstone. The building dedicated in 1895 forms only one wing of the present elaborate structure. Soon after its opening, Carnegie, with the assistance of several of the most enlightened citizens of Pittsburgh, particularly Dr. William J. Holland, formulated more comprehensive plans. Besides a library and music hall, proposals were made for a museum and art gallery, a technical school and other departments. For these auxiliaries Carnegie stood willing to provide the money, and the present building is the result, one of the most beautiful in the country, in every way an inspiring monument to that higher civic life for Pittsburgh which it was intended to symbolize.

By the time it was finished, in 1907, the Institute, with its several associated enterprises and their endowments, had absorbed $20,000,000—an amount that has grown, as already noted, to $36,000,000. Under the presidency of William N. Frew and, in recent years, of Samuel Harden Church, the Institute has become a great educational city, devoted to fitting the new generation to cope more successfully with life.

The library, the music hall, the music school, the art department, the museum, are carrying on their work to an ever increasing degree. The library, besides it main headquarters, now has 135 agencies—in branch buildings, public, private and parochial schools and the like—for the circulation of books, and a school for librarians.

The museum, under the late Dr. W. J. Holland and the late Douglas Stewart, has become one of the three or four best in the United States.

Leading Art Event

The Pittsburgh annual exhibition draws paintings from two continents and is one of the leading art events in the country.

The Technical Schools, just starting in 1906, are now consolidated into the Carnegie School of Technology. Here young men and women interested in the several branches of engineering—civil, chemical, electrical, mechanical—can obtain expert training and receive degrees, while others less ambitious spend their evenings learning manual trades. This latter enterprise appealed especially to Carnegie, for here the ideals of his grandfather's essay in Cobbett's Register, "Handication versus Heddekashun," are made reality. Bricklaying, pattern making, foundry and machine work, the art of the mason, plumber, steamfitter and wood craftsman—the world still has need of such skilled tradesmen, and here they are educated along scientific lines.

Perhaps the building that Carnegie used to linger over most fondly was the college for women. This is not another Bryn Mawr or Vassar. Here girls are taught the profession of home making. They learn to cook, to sew, to embroider, to make dresses, to weave, to design, and there are elaborate courses in home economics, in dietetics and the chemistry of food.

Young women destined to earn their own living are prepared for business and secretarial jobs, for social and playground work, for positions as laboratory research assistants—for practically all the endless occupations into which women now find their way.

Carnegie gave this college the name of his mother, Margaret Morrison Carnegie.

VETS COUNTED OUT COME RIGHT BACK

Evidently the old boys are not going to be crowded out of the big league baseball picture as easily as some of the up and coming youngsters imagined when the latter started in to grab the jobs of the fading veterans. Quite a few of the supposed wrecks that had been tabbed as certain to drop out of the major ranks this year have refused to take the count and have been conducting themselves in spring practice in a way to confound the prophets who listed them among the game's unburied dead.

Charley Jamieson

The latest to take a new lease of life is Charley Jamieson, 40-year-old Cleveland outfielder. The club released him a couple of months ago after his 14 years of loyal service, and then granted his request for another chance, when he could not find a job elsewhere, the outcome being that he has shown up so well in the training camp that he is said practically to have clinched the extra berth in the Cleveland outfield. He is judging fly balls as well as ever, is fast on his feet, throws strongly and looks good enough at bat.

AND JAMIESON IS only one of the oldsters to surprise the critics. It had been expected that Rabbit Maranville, at 41, would play only part time at second base for the Braves, just against left-handers. But Bill McKechnie has not found anybody able to take even half of the job from Maranville.

Bill says that there are some who can outhit him, but that the Rabbit is so much better in every other way that there is no comparison. Joe Judge is almost 39, but he has won the starting assignment at first base for the Dodgers. Waite Hoyt, labeled done as a pitcher, promises to be a very serviceable chucker for the Pirates.

ROGERS HORNSBY was thought to have played his last game, but he's to be a keystone fixture for the Cards. The Browns picked Muddy Ruel out of the driftwood and he's catching like a man in his baseball prime. Johnny Gooch is doing equally well behind the bat for the Red Sox after two years in the discard.

Eppa Rixey is nearing 42, but he may pitch the opener for the Reds against the Bucs. Rosy Ryan has come back from the minors after several years to win a slab job with the Dodgers. Jack Quinn, at least 48, is to hang right on as the main relief hurler for the same club. Remy Kremer is upsetting the dope that he was through as a Corsair flinger, and Urban Faber, at 44, is back for his twentieth season as a hurler for the White Sox. They wrote some of the baseball obituaries too soon.

ONE CATCHER WILL do most of the backstopping work for each of the clubs in the main tent this year. Earl Grace will be Pittsburgh's mainstay and is being picked by many of the experts to be the outstanding receiver of the National League. The Cubs will depend on Gabby Hartnett, the Dodgers on Al Lopez, the Cards on Jimmy Wilson, the Braves on Frank Hogan, the Phillies on Virgil Davis, the Giants on Gus Mancuso, and the Reds on Rolly Hemsley. In the American League the workhorses will be Bill Dickey for the Yankees, Mickey Cochrane for the A's, Luke Sewell for the Senators, Roy Spencer for the Indians, Ray Hayworth for the Tigers, Charley Berry for the White Sox, Rick Ferrell for the Browns and Johnny Gooch or Mervyn Shea for the Red Sox.

Johnny Gooch

THE FACT THAT Johnny Gooch, a Pirate of yesteryear, is already conceded at least an even chance to be the main catcher for the Red Sox, indicates that that veteran is making a surprisingly good job of his attempted comeback after being out of the majors a couple of years.

Gooch is 34, but in camp is working harder and spilling more pep than the average youngster. He is clearly all business this time. The Bosox took on Johnny because he is smart, and he has been of great help already in coaching the young pitchers.

PHILADELPHIA CRITICS WERE inclined to question the wisdom of the step when Burt Shotton started to groom Gus Dugas at first base as a possible understudy to Don Hurst. The former Pirate outfielder, standing only 5 feet 9 inches and weighing 165 pounds, looked too small in comparison with the 6-foot 200-pound Hurst.

But now they are recalling that Stuffy McInnis was only the same height as Dugas, and think Gus may not turn out so poorly after all. Dugas has been making pretty fair progress, too. And they won't have to worry about his hitting.

A STUNT SOMETIMES pulled in hockey is that of jerking out the goaltender when a team is a goal behind with only about a minute left to play and replacing him with a forward, thus putting defense on the shelf and staking everything on getting that needed goal. But when it was tried in an amateur game at Detroit, it didn't go over. The referee promptly stopped the contest and ordered the goalie to return to his place, pointing out that the amateur rules stipulate a team shall consist of five skaters and a goaltender. Another unusual step by a hockey referee this season was taken by Red Synnott in handling a game in Philadelphia between the Bruin Cubs and the Arrows. When a free-for-all fight started on the ice, Synnott did some quick thinking and ordered both teams to their dressing rooms. He knew that, with the tempers of the players still raging, to resume the contest at once might bring about more serious trouble.

THE BARTER IDEA was reported as having broken into football, basketball and boxing at various places during the fall and winter, goods being accepted in lieu of money for admission. Nobody figured it might find its way into golf, but it's in there just the same.

The chairman of the greens committee at one of the clubs in the Massachusetts Golf Association conceived the idea of offering some of the older and more experienced caddies at the club certain hours of play on the course in return for work done under the supervision of the greenskeeper.

AN UNTRIED PLAYER stepped into the breach on the Penn State basketball squad in the season just ended to fill the spot left vacant by the graduation of Fred Brand, former center of the Lion quintet.

Curtis Henning

The recruit who made good in his first year is Curtis Henning, a Johnstown boy and a junior. He was not on the squad in 1932 as a sophomore, but came to the front in 1933 to win a varsity post after warming the bench for the first two games on the schedule.

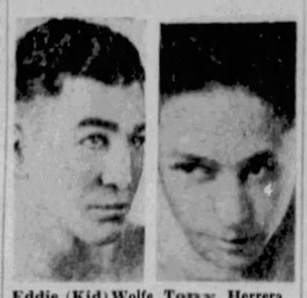
WITH HENNING BACK next season, Coach Spike Leslie will have one problem solved before the campaign opens. Henning's forte is jumping ability. He has the range, and few opposing centers were able to get the tap on him consistently. Without much apparent natural ability, Henning quickly developed into a very reliable player. The Lions hung up a good record under their new coach during the winter, losing only four games. Pennsylvania, Temple, Syracuse and Colgate were the only opposing teams to lower State's colors on the hardwood courts. Norry McFarlane, of McKeesport, was the mainstay of the Blue and White five, leading the entire squad in the season's scoring, with an average of more than 10 points per game.

RETURN BATTLE EXPECTED TO BE SPIRITED

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

If there is such a thing as a guarantee of quality in a good trade-mark, Motor Square Garden has it in the main bout of its weekly boxing show tonight, when it presents a 10-round return meeting between Tony Herrera and Eddie (Kid) Wolfe, the former of Chicago and the latter of Memphis.

Here are two tried and true showmen of the ring who never have failed to please the local fans, Herrera over a stretch of several years and Wolfe since he met Herrera at the Meyers Bowl last summer and really merited the decision, which went to Herrera.



Eddie (Kid) Wolfe Tony Herrera

TONY IN BEST FORM

Herrera recently defeated Tony Falco, of Philadelphia, in the Garden ring, showing his best form in recent times, while Wolfe held Ted Yarosz to their second draw in his last appearance here, also at the Garden. Eddie holds the marked distinction of being all even with the amazing Yarosz in a series of four bouts, of which each has won one and shared in two deadlocks.

Wolfe and Herrera are two very consistent ringmen. They are not in-and-outers, good one night and indifferent another. Both have the winning instinct, and, this being so, they give their best and a good show any time they answer the gong. Herrera knows he has a fight on his hands tonight; it will not be just another case of the Mexican star outclassing his opposition.

GULOTTA IN SEMI-FINAL

Pete Gulotta, of New York, who defeated Louie Severo in a great exhibition of infighting in the same ring recently, returns to box Tony Sciolino, of Buffalo, in the eight-round semi-final, marking Sciolino's first appearance here. Tony comes highly touted as a seasoned performer.

Two six-round bouts bring together George Bordell, of New Kensington, and Elmer Wilson, of the Hill, and Charley Burns, of Johnstown, and Nat Litfin, of the Hill, and a four-rounder between Mike Barto, of New Kensington, and Charley Blozevich, of Johnstown, opens the show at 8:30.

THOMAS IN MONTREAL

Jimmy Thomas, local bantamweight, who boxed Tommy Paul at the Garden last Monday night, meets Pete DeGrasse, of New York, in Montreal tonight, and his stablemate, Battling Gizzy, boxes Roger Bernard again at Flint, Mich. Thomas may box Jimmy Mack in a return bout in Philadelphia next Monday night.

Johnny Datto will box Johnny

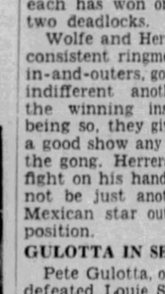
BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

NEW ORLEANS, March 20.—Well, we are on our first road trip in New Orleans and it's pretty lively here in spite of Huey Long being out of town. When it comes to clowning, Huey is quite a card himself. If he ever gets licked for the U. S. Senate, he could stay right in Washington and Griff could use him in the third base coaching box as opposition to me.



Nick Altrock

But I know the guy personally and Huey is all right. When Louisiana sent the Kingfish to Washington, it was as good as sending Amos and Andy along, too.

Our outfit has played in New Orleans a couple of days and I've been hoarding some swell food in my stomach against the dining car fodder we will get when we hit the road to go North. Tomorrow we ride back to Mississsissippi (I always stutter when I write it) for a short spell and then it's 10 nights in an upper berth, making all the whistle stops.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF LAST SATURDAY: THE BLIND GOLD MINER—Heinie Miller, the blind miner of Goldfield, Nev., has spent all his time since youth in prospecting for gold over the western mountains, and in the early days settled in the Goldfield district to carry on his search for a bonanza. Miller, since the loss of his eyesight in a premature explosion within the mine shaft on October 20, 1927, has become remarkably proficient in doing things that one would think a blind man could not do—build a trail to the top of the hill where his Yellow Rose mine is located, string a wire line along the trail to be guided by, sink the mine shafts himself, and actually tell by the weight and "feel" of the rock which is ore and which is waste. Never discouraged, always ambitious, and resigned to acceptance of conditions as they are, Miller continues his efforts with perfect faith that he will find his mine, and his fellow miners of Goldfield do not doubt it.

TOMORROW: A DANCING FEAT

BUCS DIVIDE DOUBLE BILL WITH CUBS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

SAN JOSE, Cal., March 20.—The Pirates are in San Jose today for the purpose of meeting the Portland Beavers, champions of the Pacific Coast League. George Gibson and his players said a fond farewell this morning to San Francisco after getting the worst of a four-game series with the Cubs.

The Pittsburghers were supposed to have an edge on the National League champions on paper, but at the Seals' Stadium they did not reflect any advantage; rather they were outclassed at almost every turn. The Buccos managed to win over the Cubs in Oakland yesterday morning, but in the afternoon, before 5,000 fans and with perfect baseball weather prevailing, they fell down in the clinches and lost a hard-fought battle. The morning score was 10 to 4, and the afternoon count 6 to 4.

CUBS LOOK GOOD

Spring training games as a rule have no deep significance, yet the showing of the Cubs in winning three out of four from the Buccos was very impressive. Apparently Charles Grimm's team is out to make amends for its sorry showing in the world series of last year. The Cubs believe an early start is essential and the way they outfought and outplayed the Buccos is at least worthy of note.

Heinie Meine deserved to score a victory over the Bruins in the afternoon clash of yesterday. Heinie entered the game in the sixth and pitched three hitless frames. Some loose play in the ninth put him in a bad spot and the Cubs broke a four-all deadlock to make two runs. Lonnie Warneke received credit for the triumph, but Lonnie was not as clever as Meine. The Cubs spoiled three or four Pirate hits by fast fielding, but the Buccos were so dull in the opening frames they could not make up for their laxity.

Bill Swift and Hal Smith were on the slab in the morning in

WOOD VICTOR IN GEORGIA

ALBANY, Ga., March 20.—(AP.)—Craig Wood, of Deal, N. J., who won three golf tournaments in a row in California this winter, took first place in the 54-hole Radium Springs open with a total score of 209.

The victory was worth $300 to Wood, already one of the leading money winners of the winter campaign. His score for the three rounds was seven under par.

Wood put together two sub-par rounds of 68 and 70 yesterday to add to his 71 of Saturday and take the lead from Horton Smith, of Chicago, the pace-setter through the first and second rounds. Smith faltered in the final 18 holes and finished in third place with 213, four shots behind the winner and one more than Johnny Revolta, the Menominee, Mich., youngster, whose 212 brought him second place and $200. Smith took $125.

Harry Cooper, of Chicago, and Willie MacFarlane, of Tuckahoe, N. Y., were tied for fourth with 215. Both were a stroke under the 216 par for the three rounds.

Paul Runyan, of White Plains, N. Y., followed with 217. After a 71 in the opening round, Runyan could do no better than a pair of 73's yesterday.

Charles Yates, of Atlanta, the young Georgia state champion, was low among the amateurs with 225.

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Tony Herrera vs. Eddie (Kid) Wolfe, 10 rounds; Pete Gulotta vs. Tony Sciolino, 8 rounds; George Bordell vs. Elmer Wilson and Nat Litfin vs. Charley Burns, 6 rounds each, and Charley Blozevich vs. Mike Barto, 4 rounds, Motor Square Garden.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Perhaps it is only a coincidence, but the same day that brings news of the injury of Little Bill Carr, the Penn runner, in an automobile accident, also brings a copy for review of Charley Paddock's new book, "Track and Field," which contains pictures of Carr beating Ben Eastman, the Coast flash, in the Intercollegiate 440 and the Olympic Games 400 meters last year, setting a new world record in the Olympic event.

Reading Paddock's book, one of the finest on track and field athletics ever prepared, brings home forcibly the tragedy that has befallen Carr, who lies in a Philadelphia hospital with both ankles and his right pelvic bone broken, his college running career at an end and possibly out of running for all time . . . Carr had planned to carry on this spring and then to tour Europe, where, as the Olympic champion, he would have been a great attraction.

The pictures in Paddock's book are especially interesting . . . In both races with Eastman they show Carr just ahead at the tape, running with a firm, steady stride, up on his toes, apparently fresh, while his taller rival is exhausted, unable to get his knees up in the proper action and hitting the turf flat-footed, his legs getting only about half of their normal stride . . . Carr's rise as a college runner was sudden and sensational, especially in view of the fact that he broke both ankles while high jumping in his school days. He may come back after his latest injury, but doctors are skeptical because of the pelvic injury.

A former "fastest human," and of keen intelligence, Paddock has written a book which should be of great aid to coaches and track athletes . . . It includes diets for the athlete in training, all-time records, advice on developing form in the field events as well as on the track, and, on the whole, is to be recommended to all followers of this sport.

A few low bows in the direction of Duquesne, Pa., if you please . . . For it houses the schoolboy basketball champions of Western Pennsylvania, the representatives of Duquesne High School, winners of the ardous W. P. I. A. L. elimination series, and potential state champions . . . With Duquesne University winning the college championship of Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania and Duquesne High School sweeping its field, the name Duquesne has come to stand for the best in this popular winter pastime.—HARRY KECK.

CUP CHAIRMAN KEEPS POST

NEW YORK, March 20.—(AP.)—Bernon S. Prentice, of New York, today was renamed chairman of the United States Davis Cup committee by President Harry S. Knox, of the United States Lawn Tennis Association. The reappointment indicates a continuance of the policies Prentice pursued in managing and training the 1932 squad.

As his first act Prentice has called a meeting of the general Davis Cup committee of 26 for New York, March 27, to discuss plans for the campaign it is hoped will lead to recovery of the international trophy lost to France in 1927.

Tentative plans also were announced for Davis Cup play in the North and South American zones. The final American zone play is slated for May 25, 26 and 27, two weeks ahead of the dates of last year.

CURRY, SYGAN TEAMS TIE

The Curry and Sygan soccer clubs battled to a 1-1 tie game in the West Penn Senior Cup competition at Morgan Field yesterday afternoon.

Played on a field ankle-deep in mud, the game attracted a large crowd. Curry scored in the first half, Mike Bookie finding the net with a fine drive.

In the second half, Nagi missed a penalty kick for the Sygan team, but Chappel equalized the score with a good shot. The lineup:

Sygan—1.	Pos.	Curry—1.
Rowaun	G.	Kirshner
McGreevan	R. B.	Cimeroli
Crouse	L. B.	Cyle
Usnick	R. H.	Kirk

Mitchell	O. L.	Powell

Goals—Chappell, Bookie.
Referee—Evans.

Referee Overruled, Brown's Title Saved

MILAN, Italy, March 20.—(INS.)—The bantamweight crown still was perched on Panama Al Brown's kinky head today, but it almost fell off last night in his 12-round bout here with Dominick Bernasconi, Italian champion.

Brown had a big lead on points, but Hart, the British referee, disqualified him for holding in the fourth round. Al's title was saved when the judges overruled the referee.

Attendance was 12,000. Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight champion, refereed one of the preliminaries.

W.-J. IN MAT MEET

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 20.—For the second time since the sport was placed on a varsity basis four years ago, Washington and Jefferson College will have a repesentative in the national intercollegiate wrestling tournament at Lehigh University at Bethlehem Friday and Saturday. The Presidents' banner will be carried into competition by Ed Myers, who will wrestle in the 160-pound division.

By JULIUS LEVIN

The 1933 W. P. I. A. L. basketball elimination series having been concluded with the crowning of Duquesne High, champion of Section VII, as titleholder, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph today announces its all-tournament selections, composed of players who distinguished themselves in the contests.

As has always been the policy of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, stars were adjudged on their own merits rather than on the records compiled by their teams. All players selected on the four teams were awarded the same positions in which they appeared in their school lineups, no attempt being made to shift them to assignments they did not hold in the tournament.

GUARDS PLENTIFUL

While the tournament recently closed revealed a dearth of good forwards, such was not the case among the guards. The guards representing this year's tournament entries are deserving of being ranked with the best ever to appear in the eliminations.

Myles Zeleznik, brilliant forward of the Duquesne quintet, is awarded the highest honors of the tournament. Zeleznik was the outstanding performer throughout the eliminations, his fine shooting and general all-round work on the floor stamping him as one of the greatest passers to play in the school classic. He starred in every contest in which Duquesne appeared, one of the reasons the Steelers were able to emerge with the championship.

TEPLICA CHOSEN

At the other forward post is John Teplica, of New Castle, whose work played a big part in bringing the Lawrence Countians into the final game. Teplica's scoring in the earlier engagements of the tournament was a factor in New Castle's victories over Union Township, Norwin and Monessen, and while he was checked by Duquesne in the finale, his brilliance in the early rounds was sufficient to win him his berth.

Duquesne receives its second position on the first team with the award of the center berth to Mike Radvansky, whose work in all games left nothing to be desired in all-round performances. A good shot and a fine floor man, Radvansky proved himself a consistent performer, ranking second only to Zeleznik in value to the newly-crowned champions. Joe Kelley, of New Castle, was another fine center, but he did not compare with Radvansky in all-round brilliance.

Joe Tucci, of Monessen, is awarded a position at guard on the first team, this youngster, despite the elimination of his team in the semi-finals, proving himself one of the outstanding players in the tournament. Tucci's work in all games in which Monessen appeared in the eliminations was the spark that carried the Greyhounds through to the semi-final round in which they bowed to New Castle. Around him was built the Monessen attack, and he came through with colors flying. A good shot and a fine floor man, this youngster commanded the attention of the fans by the manner in which he always succeeded in advancing the ball to permit his teammates to register points. He was brilliant even in defeat.

WINNE AT GUARD

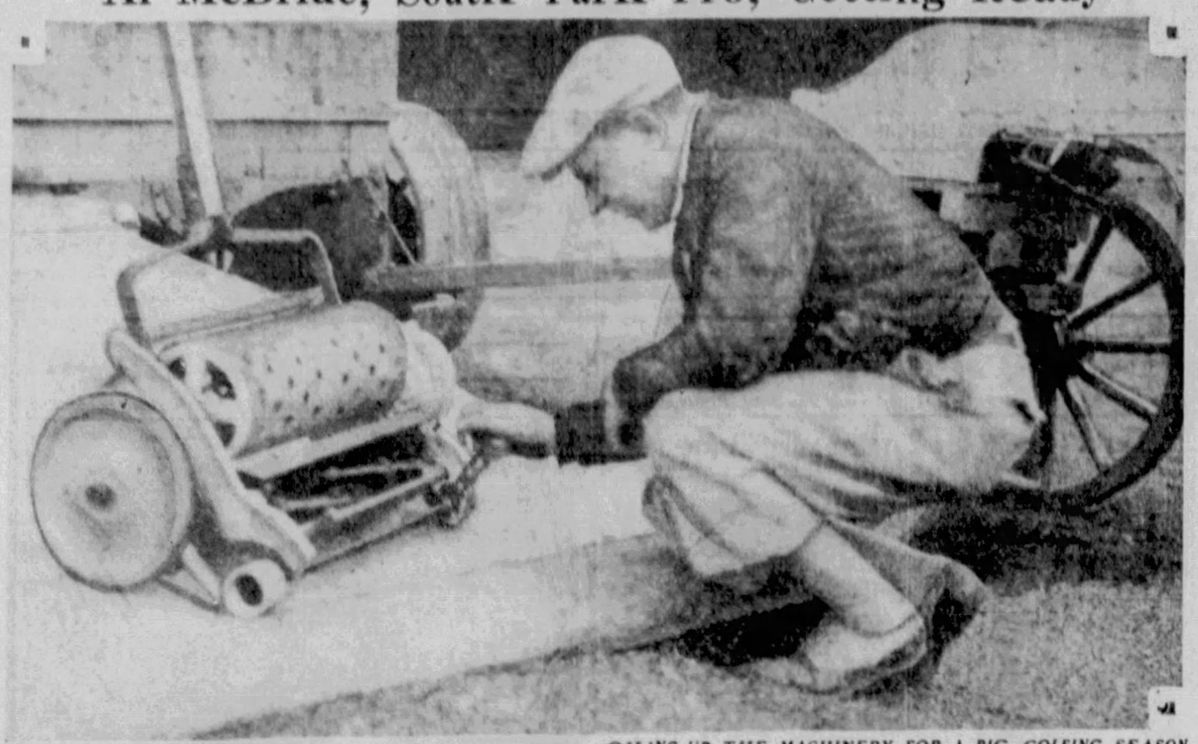
Like Tucci, Whitey Winne, of Ambridge High, proved himself an outstanding performer in the eliminations, and is awarded the second guard post. A comparative newcomer in tournament play, Winne acquitted himself nobly in the elimination series, one of the reasons Ambridge was able to go through to the semi-finals. While Winne was not the main scoring threat on the Rubenstein team, he proved himself a thorn in the side of all opposition by his ability to bring the ball down the floor into a position to score points. He was as elusive as an eel and, as a result, paved the way for Ambridge to score from under the hoop. He proved himself a capable guard on the defense and an accurate passer on the offense. Much of Ambridge's success in the tournament was due to his fine play.

All members of the first team chosen by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will receive gold medals from the Fintex Corporation of Pittsburgh, which firm also will give Duquesne a trophy as W. P. I. A. L. basketball champion.

Triplett Cracks Auto Race Mark

LOS ANGELES, March 20.—(AP.)—Ernie Triplett, Los Angeles motor car race driver, established a new track record when he won the 93¾-mile feature at the Legion Ascot speedway yesterday. His time was 1 hour 9 minutes 44.75 seconds, bettering the old record by 1 minute 2.25 seconds.

Al McBride, South Park Pro, Getting Ready



OILING UP THE MACHINERY FOR A BIG GOLFING SEASON

Note the paint-stained jacket of Professional McBride as he oils up one of the grass cutters. He has been working steadily to have things ready for the big start of the season on April 1. The popular McBride has had 20 years' experience in public golf course, having succeeded his brother, Will, as the professional at Schenley Park.

TESTING THE TURF . . . . . IT'S READY TO ROLL

Getting ready for his third season as professional at the South Park County golf course, Al McBride, formerly of the Schenley Park Public Links, is satisfied with the condition of the grass. His new No. 7 hole will be ready for Memorial Day, which is good news for the golfers. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.

VETERAN COPS A. B. C. LEAD

COLUMBUS, O., March 20.—(AP.)—A general shakeup occurred among the American Bowling Congress leaders in their tournament here yesterday.

Johnny Martino and Andy Piraino, of Syracuse, N. Y., crashed through to take the doubles lead. They scored games of 416, 436 and 400. George Ahrbeck, of South Bend, Ind., vaulted into the all-events lead with a 1,956 total.

Ahrbeck, who has competed in 20 A. B. C. tournaments, shot 212, 202 and 223 in the team event, scored 240, 224 and 233 in the doubles, and followed with games of 192, 195 and 235 in the singles. He averaged 217 for the nine games. The leaders:

DETROITERS LEAD

CHICAGO, March 20.—(AP.)—Detroit bowlers took the lead in the five-men, doubles and all-events sections of the National Knights of Columbus tournament today. The Palace Recreation, champions of 1932, rolled 3,025 in their title defense. Joe Norris of this team took over the all events with 660-657-584—1,901, after warming up to the task with a 300 practice game.

L. Hamilton and C. Crygier, of Detroit, totaled 1,213 to grab first place in the doubles.

Sullivan, Coffin Win Squash Title

PHILADELPHIA, March 20.—(AP.)—Neil Sullivan and Roy Coffin, Pennsylvania State champions, yesterday defeated Lathrop S. Haskins and Robert Goodwin, of New York, 15-6, 15-8, 15-12 to win the national squash racquets doubles championship.

Both teams gained the final round as the result of straight game victories earlier in the day.

FERRELL SET TO SIGN

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 20.—(AP.)—Wesley Ferrell, star pitcher for the Cleveland Indians, is ready to accept the offer made him by the club, and will leave today for the training camp at New Orleans.

Ferrell was offered a contract for $12,000 at the beginning of negotiations, and turned it down. He said he had agreed to sign a contract for that sum, with a stipulation that he will receive a $3,000 bonus if he wins 20 games.

His brother, Rick, also a holdout, will leave today for the St. Louis Browns' camp at West Palm Beach, Fla., expecting to reach an agreement with the management after his arrival.

BEAUMONT, Tex.—(AP.)—Waiting until the last two innings before asserting their superiority, the Detroit Tigers defeated Beaumont's Texas Leaguers, 9 to 5, yesterday. Four of the runs were scored in the eighth, three resulting when Charley Gehringer drove the ball over the right field wall.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP.)—The three-hit pitching of George Pipgras and Pete Jablonowski gave the New York Yankees a 3-to-2 victory over the Boston Braves yesterday and their fifth straight triumph in the Grapefruit League.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—(AP.)—The St. Louis Browns shut out the House of David team, 3 to 0, yesterday in the St. Louis Americans' first game since the winter shakeup. Dick Coffman and Wallace Hebert not only held the House of David scoreless, but only one of the bearded ball players reached first base.

SARASOTA, Fla.—(AP.)—The Boston Red Sox were minus two pitchers today. Bucky Mahoney of Taunton, Mass., and Harley McNeal, of Ohio, receiving their releases yesterday. Bucky has had a sore arm and McNeal was too homesick to show much.

Veteran Athletic Scout Succumbs

PHILADELPHIA, March 20.—(AP.)—Michael L. Drennan, the scout whose keen eyes put the O. K. on many of the players who made up the Philadelphia Athletics' championship teams of 1929, 1930 and 1931, died suddenly yesterday. He was 61.

For more than 20 years Drennan served as a scout for the A's and became known to baseball men in every city and town where a league team existed.

SERIES RESUMED

The second game of the West Penn League basketball series will be played tonight in Social Hall, when the North Side Sliders engage the Wilmerding Y. Wilmerding won the first game and a victory tonight will clinch the title.

YOUNG HURLER CUB HERO

SAN FRANCISCO, March 20.—(INS.)—When the baseball writers land in a spring training camp it ordinarily doesn't take them more than a few days to separate the sheep from the goats. But the boys missed out on Roy Henshaw, the University of Chicago left-hander who on Saturday earned credit for his first victory over a major league club when he beat the Pirates.

When Henshaw dropped into Bill Veeck's office in February to get his final instructions for the Coast getaway the writers estimated him in one split second and immediately scoffed.

In his early workouts at Catalina he was far from impressive. But he listened to the profitable advice of Johnny Schulte who was a pretty smart receiver before he became coach.

Down in Los Angeles, when the Cubs were playing the Giants, Henshaw approached Carl Hubbell, Terry's great lefthander and one of the few portsiders who has mastered the screw ball. He said:

"I've always admired your pitching. I'm just breaking into the big league and I wonder if you'd show me how to throw that screw ball."

Hubbell would, he said. Moreover he did.

As things stand, young Henshaw will "dress" for the opener in Chicago on April 12. That is the consuming ambition of every chap who aspires to baseball's top rung.

N. L. Briefs

WINTER HAVEN, Fla.—(AP.)—With Gus Dugas, their new first-sacker, leading the way, the Phillies defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 8 to 2, yesterday. Dugas, who is "filling in" at first for holdout Don Hurst, had four hits in as many times at bat.

TAMPA, Fla.—(AP.)—The power that seems to dwell in the Cincinnati Reds this year functioned again in the Grapefruit League yesterday, but the Philadelphia Athletics discovered more, and won their exhibition game, 9 to 5.

LOS ANGELES—(AP.)—The tremendous improvement in John (Blondy) Ryan's batting form can be credited mostly to Manager Bill Terry, of the New York Giants. Ryan came up labelled a weak man with the stick although a fielding marvel, but Terry spotted a few things wrong with his stance in the first few batting practices and promptly corrected them. Since then Ryan has been hitting at a .350 clip.

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP.)—If the Brooklyn Dodgers appear unworried over Joe Stripp's protracted holdout, perhaps it's because they have two able substitutes in camp. While Stripp carries on his battle with the front-office, Max Carey has been using Jake Flowers and Bobbo Reis at Stripp's third base post, and both have been playing great ball.

Dark Horse Wins At Agua Caliente

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, March 20.—(AP.)—Midshipman, a dark horse in the Agua Caliente derby, beat Bamboula, the favorite, by two lengths to take the $2,000 3-year-old classic here yesterday.

SPIERS SIGNS STAR TALENT

By TOM BIRKS

Realizing that he will have to go out and line up a classy band of ball players if he is to pilot a winner in the City League this season, George Spiers, former minor league star, now manager on the newly formed Brentwood-Gillespie club, is busy signing up talent for the coming season.

Spiers' first act was to get a veteran catcher, so Joe Gruber, local pepper box who has played with numerous clubs in the league, has been secured to do his stuff on the South Hills team this season.

GRUBER SMART HEAD

Gruber has plenty of fight and is well acquainted with the hitters of the district. If the pitchers will listen to Joe, Spiers will have few battery worries.

Spiers also signed a veteran for his infield in Bobby Allebaugh. Bobby starred with the North Side Civics when the Salt Works aggregation was a power in sandlot baseball. A great fielder, Allebaugh was reported weak at the plate, but if there is a more timely hitter in the circuit, he has yet to appear.

Regis Aitken will be the relief catcher, while Erickson, Lambert and Barrett, who once played with Edgewood, will be in the infield with Allenbaugh.

GETTINGS TO HURL

Tom Gettings and Earl Stratton have been signed for the pitching staff. Gettings has seen considerable duty with the leading sandlot nines in the district. Tom is not big and powerful, but if Spiers can pick the spots for him, the former Verona star should be a winner.

In the outfield, Spiers has Harry Smith and Baumgartner, both Brentwood boys, and said to be excellent ball hawks.

The Dormont ball club will hold its annual pre-season get-together at Eddie Peyton's tonight, while on Wednesday, the Mellon-Stuart club will hold an affair at Motor Square Garden. Sandlotters are cordially invited to both affairs.

Lute Boone, former major leaguer, of Hazelwood, left town last night for Crookston, Wis., where he will manage the Crookston team of the newly organized Northern League this season.

Five district sandlotters, Steve Klim, George Dashbach, Johnny Deising, Jimmy Firrell and Lefty Masters are expected to play for Boone this year. Dashbach and Klim already have been signed.

COLLEGE SPORT PROGRAM OVER FOR WINTER

By JESS CARVER

The colleges' winter sport program is in the same fix last Thursday's shirt is today—washed up. The college basketballers, swimmers, boxers, wrestlers (thank goodness, we don't have many of them hereabouts) and those hardy souls who elect to disport on the indoor tracks have been waved out of the picture, to make way for the track and field stars (outdoor variety) tennisers and footballers.

It was a great old season, was the late basketball campaign, far more interesting than the boxing, which should be, and could be made, more attractive. There are entirely too many forfeitures permitted in college boxing. Maybe it's because the squads are small, but the fact remains that a good 10 per cent of the Intercollegiate Conference bouts this year were forfeited. In fact, too many matches were called off, the Pitt-Tech and Tech-Bucknell and Tech and Wash-Jeff being notable among those washed from the boards without a nose being punched.

DUKES TAKE TITLE

All the shouting and turmoil of the basketball campaign was over early. Here in the city, the folks gave up after the Dukes beat Pitt the second time and in the district, after Geneva took down the Conference banner and Westminster missed fire in its second tussle with the Dukes.

Right now, the boys are concerning themselves primarily with picking various all-star and all-opponent teams. The coaches of the Intercollegiate Conference have named an all-Conference five, with two Pitt men on the first team. Here it is:

First Team.	Pos.	Second Team.
Rosan, Temple	F.	R. Smith, Carnegie
D. Smith, Pitt	F.	Brown, Temple
Cribbs, Pitt	C.	Gudd, Temple
Hardagen, Georg'n	G.	McCamant, Pitt
Fergus, Carnegie	G.	Sortet, W. Va.

Then Westminster bobs up with an all-opponent team, from the district, on which two of the Dukes are honored, Dudey Moore and Irving Brenner. On an all-opponent team for the season, only Moore is named, along with Bud Laycock, of Grove City, and Cliff Aultman, of Geneva. Lazar, of St. Johns College, Brooklyn, and Deitch, of St. Thomas, hold down the other positions. The teams follow:

ALL-DISTRICT

First Team

Aultman	F.	Geneva
Avery	F.	Waynesburg
Brenner	C.	Duquesne
Laycock	G.	Grove City
Moore	G.	Duquesne

ALL-OPPONENTS

First Team

Aultman	F.	Geneva
Lazar	F.	St. Johns
Deitch	C.	St. Thomas
Moore	G.	Duquesne
Laycock	G.	Grove City

Bob Smith, of Tech, wound up the season with the best scoring average of the city college basketeers, with an average of 9.6 points per game. Irv Brenner, of the Dukes, was second with 7. 4, and Paul Birch, another Duquesne luminary, was next in line with 7.3. Capt. Don Smith, of Pitt, had 6.9.

In the near future, there is going to be a basketball banquet for the Dukes, the definite date and site to be announced soon.

PIRATES SPLIT WITH CUBS

PLAY BEAVERS TODAY

After meeting the Beavers here today, the Pirates will leave for Santa Cruz where tomorrow they will meet Seattle, another Coast League entry. From Santa Cruz, the Buccos will head for Los Angeles tomorrow night.

Waite Hoyt and Guy Bush, a pair of veteran right handers, fought it out to a draw in the first five rounds of the afternoon yesterday. Bush had a three-run lead over the Buccos in the second, but an error by Hack and Bush's wild pitch put Bush in a jam. Lloyd Waner's single drove in two of the runs.

Swift was so clever in the morning game in Oakland the Cubs could make but three hits, but one of these was a home run smack over the right field wall by Paul McCarron, Albany recruit, who also featured the battle by a bare-hand catch of L. Waner's drive. Hal Smith finished on the slab, the Bears making three runs off Smith in the sixth.

Chilly Sauce

Ten thousand San Franciscans and Oaklanders saw the Pirates and Cubs in their four contests. Almost half of the total sat in the 25-cent bleachers. A man or boy will dig up a quarter to see a ball game any time.

The afternoon spectacle of yesterday was attended by unusual weather. Visualize the prettiest kind of a May day around Schenley Park and you have it.

San Francisco newspapermen apparently were divided as to the comparative merits of the Pirates and the Cubs. Tommy Laird, one of the veterans, avers the Cubs have the greater power.

Cuyler, Herman and Stephenson may represent more collective punch than the two Waners and Lindstrom. Cuyler appears to be on the verge of a great season. He is probably the best all-around outfielder in the game.

Lindstrom injured one of his feet in Saturday's fray and rested yesterday.

Steve Swetonic and Charley Wood are slated to face Portland in the San Jose game this afternoon.

VANITIES IN BENEFIT

The Goldenson Vanities will meet the East Liverpool Merchants in a benefit game in Beaver Falls tonight. The game is being sponsored by the American Legion.

Bobby Jones' GOLF

By Robt. T. Jones, Jr.

Only golfer to win United States and British amateur and open championships in one year.

R. A. de Vare, of Atlanta, wants to know about the effect of swinging the hands straight back, on a line parallel to the line of flight. He writes that when he swings straight back his control is better, but he cannot get as much power as he can when swinging more around his body.

Bobby Jones

I always have favored a method which brings the club back well away from the line of play, around the body, if you please, because such a stroke has the advantage of greater power, without sacrificing accuracy, if it is executed correctly. The most striking difference between the expert and the good businessman golfer is in the use of the hips and body, and any attempt to swing the club in a more upright arc, straight back from the ball, is likely to discourage still further the correct use of these muscles. It is likely to produce a swing accomplished by the arms alone, leaving an important source of power entirely neglected.

BODY-TURN ESSENTIAL

But the moderate "flatness" of the swing which I like must result from a correct body-turn and not from manipulation of the club by the hands and wrists. Many players begin the backswing with a sudden pronation of the left wrist which whips the club sharply around the legs, opening the face very quickly. This is just as bad as a swing straight back, carrying the arms away from the player's body.

The initial movement of the club away from the ball should result from forces originating in the left side. The real "take-off" is from the left foot, starting the movement of the body. The hands and arms very soon take it up, but the proper order at the very beginning is body, arms, and, lastly, clubhead. It always is easier to continue a motion than to begin it. This order has the virtue of originating the hip-turn. It goes a long way toward assuring a proper windup of the hips during the backswing.

THE HAND MOVEMENT

It is so easy to think of the golf swing entirely in terms of the clubhead, and, after getting set, more or less painfully, to begin the backswing by some sort of movement of the hands, to start the clubhead going. Regardless of what this movement may be, it is bound to result in neglect of the all important turning movement.

The period of contact between club and ball is practically instantaneous. To move the clubhead back and forward, as much as possible, along the line of flight, means very, very little.

District glove aces are battling from noon till the dinner hour today in first round singles contesting of the annual senior Allegheny Mountain Association, A. A. U. handball title tournament on the courts of the Keystone Athletic Club. Twenty-four contestants are in the lists for the crown long ably and worn at present by the redoubtable Theos Manos, home club star, who is rated favorite right now to come through to his top honors.

Eight Downtown Y. M. C. A. aspirants, including the brilliant Steve Meyers, comprise the largest individual club group entered in the tilting. The Keystone A. C. featuring Manos, Curtis Clark, Parker Smith and Frank Koubek, is next with seven entries, while P. A. A. offers Al Bialas, Harry Kraeling, Vin McGuinness, Eddie Roche, Rem Houck and Harbaugh Miller as half-a-dozen accomplished representatives. Y. M. H. A., though boasting but three standard-bearers, must be rated strongly in the running with Leo Alman, junior A. M. A. premier, husky Dave Olbum and the powerful Dr. Phil Lapidus menacing Manos supremacy.

Announcement from Seton Hill College at Greensburg has it that Dr. John O'Loughlin, top ranking tennis star of Western Pennsylvania, will lead a team of local notables to the Westmoreland County institution for an indoor board court net exhibition Friday evening. Singles and doubles play will comprise the program. O'Loughlin has captured Westmoreland men's singles laurels the past two seasons and has established himself among the most popular racquet visitors to the Greensburg area.

Dr. David O'Loughlin and William Hutchins will clash today for the intramural handicap squash racquets championship of the P. A. A. O'Loughlin defeated Graham McCargo, 15-10, 15-11, 7-15, 15-7, and Hutchins defeated Frank S. McClintock, 15-10, 15-8, 7-15, 15-6 in the semi-finals yesterday.

RAILS BOLSTER STOCKS IN DULL TRADING

NEW YORK, March 20.—(AP.)—Rail shares lent a somewhat firm appearance to the stock market today, but traders again resumed the extreme caution which has characterized their attitude most of the time during recent months, and the list turned dull.

Washington remained the focal point of attention, and rails were evidently stimulated by indications that the new administration was working on its transportation program. Expected passage of the beer measure appeared to have been largely discounted, and the wet stocks were quiet. Farm relief proposals seemed to exercise some influence over the farm implement shares, which were firm.

Advances of around 2 points were registered by Union Pacific, Louisville and Nashville, Delaware and Hudson, and Coca Cola, while issues up about ½ to 1 point included Santa Fe, Baltimore and Ohio, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Kennecott, Case, Allied Chemical and Owens Illinois. U. S. Steel and American Telephone were about steady. In the motors, Chrysler receded a fraction. Corn Products and United Aircraft sagged about a point. Studebaker reacted 1¼ points to a price of 1½, reflecting announcement of the friendly receivership action.

Railroad bankers pricked up their ears at news from Washington that a delegation of railroad presidents had called at the White House accompanied by A. A. Berle, one of the administration's economic advisers, who is understood to be studying rail consolidation. Drastic changes are regarded as likely in some quarters here in the consolidation program. This conclusion is reached largely on the basis of the report of the National Transportation Committee, which urged regional mergers to avoid wasteful competition and unnecessary duplication of services. The outlook for the four-party eastern trunkline merger plan has become obscure, since it was designed to preserve competition.

Wall street began the new week in a cheerful frame of mind. Not in some time have the week-end advices of investment services been so generally optimistic on the longer term outlook. Trends over the next few weeks, however, were regarded as uncertain. Market analysts wondered whether stocks could advance further without a sharper technical reaction from last week's highs. Some thought the business statistics to appear in the next few weeks would have to be awaited for clues to the trend.

Further evidences of relaxation in the money market appeared. Call money, which renewed at 4 per cent on Friday, then declined to 3, renewed at only 3½ today, and soon declined to 3. The publication Steel estimates ingot production at 15 per cent of capacity, having regained all of the decline to 13½ per cent which occurred in the bank holiday week.

WHEAT CLOSES WEAK, DOWN

CHICAGO, March 20.—Persistent pressure by houses that frequently act for government-sponsored sources did much to bring about lower wheat prices today.

Trade gossip centered around the question of how much wheat from such sources was yet unsold, and on proposed farm legislation at Washington. A big decrease of 3,358,000 bushels in the United States wheat visible supply total failed to operate as an offset to bearish developments.

Wheat closed weak, ½-⅞ under Saturday's finish, corn unchanged to ¼-⅜ higher, oats unchanged to a shade up, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents lower.

MORGAN POWER DEALS UNDER SCRUTINY

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The Federal Trade Commission is investigating utility holding company deals in the giant Morgan power combine for possible evasions of federal income taxes, it was learned.

Outstanding among these deals is the creation by J. P. Morgan & Co. and Bonbright & Co. of the United Corporation, now having under its influence about 40 per cent of the country's electricity.

Evidence has been obtained that three days after United's incorporation a holding company was formed in Delaware. This company took over about $75,000,000 of stocks from United's organizers. Within 24 hours it entered into an agreement transferring them to the United Corporation in exchange for its stock.

DENIES JURISDICTION

The commission has found that on stock sales to United, as a whole, the bankers made profits, taxable unless brought within some exemption from the revenue laws. As to the $75,000,000 deal, specifically, its inquiry has been limited by a failure to gain access to books of the United Corporation.

United has contended it is "in no way subject to the jurisdiction of the commission. It furnishes limited information as a "courtesy." Commission officials made it plain, however, that further investigation will be pushed.

In another deal the commission has obtained admission that the United Gas Improvement Company, a major unit in the United Corporation combine, escaped payment of income tax on a profit of $9,000,000.

SECURITIES SHIFTED

This profit grew out of a fight with the Associated Gas and Electric Company for control of General Gas and Electric Corporation. Associated won. It brought out its rival's holdings in General Gas for $46,000,000.

United Gas Improvement formed a subsidiary to hold the General Gas stock, according to the commission's records. Associated formed another to hold the $46,000,000. Then an exchange of shares was arranged, giving the deal the color of a reorganization.

Vice President Walter E. Long of United Gas Improvement admitted that the purpose was to avoid the tax, and that the profit was not reported as income. He contended the device was entirely lawful. Judge Robert E. Healy, commission chief counsel, left the question open.

METAL MARKET TURNS QUIET

NEW YORK, March 20.—(AP.)—Fairly active buying of lead continued last week, although following the broad buying movement in the previous week, business tapered off somewhat toward the close. Prices were maintained, with sales said to balance smelter intake. Publication of February statistics revealed the highest stocks in the United States on record, reflecting smaller shipments last month than reduced output. However, this factor was apparently offset by the prospective seven-month shutdown starting April 1, by the principal producer.

Although copper prices were advanced an additional ¼ cent to 5¾ cents for electrolytic, demand remained on a limited scale, and at the close of the week first hands were again offering metal at the 5½ level after resale offerings had appeared. The fact that consumers were said to have sufficient supplies on hand checked buying at the advance. Export business was small.

Tin quotations were narrowly irregular. Zinc was quiet with consumers generally unwilling to pay the recently higher asking prices, although a fair inquiry was reported under the market. Antimony was slightly lower.

Steel Prices.

GRIPPING SERIAL OF A BUSINESS GIRL'S BATTLE FOR LOVE

CHAPTER XXVII.

"Won't you sit down?"

"Come over on the couch. I have a lot to say to you, Judith."

"No, I'll sit here. This is a comfortable chair." She sank into it, contriving a smile. "I'm growing lazy in my old age."

"Old you'll never be. You—you're the same Judith—"

He came over suddenly and stood directly in front of her, with a queer, hungry look on his face.

She forced herself to smile again with an assumed brightness. "And a few moments ago you were staring at me as though I were a ghost, and telling me how pale I looked."

He sank down on a padded "pouffe" and with an odd, despairing gesture, buried his face in his two hands.

* * *

"What's the matter, Barry? Has anything happened? Have — you had bad news?"

Judith's thought had immediately leapt to Loranda, to whom Barry was engaged.

UNHAPPY WEEKS

Her mind flew to those letters of Loranda's she had never opened, that were hidden now at the bottom of her locked trunk. It was within a hand's reach of where Barry was—the trunk was camouflaged by a Spanish shawl.

"I'm a fool! Worse than a fool! I don't deserve you should even speak to me, Judith! I've no business here at all! But I was weak, and —and homesick for a sight of you. I had to come."

Homesick for a sight of her? He cared . . . ? It couldn't be he cared, considering all that had happened . . . ?

"Barry! You mean—"

She couldn't keep the eager lilt out of her voice as, on an uncontrollable impulse, she leaned over and touched him on the shoulder as he sat with his head buried in his hands.

"I mean it's you—you—I didn't realize how much I cared for you, Judith—I thought I could go through with things—that other thing—but for the past several weeks, it's been hell—hell all the time, Judith darling!"

He raised his head that was close to hers, and with his handsome and unhappy eyes looked deep into hers that were wide with hope, and shock, and joy, and a kind of fear—all mingled.

COMFORTS HIM

"But — your engagement, Barry?"

"I know! I know!" he fairly groaned. "I've made a hopeless mess of things, and it's right I should pay, Judith—I'm a weak fool—but coming here I thought you might help me—"

"Help you to what?"

"To you. You're the one I love. I've been a selfish and ambitious fool—oh, what am I saying?"

As though he were a little boy, and it was up to her to comfort him, Judith slid her arm around the back of his collar.

Before she could stop him, his face was against hers . . . wild words of love were pouring from his lips . . . and he was madly kissing her.

Silence in the living room of the little flat, broken only by the swish of the rain against the panes, and the subdued sounds of traffic.

"Judith, it's spring in here. With you. What is that lovely scent you're wearing?"

"It comes from that bunch of lilac over there on top of the radio, Barry."

"But your hair smells so sweet——"

TOUCH OF JEALOUSY

"I washed it last night. I remember now I put some lotion on it—French stuff somebody gave me—Le Temps de Lilas."

"Lilac? You're like a flower. Who gave you the perfume, Judith?"

"Why, let me see. I think it was Jack Ordway."

"So you do see him all the time? I heard you did."

"He's a nice enough fellow." There was a mad singing in her soul—for Barry loved her!

He looked at her with a sudden jealousy in his eyes. It faded immediately.

"Judith, come close again. It's I you love. Your own heart can't deny it."

"No. But—I've had lonely evenings often, Barry—I've been glad to while away the time, going places with Jack Ordway."

"But now you won't, Judith. We'll go away—just you and I. We'll cut loose from the crowd. We'll clear off to another city."

"But—Loranda? Barry——"

"I can't go on with things!" His lips set obstinately.

And Judith thought: "How goodlooking he is! But I must not let him ruin his career—forfeit his promotion in the bank—Betty Graves' father would hold it terribly against him if he threw Loranda over—"

Those letters in the trunk? Ah! she could use them as a lever now . . . Loranda would have no comeback if Barry should read those revealing epistles.

But hold that back. Do nothing tonight. Morning would bring better judgement and a considered decision.

Tactfully, delicately, Judith asked Barry a number of questions.

UNDERSTANDING

"I was always crazy to go ahead in life—to be a millionaire—that's the only reason I traveled with that gang—deliberately tried to get close to the Graves and their friends—it was my darn-fool ambition——"

"I understand how it was, Barry darling."

"But now I don't care. I want you, Judith—only you."

She was in his arms again, and they were madly kissing . . .

* * *

"Barry, you must go now. It's after midnight."

Time had flown on golden wings—it seemed but a brief half-hour since Barry had walked into the little flat.

"Darling, I'll go. But tomorrow night I'll come back.

"No. Telephone me first. I mean, I have to think. We—oh, things can't go on this way! Loranda—we have to think of her, Barry!"

He said, deliberately: "Not all the Lorandas in the world will keep be away from you now, Judith!"

* * *

At 6 o'clock the following evening, Judith was in the bathtub when the doorbell rang.

Zella had not yet come home. Judith was to receive a phone call from Barry at 7.

He had begged her to come out and dine with him, and they would discuss what they were going to do . . . would talk their plans over.

SURPRISE VISITOR

"Who can it be?" Judith got out of the tub, gave herself a quick rub, slipped her feet into mules, wrapped a bathrobe round her, and went out to the hallway.

"Who is it?" she called out, not opening the door.

"It's I, Loranda Tewson. Can I come in?"

Judith's heart sank with a terrible premonition of trouble.

"Are you by yourself?"

"Yes."

She opened the door.

"Why all the mystery?" Loranda, in a smart printed silk dress of tobacco brown, a pert little hat on her golden hair, walked in. "Are you the princess in the besieged castle? Or is it that you and Zella haven't paid your bills? Is that it?"

Judith closed the door behind Loranda and followed her into the living room.

What had this girl come here for? Had she heard of Barry's visit last night?"

"Zella isn't home yet. Is there anything I can do for you?"

"Yes. Plenty." Loranda suddenly leaned against the green gate-leg table as though she needed support.

"Wait a moment and I'll slip into some clothes. I was in the bath tub when you rang," Judith said.

WANTS LETTERS

"No. Let's have it out right away." Loranda stared at Judith.

"Very well. Won't you sit down?"

"No. I prefer to stand. There are some things on my mind."

Judith thought, above the tumult in her heart: "How small her eyes would be if they weren't so madeup with blue past and oodles of mascara! And how thin and tight her lips are now—suppose Barry could see her at this minute?"

"Yes. Go ahead. What's on your mind?" Judith didn't feel at all afraid of Loranda.

"I've come to get back my property. You've stolen some letters of mine! I could put the law on you!"

"I stole no letters." Judith's chin went up.

"Genevieve told me they're hidden somewhere here in this apartment! She stole them from Cliss. You took them from her, intending to give them to Barry——"

Judith gazed in clear-eyed silence at the speaker.

"No letters of yours—so far as I am concerned—have been given to anybody, Loranda——"

"But you intend to! Barry was here last night! He stayed hours alone with you! I could get you fired from the bank for that—Mr. Graves won't stand for bad behavior in the employes—you'd be fired in a second were I to tell on you——"

SECTION OF SALT WELL

Salt is produced by mining from solid deposits or by evaporation from saltwater. At San Diego, Cal., and around San Francisco Bay and at Great Salt Lake in Utah, salt is made from sea water by solar evaporation. Most evaporated salt is produced from artificial brines, prepared by pumping water down to a deposit of rock-salt and recovering a saturated solution. This is called a salt well. From the center pipe, run to the bottom, the solution is recovered; fresh water is pumped down between the outer and inner pipes, as shown by arrows. (Badger and Baker: Inorg. Chem. Tech). LOUIS KOSSUTH (1802-1894)

He was a Hungarian deputy of cosmopolitan education. Inspired by the French revolution he aroused Hungary against the oppressing Hapsburg dynasty with fiery speeches and fascinating personality. Hungary revolted (1848-1849), declaring Francis Joseph I dethroned and defeating the imperial army in many bloody battles. Minor insurrections broke out also in Vienna, but were soon suppressed, while the Hungarians could only be defeated with the aid of a Russian army of 200,000 men. Kossuth fled to Turkey, then visited England and the U. S., where he was received with great enthusiasm and died finally in exile in Italy.

Unfair to Organized Amateurs

An incognito peruser wants to know why we are so sore at the noble pastime of contract bridge. He says we get worked up more than dough in a bakery.

We ain't sore at it. We're just mad. We used to play the game when it was parchesi. Then they switched it to euchre which was a splendid way of whiling away the moss covered hours.

It took us five years to figure out euchre. And just when we got so we understood the inflection conventions they changed it to whist.

Whist was much more difficult. But we took lessons from a teacher. We got so good we went into a tournament and finished next to the door mat.

Then they shuffled up the rules and made it bridge. It was almost the same game except it wasn't. We managed to conquer the 1900 set of by-laws and restrictions.

Our lessons cost us $45 before we learned to play. And $4,500

after we had learned. We were like the poker player who had the two farms. He lost one trying to fill a flush. And the second when he filled one.

After that, of course, they jumped into auction bridge. That set the millions of amateur bridgers back a couple of years.

Now, it's contract bridge. The experts figured that one out. They're so avaricious they wouldn't let a man warm his hands on the candles of his own birthday cake.

We haven't learned contract yet. But when we do around 1937 we know that the experts will dish up a tougher game and we will start all over again.

We want them to call everything off and go back to euchre. It was good enough for Washington and it was good enough for Lincoln. Try and think of two better partners.

That's the reason for our highpowered grouch. The experts won't let you catch up to them and you have to pay them 15 cents a quarter mile for the long, winding chase.

Revise Anti-Trust Laws

Changed Business Conditions Call for a Revision of the Sherman Act

President Roosevelt has electrified the country with his intelligent and courageous determination to re-fashion American institutions to meet altered conditions.

As part of this larger objective, it is to be hoped that the chief executive will forthwith ask Congress to modernize the anti-trust laws.

The spirit behind the Sherman act is out-dated.

In 1890 when it was passed, small and relatively inefficient business units were up in arms against the development of larger business organizations.

Nevertheless, in the last forty-three years, business has shifted to an increasing degree to large corporate organizations.

Big business has become a great employer of labor.

Under the stress of recent adversity, the identity of business progress and popular welfare has been made clear in the public mind.

The breakdown of prosperity for big business, as well as little business, has resulted in a deterioration of popular living standards.

Labor and government are alike made prosperous when business flourishes.

Accordingly, instead of being treated in the law as potential criminals, large business organizations should be recognized as socially useful instruments for the creation and distribution of weath.

Instead of continuing the archaic legal shackles which promote anarchy and disunity in the economic world, the time has come for a new deal which will permit scientific planning and economic co-ordination among the vast factors of production and distribution.

Needless to say, such revisions of the law should include safeguards which will make certain that workers and consumers will be permitted to share in the economies resulting from better cooperation among business men under the supervision of the government.

In the Roosevelt counter-offensive against economic paralysis and depression, anti-trust law reform would go far toward heartening the great employers of labor.

Perhaps the best suggestive formula has been drafted by Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts.

This provides for leaving the Sherman act and the Clayton acts on the statute books, yet giving the Federal Trade Commission the authority to approve any business contracts which it, subject to court review, finds to be in the public interest.

Revision of the anti-trust laws is in harmony with President Roosevelt's challenge to outworn tradition and with his determination to restore economic balance.

The Relief Crisis

Gov. Pinchot and the Legislature Should Stop Bickering And Face the Facts.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot berates the Legislature for playing politics and neglecting the unemployment relief problem.

He says the legislators are too much concerned over political jobs and not enough interested in the predicament of the destitute.

He asks the people to get in touch with their Senators and Representatives at Harrisburg and remind them of their duty to succor the starving.

The appeal would come with better grace from Gov. Pinchot if he himself had not been playing politics. But let that pass. It is time to stop bickering and face the facts.

Two million persons are depending on the state for the necessaries of life. The funds with which they are being supported will be exhausted in two weeks. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation refuses to provide additional money unless the state contributes even more generously.

Gov. Pinchot suggests that the money be raised by letting the Department of Revenue collect certain taxes now collected by the counties. He thinks the state will do the job much more efficiently than the counties and collect far more money than the counties could collect. The excess, under his plan, would be devoted to relief.

The Legislature is not impressed by the plan.

Something else should be proposed, and proposed quickly.

A Bullish Factor

President Roosevelt's Ability to Win Congressional Co-Operation Is of the First Importance.

One of the immense invisible bullish factors in the economic situation is the capacity of the new President to get co-operation from Congress.

It is difficult to exaggerate the importance of this new relationship.

Ex-President Hoover's inability to lead Congress along consistent, well thought out lines in the last year added enormously to the influences making for a deterioration of American economic life.

On the other hand, President Roosevelt's remarkable skill in making up his mind quickly on crucial problems, and his ability to persuade his countrymen to follow under his banner are unseen assets which will go far toward turning the scales toward a new and more stable prosperity.

Washington, not Wall street, is now wielding the baton which sets the pace for American business.

The Cut in Gas Rates

It Is to Be Hoped It Will Permit a Wider Use of the Clean, Convenient Fuel.

Following the example of the Peoples Natural Gas Company, the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company announces that it will reduce its rates for natural gas.

This is to be done in the expectation that it will result in an early and general increase in the use of natural gas.

Such a consummation is desirable not only from the company's standpoint, but also from the standpoint of the communities that it serves.

Gas is a clean, convenient fuel; coal is not. Smoke is a public nuisance.

Once Overs

—By J. J. Mundy—

Isn't it a relief to abandon that system of bluffing in which you have indulged for so many years?

It is no longer necessary to make people believe your income is larger than it really is.

It wasn't necessary before, but you got pleasure out of pretending more than you had and were.

It worried you more or less to keep up your bluffs.

But now, what is the use of bluffing?

You thought once that it brought you social prestige to seem to have a large income.

It took constant scheming and unnecessary outlay to look prosperous.

Since there has been a general reduction in expenditures for social position and self-gratification in enjoying amusements out of your class, you have come to see how ridiculous you were to those who knew better.

Some of those who made the most lavish display are the hardest hit just now.

With boast and bluff dropped out of life there is more real comfort in being just what you are, isn't there?

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 20.—Diary of a modern Pepys: An interesting letter from Boss Lord's son, Kenneth, and another from Daniel Frohman about some of the human rays of Dana's Sun. To a stationer's new shop and, looking startled, the proprietor inquired: "I suppose I look like Mr. Clare Briggs to you, too?" Which he did.

At my stint, and pleasantly interrupted by Messmore and Kitty Kendall phoning us to join them at Palm Beach. So, to the Robert Garlands, where came Dorothy Stone, Kay Francis, Jean Dalrymple, Cosmo Hamilton and Carl Van Vechten. Later, riding home with Fannie Hurst.

Dinner with Pat and Bob Brinkerhoff and Cecil Arden, the Lowell Thomases and Roy Chapman Andrews there, and, afterward, to Sigmund Spaeth's divertissement, vastly amusing. Home late, and, looking through the ice box, fouled a cut of chilled veal in a half dozen gobbles.

* * *

Idling near the new Roxy the other day, the sidewalk crowds suddenly tip-toed into one of those preludes to a celebrity rush. Primo Carnero's enormous bulk towered in the center of the group. As he extricated himself, and passed on, an observer, wagging his head, chirked: "Sure a mess of guy!"

* * *

Anna Held, Jr., has cast her lot far from the Broadway heavens in which her famous mother was a particular star. With her husband, Miss Held is successfully conducting a roadside tavern on the fringe of Peekskill. Here, in a peaceful setting along the Hudson, she lives in suburban simplicity, going to market, watching over a flower and vegetable garden, and strolling the countryside. Memories of her mother—letters and telegrams wishing her success and happiness—dot the walls of the inn.

* * *

I think of Anna Held as one facing the final adventure bravely. As a reporter, I talked with her a few weeks before her passing. One remembers her always for her large, brooding eyes, so inexpressibly sad. In her accents of liquid French, she said: "The best things in life are often late. So why shudder at death?"

* * *

Personal nomination for the best individual stage performance of the season—that of Lloyd Nolan in "One Sunday Afternoon."

* * *

The newest stage lover is Francis Lederer. His ability to charm is due to his old-world manners. Singularly adept at the sweeping bow and handkiss in meeting the ladies, his technique gives every lady the impression his life is a constant yearn to meet her. Off stage, he is a sort of clabbered George Jessel, somewhat a dowdy dresser and usually in need of a haircut. Neither is he a gallant in stature, yet, when he enters a room, everything comes to a full stop. All eyes are on him, perhaps it's a pressagent build-up. Whatever it is, he wows 'em.

Arthur Samuels revives that old one about the grouchy husband who, the second day of his marriage, complained there were only two pieces of bread on the table. He was a bread-eater and wanted lots of bread. Next day she had a dozen pieces, next day two dozen, and still he complained. Finally, she got two enormous loaves and placed them before him. "Back to two pieces again," he grumbled.

I have cupped an ear to all the bank reform suggestion. But what I crave is the return of the old-time banker, with side-wheel whiskers and detachable cuffs, who sweeps apple parings into the top drawer.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Respect your mistakes!

Does that statement startle you a bit? You've respected your successes; been proud of them. But it has never occurred to you to be proud of your mistakes, has it?

No! You've hated your mistakes. The memory of them fills you with regret and humiliation. You wish you need never think of them again. You try to cover them up with excuses and evasions. But try as you may, you can't forget them. Like a secret poison they persist in your consciousness—destroying your self-respect and self-confidence.

Don't let them! Don't let them weaken and waste you for another hour! Drag your mistakes out into the open, and face them bravely. They are an important part of your life. They are as important as your successes. They have taught you as much about life—perhaps, even more.

So stop trying to hide or run away from your mistakes. Face them with respect. Study them. Discover the reasons for them.

Oddly enough, most of the motives underlying your mistakes were fine, though the results were miserably muddled. You didn't mean to blunder. You knew you were taking a chance, but you felt it was a wise thing to do—a brave and decent thing.

Then suddenly, everything went wrong—and everybody blamed you—condemned you, as if you were a deliberate criminal.

You long to cry—"But can't you see that I didn't mean to do wrong. Can't you understand that I really wanted to do a fine thing, even though it was unusual?"

But no one will listen. Their sneers jam the words down your throat. You grow furious at the injustice.

Presently you find yourself despising your mistake as much as they despise it. You vow you'll never try to do a decent thing again.

And so that act, which might have made you a stronger, prouder person—even though it failed—becomes a hidden humiliation, crippling your progress.

STOP IT! Stop being sorry because you dared to rebel, dared to experiment. Stop being bitter because you fell short of your dreams.

RESPECT THAT MISTAKE! RESPECT YOURSELF BECAUSE YOU HAD THE COURAGE TO TRY, EVEN THOUGH YOU DIDN'T SUCCEED. BE PROUD BECAUSE YOU TRIED—AND GO ON TRYING. DON'T LET THE JEERS OF SMALLER, SMUGGER SOULS BREAK YOUR CONFIDENCE IN YOURSELF, YOUR CONTRACT WITH YOURSELF.

"But sometimes," you say, "my motives weren't so good and I know it."

All right; face that fact, too, and profit by it.

If there's cussedness in you, the worst thing you can possibly do is to try and hide it or ignore it. Drag it out! Look it over! Measure the extent of its menace as you'd measure the menace of any adversary. Face it and lick it! Nine times out of ten you'll find that even your worst cussedness is simply based on fear. Face fear, and it will vanish.

Face everything in yourself—good or bad, flattering or humiliating. Face everything in yourself and respect everything in yourself. Say to yourself:

"I've made a mess of things. But I didn't mean to make a mess of things. I was honestly trying to do something bigger and better.

"Then I'm not going to despise myself because I failed. I'm not going to spoil my life with remorse and embarrassment. Perhaps I'm a failure in the eyes of the world; but I won't be a failure in my own eyes. I DARED TO LIVE AND I'M PROUD OF IT!"

Text for Today

Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.—Matthew, xi:28.

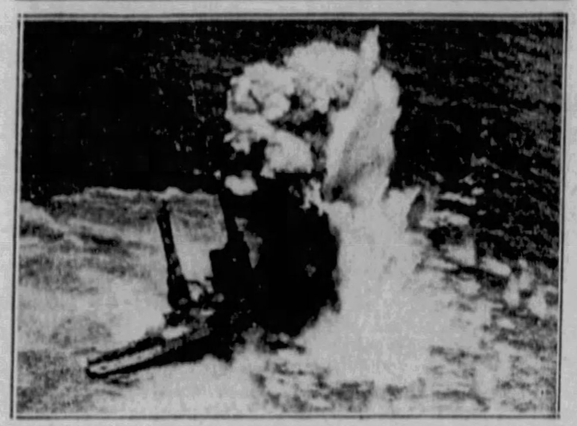
When a Bomb Hits

Your $50,000,000 Battleship Is Suddenly Worth Less.



TWO 1,100-POUND BOMBS DID THIS

Intelligent readers know that wars to come will be settled from above the clouds. The fifty-million-dollar battleship is destined hereafter to be only a first-class TARGET for airplane bombs.

Recently the world learned something about fighting ships and airplanes. The Dutch battleship "De Zeven Provincien" and its mutinous crew surrendered when a bomb weighing only 100 pounds was dropped on the deck.

One bomb was powerful enough to kill 18 men outright. Four others died later of wounds. The bomb injured 25 others and set fire to the ship.

This little picture shows what happened when two bombs, each weighing 1,100 pounds, were dropped in a "test" on a United States ship.

Countries that have money to spend for self-defense should spend it on fighting airplanes and fighting submarines.

Wisdom in Our Heads

If It Only Could Be PUT IN.

WHAT ONE ARTIST DID TO A COMPLAINING LADY

There lived in London in the eighteenth century a well-known beauty named Miss Irons and a well-known painter, Thomas Hudson. After he had finished a portrait of the beautiful Miss Irons and sent it to her she indignantly said it did not do her justice or make her beautiful enough, and sent it back to Hudson to "improve it." He improved it considerably, as you see above.

Saying that he would "put some wisdom into her head somehow," he painted over the lady's beautiful face a portrait of Thomas Mudge, shown in the picture above. Mudge, the portrait painter said, was "the cleverest man he knew, and perhaps painting his face over that of the critical beauty would improve her intelligence."

It did not.

It only increased her indignation.

This picture, recently exhibited at Exeter, in the Royal Albert Memorial Museum and Art Gallery, interests painters and all that care about pictures.

What a pity that it is not possible to "put wisdom into human heads" as simply as the painter Hudson tried to do it in this rearranged portrait.

Nobody can put sense or intellect, good judgment or knowledge into our heads FOR us. We must do that FOR OURSELVES.

And we can only do it by reading, thinking, studying, patiently criticizing OURSELVES instead of criticizing others.

It is a long (not a pleasant) process. Few bother with it.
